

BURN AN AMERICAN FLAG

Fusionists of Irene, South Dakota, Outrage the Emblem of Liberty.

BANNER WAS A RELIC OF CIVIL WAR

Property of Mayor Frye Which was Strung Across the Street is Set on Fire While a Republican Meeting is in Progress.

SIoux FALLS, S. D., Nov. 6.—(Special Telegram.)—After spending a long campaign in trying to impress upon the people their reverence for the sacred honor of the constitution and the fusionists of Irene, S. D., indignantly burned a large American flag at that place last night. The outrage was reported by Colonel Melvin Grayson, who returned this morning from that town, where he made a speech for the republicans last night.

DECISION OF JUDGE CARLAND

Request for New Trial in South Dakota Land Case is Denied.

SIoux FALLS, S. D., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—The struggle for possession of nearly 100 acres of valuable land within the incorporated limits of the city of Chamberlain, S. D., which has been in progress before the federal land department for many years, has taken an unexpected turn. The claimants of the land are Captain Henry J. King, who made a homestead entry on the tract, and a number of townsite claimants who claim the land under the federal townsite laws. After a fight lasting for years before the land department a patent to the land was issued by the interior department to Captain King.

King then took to secure the ejectment of the townsite claimants from the land. The original efforts were unsuccessful, but some time ago Mr. King sold the greater portion of the land—that occupied by the townsite claimants—to George H. King of Nebraska. Nob. Recently the latter commenced ejectment proceedings in the United States court here against the townsite claimants, and as he was a resident of Nebraska, Judge Carland filed that his court had jurisdiction in the case. As the result of a hearing Judge Carland decided in favor of the townsite claimants. The patent issued to Henry J. King by the interior department at Washington was offered in evidence in behalf of the plaintiff, but this was virtually decided to be void.

A motion for a new trial was then made and this has just been disposed of by Judge Carland, who has rendered one of the most important decisions involving the public lands which has ever been handed down by a federal court in the public land states. The disputed tract was first made a part of the public domain February 27, 1885, when President Cleveland by proclamation opened to settlement a portion of the Creek Indian reservation, of which this tract was originally a part. On April 17 of the same year President Arthur withdrew the land from market.

In the interval the legislative assembly of Dakota Territory passed an act extending the limits of the city of Chamberlain so as to include the tract, which from the day of President Cleveland's proclamation opening it to settlement had been claimed by Captain King as a homestead, and a number of townsite claimants. On February 19, 1890, the land again became a part of the public domain, when a portion of the great Sioux reservation, of which it was a part, was finally opened for settlement.

Judge Carland decides in substance that the territorial assembly did have power to extend the limits of the city of Chamberlain and that, therefore, it was improper for the land office department to permit a homestead entry to be made on land which was included within the limits of an incorporated town. He decides that the patent issued to King was rightfully excluded from the present case, having for its purpose the ejectment of the townsite claimants and denies the motion for a new trial. The case will be appealed and promises not to be concluded for several years yet.

Plans for New Fort Buildings. PORT MEADE, S. D., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—Plans and specifications for the new buildings at this fort have been received from Washington. It is expected that an appropriation of $200,000 will be made at the next session of congress. The fort buildings will be enlarged, rebuilt and made equal to any government fort buildings in the United States. About $50,000 have already been expended in a store, barracks, bakery and other buildings. The government has made this fort a permanent one.

Death of Rose a Mystery. LEAD, S. D., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—The friends of Andrew Rose, well known in this city, have been informed of the manner of his death, near Spokane. His body was found near the place in a decomposed condition, lying on the ground as though the man had taken a rest. On the body was found considerable cash and a check for $88.85. It is the greatest question how he came to die. He was rich in property and had a bank account of several thousand dollars. He has relatives in this city.

FUSIONIST TRICKERY FOILED

Deputy Sheriffs Attempt to Influence Voters in Numerous Precincts with Small Success.

Thanks to ample police protection, election day in Omaha passed off without an incident of an exciting nature, though excess of enthusiasm or party zeal in a few cases resulted in bruises and contusions. There were, however, many incidents of more or less humorous character at the various voting booths. The fact of there being four separate ballots to vote in led to one led to some confusion, and in one or two cases there was a clash of authority between the deputy sheriffs and special police officers. Generally speaking, however, the best of order was preserved.

Though every saloon in the city was closed the police detected evidence now and then that whisky was being consumed. Early in the day four men giving the names of Nick Antislawski, Joe Slatsky, George Spellman and Joe Heitford were arrested for fighting in the rear of a saloon at Ninth and Douglas streets. It was learned that Spellman had been knocked down by being struck on the head with a jug of whisky. At the station the quartet admitted it had secured the whisky the day before and stored it to relieve the rigors of an election day.

At the Ninth precinct booth of the Third ward, 1203 Chicago street, ex-Police Captain Mostyn, acting as a deputy sheriff, objected to a judge of election coaching an illiterate voter. "See here, what ticket do you want to vote?" demanded the ex-captain, addressing the would-be voter.

A dozen voices were raised in protest against this impertinent question, but the voter had already answered. "The democrat ticket," he said. "Then I'll show you—" Mostyn was in the act of reaching for the ballot when two stalwart policemen seized him and ejected him from the booth. He was told that he was usurping too much authority.

A somewhat similar emergency arose at the Thurston hotel, Fifteenth and Jackson streets. A presumptuous deputy sheriff attempted to exercise the functions of both a judge of election and challenger. The judge of election brought him up short and gave him his choice between the two offices. He chose to abandon his deputyship.

Two Men with Tin Stars. Robert Dunlap and Marion T. White were arrested at the booth at Fourteenth and Jackson street, First district of the Third ward, on the charge of impersonating an officer. Each wore on his coat a star, which evidently had been chopped out of a piece of tin with a hatchet, bearing the single word "deputy." They said they were deputy hearing in police court today.

A laughable incident occurred at the Tenth district booth of the Third ward. A negro named Tom Jackson presented himself to vote, and was promptly challenged. He kept his nerve for a moment, feigning great surprise that his right of suffrage should be questioned. Then officer Woolbridge made a motion which Jackson construed as a menace, whereupon the negro turned and ran down Douglas street at the breakneck pace, with Woolbridge in hot pursuit. The officer returned ten minutes later, somewhat crestfallen.

"Didn't you catch your man, Woolbridge?" asked a bystander. "Now?" "I can't swim," was the laconic answer. He added later that the fugitive had jumped into the river.

In the Eleventh district of the Sixth ward, 1701 North Twenty-fourth street, Deputy Sheriff Joseph Sherry, one of the Power-Schultz trustees, made himself so obnoxious that citizens complained of him to the chief of police and to the republican county committee. The deputy was stationed in the booth at the moment it opened to settlement a portion of the Creek Indian reservation, of which this tract was originally a part. On April 17 of the same year President Arthur withdrew the land from market.

In the interval the legislative assembly of Dakota Territory passed an act extending the limits of the city of Chamberlain so as to include the tract, which from the day of President Cleveland's proclamation opening it to settlement had been claimed by Captain King as a homestead, and a number of townsite claimants. On February 19, 1890, the land again became a part of the public domain, when a portion of the great Sioux reservation, of which it was a part, was finally opened for settlement.

Missing Ship Comes into Port. PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., Nov. 6.—The steamship Roanoke, reported lost, arrived last night at 10 o'clock, bringing 40 passengers and $50,000 in gold dust. The Roanoke sailed from Nome October 26 and reports that the steamship Cleveland was a company of twenty-five miles west of Cape Nome, where it struck on a rock and was broken and soon went to pieces. Its signals of distress attracted the attention of the United States cutter Melville, which went to its assistance and saved the passengers and crew, except the second officer, who was thrown into the icy waters and was to the bottom before assistance reached him. Officers on the Roanoke report that ice is forming and when it left port had to force its way through thin sheets of ice.

Cattle King Killed. CARLSBAD, N. M., Nov. 6.—Robert L. Hall, one of the best known cattlemen in southeastern New Mexico, was shot and killed at his ranch, south of this place, in a dispute over some trivial matter. Fayette Seely, known as "Red" Seely, who also shot and severely wounded in the arm Holl Herring, is said to have fired the fatal shot. He began the shooting, it is said, with little or no provocation. Seely escaped to Old Mexico.

MORNING PAPERS TOO SLOW

Public Not Content to Read News Over Breakfast Table, but Must Have It Hot from Wire.

Election returns were received in 100 places in Omaha last night. More than 100 special telegraph and telephone operators devoted their time to issuing bulletins for the service of the local patrons. The number of clerks, chiefs and operators, who labored all night in handling the returns exceeded 300.

In hotels, lodge rooms, theaters, clubs, newspaper offices, saloons and private residences thousands of Omahans gathered to hear the result of the great contest, which affords excitement for Americans once in four years. Fifty special wires flashed the returns to all parts of the city and "hello" girls and messenger boys afforded service to the receiving stations, which were not accommodated by such wires.

Telegraph companies secured all the first-class operators employed by the railroads, bucket shops and packing houses. All "ham" wires were laid off as the wires were crowded that it was necessary to save all the impossible. Competent telegraphers were at a premium and service was denied many applicants for bulletins because the number of such operators was limited.

Early in the evening The Bee bulletins thronged on the New York Life building attracted thousands of enthusiastic people and the crowd did not diminish until the hour hand had passed its zenith. Between the acts of "At the White Horse Tavern" at Boyd's the returns were listened to by a crowded house. Election returns divided honors with Jessie Bartlett Davis at the Trocadero and two performances were given in the benefit of "All Nighters," who held buildings with an accompanying officer and his express. It will arrive in Cheyenne at 11:45 the morning after leaving Omaha and consolidate there with No. 3 from Kansas City, running thence through to Portland.

The Bee never prints fake extras. When you buy a Bee extra you get the truth.

UNDERLINGS DEFEY THE MAYOR

Neither Executive's Order Nor Consideration for Sick Child Affects Sheriff's Office.

An incident that took place at the county jail yesterday indicates the extremity to which the democrats are driven to lesson the vote of their political opponents and the extent of the subservience of the sheriff's office to the democratic machine. The men in charge of the office while Sheriff Power was in hiding from the officers seeking to serve the notice of the Ostrom injunction declined to release a prisoner from the county jail to go to the bedside of a sick child. They said he might take advantage of the opportunity to vote the republican ticket. If he remained in jail he was certain to keep away from the polls. So the man was detained in spite of the fact that the mayor has issued a pardon at the request of his friends and the family physician. The prisoner's name is Charles Tinkler. He was sentenced to twenty days in jail for petit larceny. Only four days of the sentence remained. Tinkler's friends informed the mayor of his offense and he was in violation of a city ordinance, and the case was one where leniency might well be extended for the reason that Tinkler's child was seriously ill. Their representations were supported by a note from the physician, who attended the little one. Mayor Moore consented to pardon the man in view of the circumstances. He gave the applicants the necessary papers and was surprised a few hours later to receive a telephone message stating that the sheriff's employees had refused to recognize the pardon.

An immediate communication with the sheriff's assistants elicited the information that Tinkler had been known to vote the republican ticket and that until the election was over he would not be released till he should vote the ticket again. "The mayor has no authority in a case of this kind," was the word that came back to Mayor Moore. "Tinkler is in a safe place now and we are going to keep him there till the balloting is completed."

Deputies Locked Up. In the Third ward, at Fourteenth and Jackson streets, two sheriff's deputies attempted to make trouble for two republicans on the ground of illegal registration. The voters who had been living at the addresses given for about a year, were naturally indignant and expatriated. The deputies showed a disposition to become violent and were on the point of expelling the voters when a policeman and a special arrived. The deputies' conduct was plainly in violation of Judge Pawcett's restraining order and the policeman proceeded to place the deputies under arrest. The prisoners were taken to the station and locked up.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Four new cases of scarlet fever were reported to the city health commissioner. The attendance at the night school in the Cass building has increased to ninety-five. J. W. Huse, city boiler inspector, has reported to the Board of Education that the shell and flux of the south boiler in Central school are badly pitted and in need of repair. The Third precinct of the Sixth ward holds the record for rapid voting. The first eighty-nine men who voted in that precinct yesterday prepared and cast their ballots in eighty-five minutes. Many complaints are coming to the city gas inspector concerning gas leaks in the south end of Nineteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-first, Twenty-second, Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth streets. The explosion of a gas boiler street in the rear of a store at 1001 Leavenworth street caused the fire department. A chemical engine quenched the flames, which damaged the building to the extent of about $50. The heating and venting plant in the new Saunders school has not been given a satisfactory and the Board of Education has requested the American Warming and Ventilation company of Chicago to send an employe to Omaha to give instructions concerning the operation of the plant. Nick Antislawski and Joe Slatsky were arrested yesterday by Officer Woolbridge on a charge of assaulting George Spellman and Joe Heitford in a saloon at Ninth and Douglas streets. Antislawski is alleged to have struck Spellman on the head with a gallon jug of whisky, breaking the jug and splitting Spellman's forehead.

BOILS AND CARBUNCLES

These unwelcome visitors usually appear in the spring or summer, when the blood is making an extra effort to free itself from the many impurities that have accumulated during the winter months. Carbuncles, which are more painful and dangerous, come most frequently on the back of the neck, eating great holes in the flesh, exhaust the strength and often prove fatal. Boils are regarded by some people as blessings, and they patiently and uncomplainingly endure the pain and inconvenience under the mistaken idea that their health is being benefited, that their blood is too thick anyway, and this is Nature's plan of thinning it. The blood is not too rich or too thick, but is diseased—full of poison—and unless relieved the entire system will suffer. The boil or carbuncle gives warning of serious internal troubles, which are only waiting for a favorable opportunity to develop. Many an old sore, running ulcer, even cancer, is the result of a neglected boil. Keep the blood pure, and it will keep the skin clear of all the irritating impurities that cause these painful, disgusting diseases. S. S. S. cures boils and carbuncles easily and permanently by reinforcing, purifying and building up the blood and ridding the system of all accumulated waste matter. S. S. S. is made of roots and herbs which act directly on the blood, and all poisons, no matter how deep-seated, are soon overcome and driven out by this powerful purely vegetable medicine. S. S. S. is not a new, untried remedy, but for fifty years has been curing all kinds of blood and skin diseases, and will cure you. It is a pleasant tonic as well as blood purifier—improves the appetite and digestion, builds up your general health and keeps your blood in order. Our physicians have made blood and skin diseases a life study—write them fully about your case, and they will be cheerfully given. We make no charge whatever for this service. Send for our book on Blood and Skin Diseases—free. Address, The Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Mr. M. Pratt Case, S. C., writes: "For twenty years I was sorely afflicted with boils and carbuncles caused by impure blood. It was impossible to describe my suffering, but the time being unbearable, I consulted several doctors, who treated me and tried all the so-called blood remedies, but nothing seemed to bring any good. During the summer of 1888 I was persuaded to try S. S. S., and after taking Twenty-four bottles I was entirely cured. I have had no return of these painful sores up to the present time."
