It was by the veriest chance that Cap tain Jack Glasscock and his corps of Cornhuskers saved themselves from a shut-out in Monday's contest with the Colts. As it was the Colts won a scrumptious game with a score of 3 to 2 and Roland Roach was the zero of the occasion. He pitched a superb game, was effective at all times and his sinuous delivery was solved by the visitors for only three hits, one of them being a scratch.

Roach was backed up by a team that played high-class ball at every stage of the contest. The only error that crept into the fielding operations was the one made by Cap O'Connell, which let in the brace of runs the Sioux captured. And this error was altogether excusable. It came about in the second inning. The first act had been productive of one run for the home team. Freeland getting to first on a force-out of Toman at second. advancing to second on Matthew McVicker's sacrifice and scoring on Faithful Lauzon's single over in the territory presided over by Collars and Cuffs.

In the second the performance began with Griffin getting to the initial corner on being hit by Roach. Glasscock flew out on a foul to Lauzon and then Niles rapped out a two-bagger, upon which Griffin ad-vanced to third. Herte slapped a mild one down to Cap O'Connell on third and Jack threw it home, trying to cut off Grif-The throw would ordinarily have been a safe one, but Griffin rushed into the bail just before it lighted in Wilson's open mitts and it shied to one side. Before it could be recovered both Griffin and Niles had scored. But that was all the Sioux were able to do. After that they went out to the music of rag-time accompaniment until the seventh, when the one, two, three time was changed slightly by Glasscock biffing out the second hit for the Sloux, but it was of no use.

Some Beautiful Batting.

In the fifth inning the locals began to do business at the old stand and the invincible Parvin was solved for a couple of hits and a brace of runs, which brought the score up to 3, a lead of one over the visitors. Roach got down to first on a fumble by Brashear and was forced out at second on Toman's slow one down to the pitcher. Freeland poked a safety out in right field and stretched it into a twobagger on the throw-in, while Toman skated around to third. Mattie McVicker took three slices out of the atmosphere took three slices out of the atmosphere and retired in favor of Eddle Lauzon. It was a three-bagger, both Toman and Freeland scoring. The game was won right there, for after that time notone of the batters got beyond first with the exception of Glasscock, who died on second in the seventh inning. All in all the game was a beauty fast at all times and if the big crowds of Saturday and Sunday could only have wit-nessed it there would have been many a downhearted fan buoyed up with enthu-siasm and delight. They were to have fought twelve rounds, but the New Yorker was forced to quit in the eleventh round, after McFadden had planted a right over his heart. The early rounds were full of fast work. Rose was the first to show signs of weakness and McFadden heat him to the floor of the ring in the eighth round. From this time to the end of the tenth the Californian held the upper hand and when they shaped for the cleventh McFadden was on the aggressive and went to his man and with a stiff right earner. Rose then threw up his hands and said he could go no further and Referee white gave the light to McFadden.
