ITS CAMPAIGN CRY IS MISLEADING

George D. Meiklejohn Addresses,

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Sept. 22.—(Special Telegram.)—The republican campaign was opened in Hall county tonight by an excellent address by Hon. George D. Meiklejohn ansistant secretary of war. Nebraska's simple of the first of surface and they allowed to empark of the first of the difficulty of the first of

The leaders of the democratic party real-ize that naturally and in the regular order of things the citizen is afraid to trust the democratic party and democratic politicians with place and power and to put the affairs of the nation into their charge and keeping.

In order to overcome this widespread aversion it is necessary to make the people believe that there is a greater danger in store for them than to endure another democratic administration. It will be a believe that there is a greater danger in store for them than to endure another democratic administration. It will we a difficult task, however, to make men and women who lived under the last democratic administration believe this. Most unwillingly they are obliged to admit that the republican party has done what it promised to do; that McKinley was the "advance agent of prosperity;" that it was "better to open the milis to the workmen of America than to open the milis to the silver of the world;" that the republican plan for restoring prosperity is successful.

What is meant by "imperialism?" My friends, the only thing it means today is that those who raise this cry want office, it is the cry of a forlorn hope, of a baffled desire. It is an old, worn-out cry in American politics. Whenever we have had a particularly able president and administration; whenever the policies of the party in power have benefited the people and we were prosperous and happy; whenever the opposition could find nothing to criticise, this cry has been raised by the party which was out and wanted to get in. When there was nothing to complain of at home, nothing in sight which they could condemn, when the people were satisfied and the president was popular, then the opposition has always set up the cry that the president was about to abuse the confidence placed in him by the people and change this republic into a despotism, use the army to perpetuate himself in office and power, or had contracted a secret alliance with some foreign nation to overthrow this government.

Washington was charged with having an ambition to be a king. John Adams was charged with the same ambition, and to accomplish it was said to have entered into a secret alliance with England. The same charge was made against Thomas Jefferson. James Madison engaged in actual war with England and theoretical war with France, both at the same time, but the cry was raised against him. The cry of "imperialism" was heard by Andrew Jackson every day he was in office. Abraham Lincoln heard this cry of "imperialism" above the roar of battle and the clash of armies. The great patriot, soldier and statesman—Grant—whom all the world for ages yet to come will venerate and honor, some foreign nation to overthrow this gov-

But, my friends, often as this cry has been raised, it has never been effective. The American people were not raised in the woods to be scared by an owl. They know that they possess the power of government and no one man or set of men, no nation on earth or power thereof can take it from them, and when any political office-seeker comes around and tells them that his opponent is going to prevent them or their children from celebrating the Fourth of July, even the children "give him the laugh."

Concerning Aguinaldo.

Concerning Aguinaldo.

Concerning Aguinaldo.

The democrats say we should offer Aguinaldo and his followers an opportunity to establish an independent government under a protectorate.

Is there any evidence that such an offer is acceptable to Aguinaldo and the Tagalos? None whatever. But if the offer should be accepted, what would be the result? If an independent government should be established, it would have the right to occupy the cittes and harbors, fortify them and man the works with its own soldiers, levy taxes and collect customs and use the money to buy guns and munitions of warfare in the open markets of the world. Such government would have the right to exercise all powers of government relating to internal or domestic affairs, and, having down so and secured all colgas of vantage, how long would it be before the "foreign devils" constituting the protectorate would be ordered to feel jubliant, as the work of building up the club has not thoroughly commenced as yet. Sufficient funds have already been raised for a flambeau marching club, which will start with its drill work next week.

A DAILY NUISANCE.

A Simple Remedy Which Will Interest Catarrh Sufferers.

In its earlier stages catarrh is more of a to the stomach and intestines. Catarrh is essentially a disease of the mucous membrane, the local symptoms being a profuse discharge of mucus, stoppage of the nostrils, irritation in throat, causing coughing, sneezing, gagging and frequent clearings of the throat and head.

The usual treatment by local douches, anuffs, salves, etc., often gives temporary relief, but anything like a cure can only be obtained by a treatment which removes the catarrhal taint from the blood and the disappearance of the inflammation from the

A new remedy which meets these requirements and which so far has been remarkably successful in curing catarrh is Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

These tablets act upon the blood and mucous membranes only. They can hardly be called a secret patent medicine as they are composed of such valuable remedies as Sanguinaria, Hydrastin, Eucalyptol and simflar cleansing antiseptics, which cure by eliminating from the blood and mucous surfaces the catarrhal poison.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are large, pleasant tasting lozenges taken internally, allowing them to dissolve slowly in the mouth. in this way they reach the throat, fauces and the entire alimentary canal.

If desired, they may also be dissolved in water and used as a douche, in addition to County fair and it was one of the best day. Dr. Bement states "that the internal treatment for catarrh is rapidly taking the place of the old plan of douching, and local application and further says that probably the best and certainly the safest remedy at present on the market is Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, as no secret is made of their composition and all the really efficient remedies for catarrh are cotained in this tablet."

To Women who Work.

What tragedy for the wage-earning woman is hidden beneath the words "I am not well enough to work"!

Every penny of her slender income is needed for the necessaries of life for herself and others. Seldom, indeed, is it that the girl or woman who works in a factory, or in some business office or store, has merely herself to support. Nearly always there is an invalid mother or sister, perhaps a brother or father.

She taxes her endurance, therefore, to the last limit before giving up.

She knows her place will be filled by some one else. She has no money laid up. Her wages have been insufficient for her pressing needs, and she has spent money on doctors, trying to keep at work and hold her place.

But it's no use-she has reached the limit. In her fight with female troubles she has come off second best, as myriads of women have before her.

What will happen, now that she has lost her place and has broken down in health?

These heart-stirring stories are being lived all around us in large cities, and every one of them might have been a story of health and energy, if the young woman had but written to Mrs. Pinkham when she first felt ill. She would have been told just how to make herself well and strong, as many other women have, and this advice would have cost her nothing.

And it is not alone in factories and business places that women are forced to give up on account of ill health. It is quite as often the woman who does her own work at home. This means, generally, doing the work for a household of seven or eight.

She also compels herself to attend to the daily round of duties when she ought to be in bed, and does not know where to look for that reliable help that will put her on her feet and stop those awful aches and pains.

The sure help for all ailing women, who work at home or elsewhere, is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Women who have used it testify to this with one
