

BANDITS ARE STILL AT LARGE

Poses Fail to Bag the Union Pacific Train Robbers.

OFFICIALS ARE GREATLY DISAPPOINTED

Outlaws Being Hard Pushed, However, and Their Escape is Unlikely—Were Evidently Experienced Men.

The capture of the five men who held up a westbound train on the Union Pacific last week at Bitter Creek, Wyo., has not yet been effected and local officials are much disappointed, as they believed that, with the early alarm and the immediate organization of posse, the robbers could not escape.

The desperadoes, however, have shown themselves entirely familiar with the country in which the holdup took place and have successfully evaded all of the officers who are on their trail.

General Manager Dickerson is still at Rawlins, where he is directing the chase, and at Union Pacific headquarters in this city the utmost confidence is expressed in the ultimate capture of the bandits.

Four principal posse are now scouring the country in the vicinity of the holdup, while any number of officers and detectives are keeping a sharp lookout for the men, the big reward offered for the apprehension of the gang acting as an incentive.

United States Marshal Haddell of Wyoming is in charge of a posse of twenty-five men, who start about the middle of the morning, and are expected to have committed this holdup and their acquaintance with the country through which they are being pursued, it is feared that they may have had previous knowledge of the many admirably planned ambushes and ambuscades the posse which overtakes them.

For this reason their capture is not expected without a fierce fight. Express Messenger Woodcock, who was in charge of the car that was dynamited and robbed, was also one of the messengers in the celebrated Wilcox robbery. It is reported that in this instance Mr. Woodcock used admirable judgment and when the train stopped, before the car was broken into, he took a couple of money packages from the safe containing $1,000 and hid them, leaving only a package of money containing about $4.

Weight is added to the report that some of the men implicated in this last robbery were also members of the Curry gang, which conducted the Wilcox holdup, by the fact that when the robbers broke into the car and overpowered Woodcock one of them exclaimed: "Why, you're the same fellow that was in the other holdup."

Two of the men who had a hand in the Wilcox robbery are still at large and are being hunted in this gang. The other four men in the Wilcox affair have all been disposed of, three having been killed, while the fourth is serving a term in the Wyoming state penitentiary.

Work of Experienced Men. Mail Clerk Prout, who was on the train that was held up, says the men were about the business in hand with a familiarity of detail that suggested previous experience. "They were handled up," he said, "so that it was difficult to obtain an accurate description of them. They seemed to be making a particular study of the details of themselves thoroughly. Their masks were made of mosquito netting or some thin fabric like that and they talked in a muffled sort of way as though they had something in their mouths. One man did most of the talking as far as I heard."

"I wasn't much frightened, as the robbers didn't seem disposed to kill anyone. When they ordered me out of the mail car I was a little slow in moving and they told me to move quicker, that was all. I moved quicker. They did not touch anything in my car, but they made short work of the express car. It took three explosions of dynamite to blow open the through safe."

"The man who stood guard over the train and engine crew while the men were coming on in the car was quite communicative and talked freely with his prisoners. 'Don't know how we'll fare here,' he said, 'but we did pretty well in the Wilcox job. We got a little short of money and came down here to get some more. This isn't the train we wanted. That went through about a week ago. The man who was going to stop it got a little weak-kneed and let her go by. He saw two carloads of contract laborers aboard and got a notion they were all right. We'd have done well on that train. But being here and needing the money we thought we'd tackle this one, as we were pretty sure she had some money in the safe. We don't want to kill anybody, but we may have to if someone gets smart."

HONOR FOR DEAD OFFICIAL

All Traffic on the Memphis Railroad System is Stopped for Five Minutes.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 3.—From 11:15 to 11:20 o'clock today every locomotive, every piece of machinery and every employee on the Memphis railroad system, from Kansas City to Birmingham, Ala., were idle. This action was taken as a mark of respect to the memory of the late President E. S. Washburn of the "Memphis" system, who died at Rye Beach, N. H., last Friday. For the five minutes specified every train, car and locomotive was held at a standstill, no matter where they happened to be. At the end of the five minutes traffic was resumed.

The funeral service of President Washburn was held shortly after noon, at St. Andrew's church, Rye Beach, N. H. The body was taken to Boston, Mass., later this afternoon for interment in Forest Park cemetery, where other members of the family rest.

STATION AGENT'S DILEMMA

Operator at Atlanta, Neb., Receives a Message Directing City Marshal to Arrest Himself.

The station agent in the little town of Atlanta, Neb., found himself in an embarrassing predicament the other day when he received a telegram from the police department of Omaha, reading like this:

"To the City Marshal: Arrest John Kennedy, horse thief. Used to run boarding house in Atlanta."

It happened that there is no city marshal in Atlanta, and that the entire constabulary of the place is vested in one man, a justice of the peace, named John Kennedy. He, as judge of the only tribunal in the village, acts as his own police department, his own court officer and his own jailer. The station agent made some inquiries and ascertained that Judge John Kennedy also ran a boarding house there at one time.

What was the agent to do? Obviously Judge Kennedy was the man wanted, but what was the use of delivering the message to him? It was too much to expect him to arrest himself, try himself and bind himself over to the district court.

The agent wired these facts back to Omaha and asked for instructions, but meanwhile the Omaha police had found their man—the right John Kennedy. He had been located in Oak Grove, Ia. The agent at Atlanta was told that he needn't mind.

WAR CLOUD RISES IN SOUTH

Columbia Preparing to Make Demands Upon Venezuela—Yacht Made Into War Ship.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—The Herald says: George J. Gould's famous yacht Atlanta, converted into an armed cruiser and provided with rapid-fire guns of the latest pattern, will leave this port at an early date, bound upon a mission about which the representative of the Colombian republic to which it now belongs, maintain secrecy.

Information brought by travelers returning from Central America indicates that the United States of Colombia, having suppressed a recent rebellion usually, is determined to call Venezuela to account for permitting the rebels to organize there and cross the line into Colombia.

The Atlanta, noted for its speed, was purchased under special instructions from the Colombian government on July 28. Since that time the yacht, which was built for Jay Gould, has been undergoing a quiet transformation in the Erie basin. From a luxurious pleasure craft it has been changed to a war vessel.

According to trustworthy advices from Colombia, there is strong popular feeling against Venezuela as the result of the recent internal struggle. Charges are openly made that Venezuela instigated the rebellion and gave aid and comfort to the enemies of Colombia. It is asserted that at least 1,200 of the rebels crossed the line from Venezuela into Colombian territory and that in the fighting that ensued 500 government troops were killed by the invaders. The total losses during the war are placed at 12,000.

When Colombia is ready it is said that it will ask an indemnity from Venezuela of $5,000 for each of the 500 soldiers killed or $2,500,000 in all. Additional claims may be made for property destroyed and also for the cost of suppressing the rebels whom Venezuela permitted to cross its borders.

Venezuela will also be asked to surrender General Sarmiento and his followers, together with two gunboats, captured in the Atlantic. General Sarmiento and members of the crews of the two vessels were thrown into prison in Caracas and their ships taken after the rebellion had been suppressed in Colombia. These enemies of Colombia are, it is said, about to be set free by President Castro.

All these incidents have combined to anger the Colombian government and populace against Venezuela. Besides heavy money indemnity an apology and guaranty for the future will probably be asked.

Venezuelans say that those demands will be refused and that if they are insisted upon war will probably result between the two countries.

UNABLE TO HIRE PLUMBER

Board of Education Has Trouble in Getting Necessary Repairs Made.

The Board of Education has been unable to hire a plumber to work in the school buildings at the regular price paid journeymen plumbers. Although no provision was made for paying the wages demanded by master plumbers there were several pieces of work that had to be done and small emergency contracts were let. The plumbing in all the buildings is now in such condition that it will not need attention for some time. The board has so much work that it feels that it should be allowed to hire plumbers at the rates paid by master plumbers and hopes to make such an arrangement with the union.

Not Sold in Paris

If you are going to the World's fair at Paris this year you should by all means take with you a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough, Chills and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is not sold in Paris and is almost certain to be needed on the trip. After you have called in a French physician and paid him for his services and paid for the medicine he prescribes you will realize how much a little bottle of this remedy is worth when you are 1,000 miles or more from home and among strangers.

Light-Footed Burglar Makes Early Morning Call at Franck Hotel.

PROWLERS DISTURB RESIDENCE DISTRICT

Screen is Cut from Window of Harney Street House and Robber is Paid for His Trouble—Police Round Up Suspects.

Four burglaries were committed in the city Saturday night, and if one burglar did all the work his night's labor netted him $146.20. Of this, guests of the Franck hotel, Sixth and Chicago streets, lost $109. The remainder was picked up in the residence districts.

It must have been early Sunday morning that a prowler entered the Franck hotel and by means of skeleton keys admitted himself to seven sleeping apartments, each of which he ransacked. From four of these rooms, however, nothing of value was taken. The burglar moved so stealthily that the guests were not aroused.

Entering the room of O. F. Young, the thief searched his clothing and took $84 from his trousers' pocket. William Kelso of Cozad, Neb., who was sleeping across the hall, suffered the loss of $29 and Mrs. Mildred Brown, manager of the hotel, contributed $5 toward swelling the burglar's revenue.

While the marauder was making his rounds Walter Cook, the night clerk, was sleeping on a cot in the hall on the ground floor. He says he heard no unusual sounds.

Residences Are Ransacked. About the same time a burglar cut the screen out of a rear window of 2465 Harney street, where lives Harry Hagen, a bartender. Crawling through the opening in this mode, the thief entered Hagen's bedroom, searched his clothing and stole $29 from his trousers' pocket.

At the house of John B. McDonald, 502 South Twenty-fourth avenue, the thief secured scarcely enough to pay for the trouble of prying up the kitchen window. He stole two fancy chain pocketbooks, such as women carry, but they contained an aggregate sum of only 20 cents. The bulk had been supplied by cooking recipes, prescriptions and memoranda.

While Mrs. Kate Forton was asleep in her room at 102 South Thirtieth street a sneak thief entered by turning the key on the inside with a pair of nippers. He secured $8 and a gold watch.

The police have made several arrests, and suspicious characters are being rounded up in large numbers.
