SUMNER MUST WAIT AWHILE

His Wedding with Miss Bessie Coy Postponed Five Months.

LEGAL OBSTACLE PREVENTS MARRIAGE

aws of Nebraska Prohibit Divorced Person from Taking Another Helpmeet Within Six Months After

Date of Decree.

The happiness of Mr. Charles Leslie Sumner has been deferred for five months. Twice has his wedding day been fixed and as often postponed at the instance of Miss Bessle Coy, the young woman in the case. Miss Coy has now set the date for January after consulting with the clerk of the district. Mr. Sumner's hymeneal experience has so far not proved a success. His first wife, Juliette, did not in all ways turn out to be a congenial and satisfactory belomeet. In fact, she led Sumner such a life that he laid his case before the district court and was granted a divorce on July 7. When Sumner was freed from his marriage bonds he took lodgings near Thirteenth and Pierce streets. From the porch he could see Miss Bessie Coy, in an adjoining house, going deftly about her household tasks, and to Sumner, in his widowed state, the picture was a pleasing one. He sought an acquaintance with the young woman and, with a skill acquired in former sieges, speedily won her heart. The wedding day was set for Sunday. No word of Juliette, divorced and cast aside, had been exchanged between them. Sumner was a man of conscience, however, and on the night before the ceremony told to his new love the story of the old. The confession had come so tardily that an uneasiness arose in the breast of Miss Coy. She insisted that the wedding be postponed until next Sunday.

Yesterday the young woman appeared before Deputy Clerk Steere of the district court. "I want to know," she inquired, "whether a divorce has been granted to Mr. Sumner and whether I may be legally married to him?" She was a bright-faced girl, in dainty morning garb, and the officials of the office put themselves at her service. The files showed that Sumuer souri River Railroad- had been granted a divorce on July 7.

"According to the laws of Nebraska." announced the deputy, "no divorced person is allowed to marry for six months after the granting of the decree. That will throw the legal date to January 7." Then, as tears were close to the young woman's eyelids, the clerk added, suggestively. "I understand that there isn't any such law over in lowa. That's pretty close, you know." After a moment's struggle the girl
