We were entertained by friends of Mr. Jansen, who is a native of that country and lived there until he was 20 years of age. My observations were highly instructive. The resources of the empire seemingly unlimited, and yet the people are in a great measure benighted. Governmental restrictions are palpably detrimental to the advancement of industrial interests. Russia, however, is a little improvement in this regard over Turkey. In passing from one country to the other one can readily appreciate the influence of the government upon social and educational conditions. An imaginary boundary line can almost be determined by the appearance of things. In

into the German empire. Russians Need Enlightenment.

"In Russia there is great need for enlightenment. The people are afforded only cases, for I have the utmost confidence in it. that mental pabulum, as furnished through the public prints, which meets with the approval of the government officials. I saw newspapers and magazines in circulation in Russia from which whole columns of printed matter had been obliterated by the censor. It is easy to realize how warped the judgment and ideas of the people are as the result of such methods. One cannot wholly recognize the advantages of free thought and free speech until he is brought in contact with conditions existing because of the absence of such freedom.

While in Russia I devoted some time to a study of affairs from the standpoint of the stockman. Russia cannot grow corn, consequently that country will never be a competitor of the United States in the production of beef and pork. Wheat, rye, oats and barley are cultivated in limitless extent, although the Russian agriculturist leads a somewhat precarious existence owing to the uncertainty of his crops. Last year, an absolute failure, and this year there will not be more than a half crop. In connection with the cattle industry, let me say that the United States will always be looked to to furnish much of the meat consumed by all of the European countries. No country that I visited is capable of supplying its entire needs in this direction. The outlook meat certainly appeals to me as being extraordinarily promising.

"While in Pompeli I had the pleasure of viewing some beautiful pictures which had period prior to the destruction of that city. The pictures had evidently at one time adorned some palatial dining room. They represented fishes swimming, and the work bespoke the wonderful skill of the artists of that time. Art in all of the centers of Europe attracts more than passing interest from every American tourist, irrespective of his artistic temperament. The most prosale individual cannot help but marvel at the beauties reproduced by the masters, and in Boxers at Tien Tsin was received in Omaha every big city on the continent the art galleries are the center of attraction.

The new Furnas suction street cleaner did its first work on the Omaha streets yesterday afternoon. The machine was tested on Farnam street. It swept a space ten feet wide on the north side of that street, between Toenieth and Fortieth streets, to the entire satisfaction of the city engineer and other city officials who inspected the work. A guiter cleaner preceded the Furnas machine and loosened the dirt that was packed down near the curbing.

The purpose of the junket is to make inquiry into the most improved systems of suburban electric car lines in use The commissioners are thinking seriously of promoting such an enterprise in Douglas county, but do not wish to take any active steps until they have made an investigation. The board expects to be absent until early in August. The plan of suburban car lines through the county has been maturing for several months and has recently been stimulated by the Commercial club. The farmers are anxious for the improvement, as it would give them virtually the advantage of a city residence. Cars could be provided also for the conveyance of grain to market and the benefit to the agricultural districts would be incalculable. The towns which have been candidates for electric rail connection have
