Publie opinion in America is averse to foreign complications, while Russia has discovered that conditions are not propitious for her schemes of conquest. She lacks the necessary large army and wants the Transiberian railway completed before she can stretch her arms over northern Asia.

The powers must, however, retain their hold on the capital. Withdrawal, although not inconsistent with the dignity of the Washington government, would be quite impracticable for the others. CHICAGO, Aug. 20 .- With the selection of the foregoing officers and the choice of Denver for the national encampment of 1901 the thirty-fourth national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic practically came to a close today. The program as mapped out by the reception committee includes two days more before the veterans are supposed to return to their homes. Nothing in the way of bustness remains to be transacted, the next two days being occupied entirely in excursions, patriotic concerts in the parks and other affairs of a social character.

The convention was called to order promptly at 5 o'clock by Commander-inchief Shaw. The committee appointed to consider the annual report of the commander-in-chief approved of it, with the exception of his recommendation of an effort to secure the change of the date of Memorial day from May 30 to the last Sunday in May. The report was adopted.

The delegates then took up the vexed question of pensions. Over the report of an adjournment sine die was taken. this committee and over various amend ments and substitutes, which members had prepared, rather warm debate was anticipated, but the report as submitted by the committee was adopted without amendment and practically without debate. The main feature of the somewhat lengthy report was the petition to congress to pass a bill providing for a court of appeals to act immediately on the thousands of pension applications now nending and which court of appeals shall have final jurisdiction. Later in the day pension matters were again brought before the delegates by the report of the committee on resolutions on the subject of service pensions Over this question the committee was divided and majority and minority reports were presented. The majority report, which was adopted after a somewhat lengthy discussion, recommended that the whole matter be referred to the com mittee on pensions, thus practically burying it until the next annual encampment. The minority report, presented by Pas-Commander Hurst of Ohio, recommended the passage by the encampment of a resolution favoring service pensions based or

OPENS A BIG NEW BREWERY

More than 12,000 people wandered through the big new brewery of the Metz Bros. at Sixth and Leavenworth streets yesterday. It and the firm had asked the public to come sight for many years, standing as it does where it is one of the first of Omaha's big manufacturing institutions to be observed by the traveler crossing the Missouri river on the Union Pacific bridge. For more than quarter of a century the old frame buildings have been a landmark there and have pointed the way to hundreds and thousands of people going and coming through Omaha. This old landmark is now supplanted by a magnificent, up-to-date plant, containing all the latest machinery and improved appliances and processes for turning barley and hops into lager beer. It is a part of the material prosperity of Omaha, and the fact that it has outgrown its old quarters and is well started off in a most commodious and perfectly equipped new home is evidence that t has kept up with the material progress of the city and will be in the future a part of Omaha's industrial procession.

Yesterday the reception began at 19:30 a m, and the hospitality of the firm was dispensed with a hand that was more than lavish. All day long the visitors came, many prosperity the firm is enjoying, and many who were interested in the process of making beer and willingly embraced the oppor tunity to inspect a well appointed modern brewery, while some there were to whom the attraction of free beer proved irresistiminority and the whole affair was one of order and decorum throughout. One of the features was the presentation by the firm of souvenirs in the form of oxidized silver ash trays. Ten thousand of these were given theater-Evening prices; 10c, 25c, 50c; away before 2:30 in the afternoon, showing the extent of the attendance. All day experienced guides were busy showing visitors through the various depart ments of the plant. There is much to inter est a layman in a brewery. While there not a mass of intricate and delicate m chinery to inspect, there is much to learn the processes of preparing the mait, the bo and the treatment of the beer through the various stages of cooling, curing, aging, etc. up to the time it is run out for delivery bottles or kegs. All these were explained by men well versed in the business and the trip through the plant was made one of interest to all who took it.

That Corbett and McCoy are the cleverest exponents of the art of self-defense among the present generation of the heavyweights goes without saying and keen judges of he game who saw tonight's fight declare that it was the eleverest exhibition ever witnessed in the ring. Up to the moment that the men stepped into the ring opinions as to their respective ability were widely divergent. Many claimed, and rightly, too, that Corbett would prove to be the stronger as well as the cleverer, and it was through his superb feinting and heavy slugging that he put McCoy down and out. McCoy's friends all along have claimed that he was equally as dexterous with his hands, eyes and feet as the former DETROIT. Aug. 30.-Ogden H. Corbett in Good Shape.

In the opening round McCoy showed up to much better advantage than Corbett. Mc-Coy seemed very confident, though careful,

In the third they got to each other oftener, but it was in the fourth that Corbett began to take McCoy's measure. At times Corbett stopped his scientific work and resorted to slugging tactics, which proved very effective. McCoy was forced to clinch and it was then seen that Corbett was surely getting the upper hand. McCoy began to break ground frequently and after the bell bad sent them to their corners, while both

In the fifth and concluding round Corbet forced McCoy into the former's corner where the Kid kept blocking and sparring for an opening to get out. Corbett swung for the head, but McCov ducked underneath it very eleverly and jumped to the center of the ring. Jim rushed him across the ring and by clever work forced McCov back into the corner again, where he sent was the beginning of McCoy's undoing.

The betting just before the men entered the ring was two to one on Corbett. Corbett's seconds were George F. Considine Spider Kelly, Leo Pardello and Fred brother, Homer Selby, Harry Harris, Jack anything but a cheerful humor and when Shaw led her to the front of the platform Brien of Philadelphia and Bobby Burns.
