Every one in need of a new umbrella should prepare themselves now for rainy winter weather and the designs in umorella handles even justify extravagance. A black silk covering and a silver grip is the nicest combination, for in silver the novel designs are unusually nice. An artistically wrought caduceus, a figure of Daphne being metamorphosed into laurel tree, a shaft curved and wrought in somewhat the shape of a bishop's pastoral staff, have, with scores of other and equally interesting designs, all in silver, come to take the place of the tawdry gilded, jeweled, painted porcelain and crystal handles, which for the past few seasons have commanded the greatest popularity.

It remains to be seen whether womankind, admittedly "uncertain, coy and hard to please,' 'will take kindly to the little Eton jackets which the thoughtful manufacturers are making to sell with the flan nel blouses they provide. Now, why should not those jackets, cut like boleros, with revers, be popular? A flannel blouse is a very comfortable garment to wear under a heavy winter coat, but on coming indoors on a cold day and removing one's heavy wrap there is, for a sensitive person, a momentary sensation of chill which often ends to a cold. This is because the flannel garment does not fit close to the body and here the tiny jacket should be of great advantage. It is just the color of the blouse upon which it is slipped; it is lined with silk; it has no collar and its sleeves come only to the elbow; and, moreover, when it is donned it gives the sometimes slouchy-looking blouse a tidy and decorative appearance. However, the fate of this little Eton hangs still in the balance, though the shirt waist makers are showing them in every color of flannel and

In Germany the government takes a hand in the servant girl problem, as it does in almost everything else, and it has succeeded in partially solving at least one phase of the difficulty. "I'M IN A HURRY!" "I HAVEN'T TIME!"

BU MARGARET L. BRIGGS.

CALL RIGHTS RESERVED.)

Did you ever think how often you hear the expression "I'm in a burry" small wavy, highwayman capelets spreading out on the shoulders. Down the front of there must be no delay in any of these prettier than the crests and initials and were willing to be, she began to suspect that people, especially some women, rush through life? The more trivial the incidents the greater the baste. It is perhaps natural that women who live our their lives at home attending to their household should regard the small matters of every day as fit occasions for haste, but it certainly has its hu morous side when one has been buffered by real events in the world.

The woman who takes things at home with such seriousness is always nervous woman, and no amount of coaxing will get her to let up in her feverish haste to get things done on time. It's hurry to get up in the morning, hurry to get breakfast, hurry to wash dishes, to sweep, to dust, to sew, The girl only remained a couple of weeks. to bake. "If you want anything of me you'll have to be quick, for I'm in a hurry." This is the refrain she sings all day long.

It's an awful trial to such a woman to have for a husband a deliberate fellow who usually arrives on time, but never appears to hustle. But I wonder what happens in homes where both husband and wife have the same annition. I doubt if there are many such homes, for this haste habit is distinctly a feminine specialty and has a logical cause in a nervous condition. which in turn results usually from uterine derangement.

How often have you heard it said of one of these thin, nervous women, who has finally succumbed to the grim destroyer, "Poor soul, she's over her harry now." And you actually begin to wonder how she found time to die, for she was always saying she "hadn't time to be sick."

Such women would either laugh or get angry if you told them that their excessive hurry was a symptom of disease. They would suggest that they left a good deal of work behind them any way, and it might be a good plan if more people had the same kind of disease.

These women do their work "by the hardest" and do unnecessary things all the time. Their judgment is faulty at all points. To accomplish trivial tasks they boldly jeopardize health and harmony, and happiness. Their efforts at comfort and pleasure are mixed up with worry for fear something "isn't going just right." They completely fail to understand how to get the good out of life, and when the real cause of their unhealthy activity declares itself they are sick women. They have really worried their lives away and have accomplished nothing for themselves or others. You could not make a woman of this stamp take medicine for her nervousness, yet if ever a woman needed Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound it is this misguided soul who "has no time."

"Her stock argument is, "Who'll do these things if I don't? Look nice. wouldn't it, if dust was an inch deep all over the furniture and all the clothes in the middle of the floor?"

You'll find such a woman "hasn't time" to keep her person scrupulously clean, that her teeth frequently go unbrushed for the same reason. Her personal appearance, too, is secondary to her duties. In fact, she "hasn't time" to wear her clothes if she buys them, or to make them if she does it herself.

It looks impossible to convince this woman of the error of her ways; but it's a pity, for there are many such women.

If some one who had influence with her would induce her to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on one pretext or another, and see to it that she found "time" to take it regularly for a while, this woman's netyous strain of haste would relax and presently she would begin to take an interest in something beside getting useless things done. This medicine of Mrs. Pinkham's is the true help for every woman whose nerves are in any way abnormal.

Why need women wait until they are physical wrecks with long neglected female troubles? Why not get some good out of life by finding "time" to pay attention to health?

It is absolutely barmiess to the most delicate skin.

The marvellous improvement after a few applications is most apparent, for the sew applications is most apparent. For the akin becomes as nature intended it should be, smooth, clear and white, free from every impurity and blemish. It cannot fall, for its action is such that it draws the impurities out of the skin, and does not cover them up, and is invisible during use. This is the only thorough and permanent way.

This is the only thorough and person way.

During this month, I will offer to all a trial bottle of my world renowned Face Bleach, sufficient to show that it is all that I claim for it, and any reader of this can send me 25 cents in stamps or silver, and I will send the trial bottle, securely packed in plain wrapper, sesied, all charges prepaid.
