NO DOUBT ABOUT CALIFORNIA

Republican Ticket Sure to Sweep the State This Fall.

FREE SILVER DEAD ON PACIFIC COAST

Business Booming All Along the Line and Everyone Satisfied with Proceeds of Old Comfort for Bryan.

John T. Bell, formerly of this city, more recently engaged in newspaper work in California and now visiting in Omaha, says there can be no question of California giving the republican ticket a majority of from 10,000 to 15,000. Four years ago McKinley's majority was less than 2,000. Many prominent business men of California have large mining interests and four years ago were under the impression that the free coinage of silver was something to be desired. The campaign literature and oratory of 1896 and the experience gained during the last four years have shown them the fallacy of the silver coinage. The great United States transports grant, Sherman, Meade, Hancock, Warren, Logan and others have become a familiar sight lying at the government docks in San Francisco and taking aboard tons upon tons of freight purchased in the primary department and the immense sums expended by the government on account of the presence of thousands of soldiers encamped at the Presidio. There is no question but that the local business activity brought about by the government purchases at San Francisco has done much toward reconciling even those who were formerly earnest advocates of free coinage. The best posted men of the Bryan democracy of California are decidedly lacking in enthusiasm, he says, when they speak of the outlook for California, not alone, but for the entire Pacific coast.

POLITICS IN NEW MEXICO

Republican Enthusiasm and Republican Strength Growing Steadily Says Judge Ben S. Baker.

Judge Ben S. Baker returned Thursday from an extended visit in New Mexico, and cheerfully takes it upon himself to wipe out some unfavorable impressions that have prevailed concerning the climate of that territory. A great deal has been written concerning the heat of that section, and one celebrated writer has declared that Pluto's throne was erected just half a mile from the territory. "While away I visited Las Vegas Hot Springs and Santa Fe," said Judge Baker. "I know the general impression in regard to New Mexico is that it is hotter than 'tomfort' demands, but the facts are that Las Vegas Hot Springs and Santa Fe are simply delightful as to climate. A person never suffers with the heat in the least, either day or night, and the climate is healthful, delightful and most pleasant at all times. In addition to this, the people are very hospitable and congenial. "While I was at Las Vegas their republican club, known as the Hammer and Tongue club, prevailed upon me to give them a political talk, which I did, appearing in company with Governor Prentice. The opera house was well filled and there seemed to be a great degree of republican enthusiasm and republican growth in that vicinity. Four years ago they were able to secure but eleven signers to a membership roll for a McKinley and Hobart club, but this year they have formed a McKinley and Roosevelt club of over 300 registered members. There seems to be but little doubt that Sol Luna will be nominated by the republicans as delegate to congress, and his election, if he is nominated, is conceded by the democrats. "The territory is in very good financial condition. Their sheep raising has in-

BOZANZA IN THE BEET CROP

Experiment of Raising Sugar Product Likely to Prove a Success.

DOUGLAS COUNTY GROWERS WELL PLEASED

With Ordinary Fortune the Crop Will Be Profitable in Spite of Inexperience and Other Unfavorable Conditions.

Unless unusually disastrous conditions are encountered in the few weeks intervening between this and harvest time, conditions which there is no reason to anticipate, experimental sugar beet culture in Douglas county is destined to prove, in spite of the disadvantages attending the adventure because of inexperience, reasonably profitable and in other respects eminently satisfactory. The ambition to demonstrate the possibilities of beet culture in this county has had its inspiration in the general understanding that as soon as a sufficient acreage of beets to make such an enterprise profitable could be secured for the immediate vicinity of this city capital was in waiting to establish a beet sugar factory in Omaha. It was with this understanding that a few of the progressive members of the Commercial club organized the Omaha Beet Growers' association, with a membership of about thirty and a subscribed capital stock of about $7,000 or $8,000. The officers of this organization are: President, John E. Utt; secretary and treasurer, F. B. Hochstetler; chairman board of directors, M. C. Peters. The active supervision of the operations of the association has been with Mr. Peters. Diligent promotive work on the part of this association has led to the cultivation of nearly or quite 300 acres of sugar beets in the immediate vicinity of Omaha, and South Omaha during the season and the experiment promises distinct success. The association itself has cultivated about 150 acres, of which fifty are located near Benson, sixty are upon what is known as the Parker tract just north of Miller park, and forty are upon the Williamson tract just east of old Fort Omaha. Small fields yield well. In addition to what it has cultivated itself the association has encouraged the cultivation by others of about as many acres more. The Commercial club of South Omaha entered into the spirit of the experiment with commendable zeal and energy and has taken the responsibility of raising about seventy acres. Small property owners have undertaken to aid the movement by the cultivation of beets in tracts of five and ten acres, running the entire acreage up to about 300. As far as can be ascertained they have met with uniform success, and if no untoward conditions await them will all realize a reasonable profit upon their investment and reasonable pay for their trouble and a good rental for their holdings. The small tracts are located around Omaha and South Omaha and are mostly cultivated by gardeners. At present the prospects are said to be very bright, but continuous rains might yet destroy or impair the sugar properties of the beets, and some apprehension has been excited by reports that a great out worm has been devastating sugar fields on near Hastings. Luckily this worm has not manifested a disposition to come this way. When the cultivation was first begun by the local association its promoters had a general idea of what was necessary in beet culture, but they have since learned a great deal of necessary detail which would enable them to effect a material saving in the same work another year. They have been under the necessity of hiring everything done in the way of actual supervision at the fields, and things have at times not been pushed as they would have had some one on hand who had a financial interest in the success of the enterprise. Thus much has been learned as to the best methods of preparing the fields for the seeds, of planting and of cultivation that would be of great profit in a renewal of the experiment. Expense of Production. It is thought probable that when the association shall have harvested its crop the total expense, including the loading upon cars for shipment to the factory, will have reached $10 per acre, which is said to be at least $10 per acre more than the same work would cost next year, with the experience gained by the association during the past summer. But even with some $1,500 of added expense due to inexperience the promoters feel that they are going to make a little money out of their venture, which will be very gratifying, as at one time they were quite sure that they were sure to lose a considerable sum. Under a contract with the Ames sugar factory the authority of that institution to encourage the culture, have agreed to assume all freight charges for carrying the beets from Omaha to the factory. That is, they will pay for the beets on board the cars at Omaha the same price they pay to the farmers at the factory. That price is $4 per ton for beets running 12 per cent sugar of a specified purity. The association figures that on its 150 acres it will have at least 1,700 tons, which at $4 will yield it $6,800. If the 150 cost $40 an acre, including ground rental, this will leave a profit on the beets of about $800. There is another source of material profit however. The tops of the beets are salable for feed purposes for stock. The tops and culls of an acre of beets are estimated by experts to be equivalent to twenty-five bushels of corn for food purposes, and a considerable revenue is always derived from the portion of the crop. The tops of the Benson tract have already been contracted to dairymen for $3 an acre, and if the remainder of the holdings of the association do as well, which is probable, that portion of the crop will yield $100. Estimate of the Crop. "The estimate of 1,700 tons for the 150 acres," says John E. Utt, "is an inside estimate, and I'll show you why. An ideal crop of beets would be where the beets would be eight inches apart and weigh a pound each. There are twenty-two rows of beets in an acre, each row being eight feet long. The twenty-two rows would be 1,760 rods, or 29,940 feet long. If the beets were but eight inches apart there would be 22,000 rods, or 352,000 feet. If they weighed a pound apiece there would be nearly twenty-two tons of them. "Now we have a pretty good stand of beets in all of our fields except about twenty acres of the Parker tract, while in the aggregate the stand is a good one. We have many beets that will run two and three pounds when ready for the harvest. But suppose we only had one-pound beets every sixteen inches apart, the yield would be eleven tons to the acre, and but a very little over eleven tons to the acre would give us the 1,700 tons upon which we are figuring as a certainty. Of course, if the beets run better than or have more than 12 per cent sugar, which is about the minimum of good beets, we will be that much better off. "As far as I can learn all the other parties who have cultivated beets around Omaha have done at least as well as we have. Some of them, those who have been able to care for the beets with the help of their families without hiring help that is too often neglected, have done much better. I don't think there is any question that next year beet culture in this vicinity will sustain a distinct impetus and that the acreage will be much larger than it is this year."

THE BEST REMEDY FOR STOMACH AND BOWEL TROUBLES.

"I have been in the drug business for twenty years and have sold most of all the proprietary medicines of any note. Among the entire list I have never found anything to equal Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for all stomach and bowel troubles," says Dr. W. Wakefield of Columbus, Ga. "This remedy cured two severe cases of cholera morbus in my family, and I have recommended and sold hundreds of bottles of it to my customers to their entire satisfaction. It affords a quick and sure cure in a pleasant form. No family should be without it. I keep it in my house at all times."

NEW BOND AMONG PRIESTS

Clerical Society Launched to Aid Those in Sickness or Want.

HELPING HAND IS EXTENDED TO STUDENTS

Youths Studying for Priesthood in Nebraska Will Be Given Material Aid—Plans for Raising a Fund.

The Roman Catholic Clerical Fund society was incorporated yesterday as the result of a movement which has been on foot for several weeks among the priests of the state of Nebraska. The objects of the society as set forth in the prospectus are to extend assistance to its members in case of disease, infirmity, disability or other necessity, at such times and to such extent as may be determined by the Board of Trustees under the provisions of the by-laws, and to adopt means for the endowment of scholarships for students for the priesthood of the Roman Catholic church intended for service in the state of Nebraska. The plans for the accomplishment of these objects are unique and effective. They were suggested by Father Colaneri, who has been prominent in the movement. Monthly dues of $5 are collected from each member and the interest upon the resulting fund is used to aid aged and indigent members. In addition to this source of income, a part of the principal will be used to insure the lives of one or more of the priests for the benefit of the society, the policies being on the endowment plan. It is estimated that this will give the society a fund of about $250,000 at the end of twenty years. At a preliminary meeting held Thursday afternoon eighteen priests were enrolled as members of the society and several more have expressed their intention of joining. In the state of Nebraska there are 140 priests eligible to membership and it is hoped to have a majority of them enrolled. The officers chosen to serve until the

QUEST FOR FAITHLESS SWAIN

Country Girl Comes to the City on a Hopeless Search for Barber's Apprentice.

Two months ago 19-year-old Sarah Lockey came to Omaha in search of Arthur Huddleson, her faithless lover, and her relatives have heard nothing from her since. The girl's aged father, who is a well-to-do farmer at Eagle, Neb., and other relatives, are much concerned over her mysterious disappearance and have sent Mrs. C. Barr of Plattsmouth to search for the missing girl. When she left home the girl was not in a condition to travel and her family begged of her to remain where she would have their care, but she had faith in Huddleson and followed him to Omaha, where he was supposed to be attending a barber college. Although Mrs. Barr is confident that the girl has become a mother before the present time, the records of the rescue homes do not bear her name and the descriptions of women who have recently left the homes do not correspond with those of the missing country girl. Thursday morning a young woman with a baby girl 2 weeks old applied at the Child-saving institute and asked to have the baby cared for, but was refused. The description given of the woman has led Mrs. Barr to believe that it was Sarah Lockey and she

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams of Manchester, Mich., says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, fainting, dizziness, etc. It is a godsend to weak, sickly, run-down people. Cure guaranteed. Cigarette Dealer Fined.

The first conviction under the ordinance forbidding sale of cigarettes to minors was had yesterday in police court. Joe Starnes, an Italian fruit and tobacco vendor at the corner of Third and H, was fined $5 for a package of tobacco to Tommie Morley and Henry O'Brien, two boys about 12 years old. A book of cigarette papers was thrown in with the tobacco and the boys related to neighborhood friends that they had come to the office. Officer Wasthoffer discovered them.
