OFFICERS RETURN FROM TRAIL BAFFLED

Work Done so Smoothly That Not a Clew is Left and Only Conjectures Guide the Wandering stenths.

Lancaster and Deputy Affichach returned dorsed for nomination as state senator, last night from southwest. York county. where they had been searching along the banks of the Blue river for the train robber. who Thursday murning boarded No. 42 at this place and held up two Pullman coaches, going through the two ccaches in less than twenty minutes' time. The first report was that he only secured $74, but later information is that he secured at least $250.

Owing to the work being done so quickly and the stopping of the train by the obber one mile west of Bradshaw, at the exact spot where the team was in Walting for him, a large number here believe that the job was done by local talent. The fact that no trace of team and men, where they came from and where they must have stopped during the day and evening, lends color to this opinion. There were several suspicious characters in York the evening of the robbery. The description given of is $2,500, all paid in. The incorporators the robber did not answer to any of them, are all local parties. The purpose of the Night Watchman Jack Walsh says that he was at the train and did not see any party get on the train answering the deeription of the robber. If the robber got on at York he must have rushed on with the crowd into day coaches and in the confusion walked through unnoticed into the Pullman, where he immediately commenced work after putting on a small mask.

The Burlington officials notified all agents and trainmen of all roads and Detective Mallone, with hounds, is after the parties and is now in the vicinity of Sutton.

Bentrice Theater Will Close.

BEATRICE, Neb., June 29 - (Special.) -As an outgrowth of unfriendly and rather straight-laced municipal legislation, it now begins to look very much as if the city is to lose its chief and almost only place of public amusement and entertainment, the well known Paddock opera house. The Bee representative is informed that the present lessees of the Paddock building, Messrs. Collman and Scudder, have practically decided upon closing the opera house for business reasons. It is a fact that the opera house has been a losing institution for several years past. The insurance rates on the remainder of the building are largely increased because of the opera house being connected with the hotel building and with the scant patronage given the opera house the expense of keeping it up has been more than the lessees feel warranted in continuing for the future. It has been decided to close up the main Court street entrance to the opera house and transpose it into a the commissioners this week and presented

Another motive actuating the closing of the opera house is the fact that the hotel was recently compelled to close its bar for several weeks and then requested to safely within the law in changing the city move it to the street front, thus destroying the spacious hotel lobby and necessitating the removal of the business office to the second floor and utilizing the women's ordinary for the purposes of a business of fice. These annoyances and expenses and a recent ordinance requiring all bars to close at 10:30 p. m., a result of the late municipal legislation directed almost directly against the Paddock hotel and the additional fact that the lease of the present manager of the opera house has expired. has determined the lessees of the hotel building to discontinue the opera house al-

The calculation that the woolen goods business was large enough and good enough to stand anything is not yet justified. The market is growing unsatisfactory and it is no longer denied that some of the best works have closed or materially reduced the force. The demand for men's heavy goods falls much below expectations. With partially different causes the cotton goods market reaches a similar position. Depression in the market for goods did not prevent raw cotten from advancing to fo cents. The boot and shoe industry makes slow progress. Most local works have closed or are about to close, though western producers have a little better business than eastern. It is thought jobbers will soon begin orders for fall. NEW YORK June 25.—B. G. Dun & Co.'s
Weekly Review of Trade tomotrow will say
The country begins to feel seems of the effects of its new place among theiring the theory realizing, would point to the movement having been to prive at St. Louis to a war in South Africa and from sun spots to the relief of Pekin.

The long effort to hold nominal prices for iron at Pittsburg has ceased and the associations now recognize an open market, and while some have been stopped for repairs, many more will be idle for a time until wage scales for the coming year have been stopped for repairs, many more will be idle for a time until wage scales for the coming year have been stopped for repairs, many more will be idle for a time until wage scales for the coming year have been stopped for repairs, many more will be idle for a time until wage scales for the coming year have been settled with labor organizations. Neither official nor unofficial accounts have removed doubt about the wheat crops, and if it proves as low as one estimate of the company of the provided of the world's crop. Advices from the mortivest are of title more than all a crop of wheat, but estimates a to interest, because it will help to show how how the provided of the company will be seriously tested. Exports of wheat and corn were 180,000,000 bushels in corn in the crop year 180,000,000 bushels in corn in the crop year 180,000,000 bushels and the estimates of the corner of the provided and the strengthened position of raw. The war in the provided and the strengthened position of raw. The war in the crop year is the provided of the world's crop. Advices from the respect of production to the provided of the world's crop. Advices from the more than 210,000,000 bushels and the accounts have removed doubt about the wind the provided of the world's crop. Advices from the removed doubt about the wind the provided o result has been an advance of 15 cent on spots.

Increased cost of the raw material is not talanced by an advance in finished products. The contrary is, in fact, the case, because print cloths are 15 of a cent off and the prints are 15 of a cent lower per yard.

Reports from the iron and steel trade are as pessimistic as ever. Nominally quotations at Pittsburg are unchanged but it is claimed buyers and part symptoms.

Reports from the fron and steel trade are as nessimistic as ever. Nominally outstations at Pittsburg are unchanged but it is claimed buyers can get supplies from $1 to $1 lower. At other markets pig fron and burs among finished products are unquestionably lower. A comparison of present prices with those of a year ago shows that pig fron is little above last year, while steel billets, bars and plates are all lower. The reduction in structural material has brought little new business. While natural causes are unquestionably tending to limit production and a little quantity of business is at the same time waiting to be placed, some new element is evidently needed to dissipate the stagnation. The lead market is apparently an example of the readjusting of prices having been overdone, because it is now steady after two advances from the low point reached some weeks ago.

WEBSTER ON CONSTITUTION

Omaha Barrister Discusses the Charter of United States Before Colorado Bar.

DENVER, June 29 .- (Special.) -- Hon. John States Outgrown the Constitution?" Among other things, he said:

other things, he said:

Perhaps the most plausible argument for constitutional revision is based on the remarkable growth of the country. The contrast between 1787 and 1860 is marvelous and striking, almost surpassing human comprehension. Sir Charles Dilke has lately written a book entitled "The British Empire" on its opening page is found the statement that the British empire, "with its colonies, protectorates and spheres of influence, has an area of nearly four Europes and a population of nearly 400,000,000 people and handles one-half of the sea-borne commerce of the world."

lation of nearly 400,00,000 people and handles one-half of the sea-borne commerce of the world."

No nation can compare with it in extent of territory, excepting Russia. No nation can compare with it in extent of territory, excepting Russia. No nation can compare with its population, excepting China. No nation can compare with it in wealth and resources, excepting the United States of America. Nineteen centuries have gone by since Julius Caesar carried the Roman civilization to the Britons and for 800 years England occupied the first place in history. Now that proud distinction has passed to our new republic.

But the United States is the national wonder of the world. But a little more than a century has passed by since the framing of the constitution—but an hour's space in the calendar of time—and that precious document, the bulwark of our liberties, has continued to stand the test under all our needs and all our ambitions, while our population has grown from 200,000, to 75,000,000. Were the doors thrown open for the full and free consideration of a new constitution the many plans that might be proposed and the many changes suggested no man can foresee. They might be limited only by the numbers of such an august assembly. It was so in 1787, as shown by the Madison Journal of the convention, and it would likely be so again. This thought is strongly emphazized from the fact that upward of 1,300 distinct resolutions, containing over 1,300 propositions to amend the constitution have been offered in the national legislature during the first century of our history, many of which, if adopted, would have substantially changed the instrument to such an extent that its original would no longer as recognizable and one of which would have taken away the name under which the mither and the constitution.

Much has been written in contrasting the British and American conviliation.

an extent that its original would no longer be recognizable and one of which would have taken away the name under which the antion was christened in the constitution. Much has been written in contrasting the British and American constitutions. The central and ever present thought in these contributions to our literature is that the English constitution is an unwritten law of historic progression, growth and evolution and that the constitution of the United States is a written fixed and unchangeable, paramount and fundamental law. When the full truth is told is there not more of similarity than of contrast?
