There was a vast contrast between yesterday afternoon's game down at Vinton park and the one on the previous day and, surprising as it was, there was a fair crowd out to see it. The contest Friday. so far as Omaha was concerned, was about as preposterous a burlesque as was ever perpetrated by nine men hired to exploit the fine points of the great sport, but it may have been a blessing in disguise, after all, for yesterday's exhibition was fairly corruscated with the beauties of the gamand it was difficult to imagine that it was the same team

The fact is the roasting the Rourke family received after the clownish performance of Friday at the hands of the press, the management and fans evidently had a salutary influence on them and yesterday they made a most commendable effort and fully succeeded to make amends for their shortcomings of the day before. And then, too, the little talk made to the bunch collectively yesterday afternoon just before the ball was put in motion by Grandpa Rourke may have had something to do with the startling metamorphose also. Manager Bill put it right at them straight from the shoulder, handing them jabs and hooks and counters with a fluency that defled sidestepping and the effects were apparent even before Hon, Mr. Grim opened his kisser and announced the assembled hosts the management and fans evidently had kisser and announced the assembled hosts to play ball. Manager Bill, rising from his seat on the bench to finish his juric peroration, exclaimed;

The very next man who attempts to make monkeys out of me'n Buck I am going to not only yank him out of the game bodily, but I'm going to throw 'in over the fence, take all his money away from him and keep him out the business for the balance of the season!"

And then the battle began and from the start the Rourkes caracoled about over the velvety sward like so many yearlings at an autumnal pumpkin show.

Suddenly there was a lull in the excitement. It came in the thick of the third Lewce ss... inning. And right then and there Papa Bill made good. Captain O'Connell's indifference to the situation at a critical stage, when the cold water myrmidons

You've played your last ball in Omaha. Take off that uniform and remember the Omaha club don't owe you a cent."

The captain was thunderstruck. He stoo speechless a moment, then essayed elucidate, but Pa was relentless and O'Con nell retired and turning to the press bor

Then Freeland was sent to right field and Baird brought into third and the game resumed its scintillations, the Rourkes winning out by the handsome score of 7 to 3 in as fast and pretty a game as they have ever been guilty of.

Newmeyer pitched a heady game, old Bill Wilson was Ansonesque on the first bag, Eddic Lawier brilliant at every turn. Toman quick and graceful and, in fact, the whole team about as near perfect as you usually see them. Score:

Two Incidents A lady well known in Omaha, while visit ing in the east lately, purchased an old heirloom-a grandfather's clock. She was very particular where she took it to be put in good running order.

It is Now at Copley's. Another prominent Omaha lady had a very fine clock-one that runs 400 days with one winding. She made careful inquiry as to where she should trust it to be repaired.

It is Now at Copley's. Do these facts interest you?

MISS GRISCOM IS CHAMPION Philadelphia Player Defeats Miss Curtis for Women's Golf Championship.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y. Sept. 1.—The final contest in the match for the women's national golf championship today at the Shiftinecock Hills golf course between Miss. Marguerite Curtis, Essex County Golf club, Hoston, and Miss Frances Griscom, Merion Cricket club, Philadelphia, attracted great attention. When the start was made Miss Griscom had the honor and she led off with a beautiful drive, while Miss Curtis did equally as well in distance, only she sliced ber ball badly into shrubbery, which cost her seven for the hole, Miss Griscom winning the hole in five. Miss Curtis was still nervous playing the second hole and she topped her ball badly, going in the long grass short of the first bunker. She was over on her second, but got into the bunker guarding the green on her third. Again it cost her seven for the hole, Miss Griscom winning the hole in six. The third hole, 24s yards, was halved in five, which still left Miss Griscom 2 up on the match. The fourth hole, the Flateau, 22s yards, was most admirably played and was won by Miss Curtis in the par golf of 4. Playing the fifth hole, the Bastlon, Miss Griscom drove into the bunker and it took two more to get out and Miss Curtis won the hole in 5 to 6.

With honors even at the fifth hole the

Mr. Frederick Hatter-

Says: "The new fall styles we have been showing the past few days of the famous Dunlap and Stetsons have, as usual, caught the fancy of the most fastidious dressers, particularly the young men, who are always taken with the advanced ideas in styles-no other hats have the same tone, 'make-up' and finish-consequently it is most natural that they should be the leaders in styles each season-the quality is unquestioned-the assortment complete in both the Derby and Fedora styles-So you will find no trouble in getting just what you want."
