BURGLAR HAS A BUSY NIGHT

Four Homes Visited by a Marauder and Two Robbed.

POLICE ROUND UP A LIKELY SUSPECT

Bunch of Tramps Brought in Contains One Who is Identified as a Man Seen in the Act of Hobbling a Horse.

The burglar was abroad in Council Bluffs Thursday night and made midnight calls at four residences, but only in two instances was he successful in securing any plunder and then only a small amount. The burglar proved to be no respecter of persons, as one of the houses broken into by him was that of Police Officer William Matlock. One burglar is supposed to have been concerned in all four cases, as the residences visited are in the same locality. The first house entered was that of John Aten, a carpenter living at 41 Park avenue. Here the burglar effected entrance to the house by cutting out a window screen on the lower floor. He had gained the dining room and was in the act of tying up a quantity of silverware when he observed several silver spoons drop. The noise aroused Mr. Aten, who, hastily donning his clothes, started for the scene of the disturbance. As he entered the dining room the burglar made a jump through the window. Mr. Aten ran to the front door, unlocked it and gained the porch just in time to see the fellow speeding across the hill. He gave chase and followed the man five blocks across the hill and down Fifth avenue. Not being in training his wind soon gave out and he was finally compelled to abandon the chase.

Chased by the Police.

A lone burglar was in the act of cutting the screen on the parlor window at the residence of W. E. Lewis, 14 North First street, when frightened away by the inmates, Captain Denny and Sergeant Burke of the night force happened to be in the vicinity and saw the burglar running from the Lewis residence. They gave chase and fired a couple of shots at him, but these only made him run the faster. He proved to be quite a sprinter and soon outdistanced the officers, who were finally compelled to abandon the pursuit.

The residence of Mrs. Meyers at Park avenue and Pomona street was visited during the night sometime by a burglar who succeeded in getting away with some silverware and a small sum of money. The family was not aroused and the discovery of a note and open window was the first notice that the house had been entered. Then the loss of the silverware was noticed by Officer Will Matlock, who fills the double duty of night jailer and patrol driver, discovered when he went home and attempted to unlock the front door with his latch key that the door was open. Investigation showed that the house had been entered during the night and all his silverware, mostly wedding presents, had been stolen. The contents of his little boy's bank, amounting to about $7, had also disappeared. The thief secured an entrance to the house evidently by means of a skeleton key.

Round Up Brings in One.

As soon as the burglaries were reported at police headquarters a force of officers was detailed to round up the hobo in the railway yards. Among the bunch of vagabonds was John Stout, who answered the description of the man seen by Officers Denny and Burke running from the Lewis residence and who was later identified by John Aten as the burglar who had invaded his house. Stout was said to have had a partner and another search of the railway yards resulted in his capture. He gave the name of J. Miller. Both Stout and Miller claimed to have spent the entire Thursday night in a freight car in the Northwestern yards.

An organized gang of chicken thieves is also at work in the city and a number of complaints of henroosts being robbed have been made to the police the last few days. Charles Campbell, living at Ninth avenue and Twenty-fourth street, had eight prize winners stolen. L. B. Huston of Seventh avenue and Twenty-third street had seventy-five prize-bred chickens stolen, while the roosts of M. W. Sunderland and T. Newman, living in the same neighborhood, were robbed of every chicken. The police are of the opinion that the stolen chickens were taken across the river and disposed of.

Impressment in Hard Luck.

General H. Buller is traveling under the non-de theater of P. P. Merriman, advertised to give a performance last night at the Dohany opera house, entitled "Merriman's Merry Misses." According to the advertisement the entertainment was to be "full of fun and frolic" and to consist of "witty dramas and burlesque." During the afternoon he gathered at the opera house about forty little girls, whom he put through some sort of a drill.

The performance, however, failed to come off according to schedule, due to lack of patronage, and the general occupant, a soldier at the police station, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses. He had sold tickets to the amount of $5 and a few paid for seats at the ticket window. The children were duly on hand, but the management of the theater wanted pay in advance. The curtain did not go up and those who had bought tickets from the general clamored for the return of their money. This he could not do as he had spent it. He had paid for his board at a hotel, had some advertising dodgers printed and when taken to police headquarters had only 50 cents left.

The general appears to be somewhat lacking as to mental capacity. He says his last home was in Pittsburg, Pa., but that he has been traveling over the country for some time past giving this entertainment. He claims to be the victim of circumstances and denies any attempt at fraud.

Claims Executive Council Took Wrong Course in Jones Fee Case.

SPECIAL SESSION OF FEDERAL COURT Will Take Up Routine Matters—Ward Writer Resigned at About Smallpost Stamped Out.

DES MOINES, Aug. 10.—(Special Telegram.)—Attorney General Milton Remley today declined to bring suit against Clerk of the Supreme Court Charles Jones for fees alleged to have been diverted from the state treasury to his personal account upon the "order" of the state executive council. He insists that the council overreached itself in ordering him to bring suit instead of requesting it, but he waives this information and charges that the council in the passage of the resolution ordering him to bring suit took from under whatever case he might bring against Jones all the ground and cause for action. He does not say whether he thinks this intentional or not.

The council resolution purports to rectify the facts concerning the controversy over the fees and in which controversy Jones claims that he has a legal and moral right to all of the fees which he has retained.

In reciting the facts the resolution said that the collections made by Jones were made because of the failure to him personally and had the state tried to collect them they would never have been paid; therefore, the resolution stated, the state had lost nothing. This, Remley insists, is a settlement with Jones which would be made here for a while. The action to be brought suit. The attorney general asks that the resolution be reconsidered that he be requested to bring suit and the facts be left to his own discovery. The fees involved amount to some $2,500.

McPherson Expected Home.

Judge McPherson of the federal court will be in Des Moines next week to hold a special session of court. This was the word received today by Marshal Christian in a letter by the judge from San Francisco on Monday. The judge expects to return home to Red Oak from his extended western trip the first of the week and will then return to Des Moines. At that time he will be held next week will be occupied mainly with examination and approval of the accounts of the federal officers for the past quarter. In addition to the matters requiring immediate attention of the court will come up the health officers are of the opinion that smallpox is being spread in this city and has been more than fourteen days since any case has developed and all persons exposed to those having the contagion have been released from quarantine. The limit of time for the spread of the disease from present cases having expired, the only way considered possible for further appearance of smallpox in this city is for patients to be brought here from outside points. This is unlikely. There are nine cases in the hospital at present, all of which will be discharged in a short time.

One screen, consisting of four large panels, was of the richest silk and most artistically and handsomely embroidered, as only the Orientals can do this work. It is an immense piece covering nearly an entire wall. The beautiful lawn was illuminated with hundreds of Chinese lanterns. The guests were met at the door by Hugh Platt, led to the doors of the parlor by Miss Blanche Platt, received by the mayor and Mrs. Platt and met the bride and groom in the handsomely decorated parlors.

ONAWA, Ia., Aug. 10.—(Special Telegram.)—The water in the Missouri river at the Onawa and Deater ferry landing is now the lowest ever known, according to the ferryman, who has served in that capacity for twenty-three years. If it continues to fall as rapidly the mail carrier thinks he will be able to ford it next week. One day this week a man waded across the river just above the ferry and only reached to his neck. The Missouri is a very small stream just at present.
