George H. Maxwell of Chicago, chairman ers interested in the question of irrigation of Omaha and in charge of a city inspec-Omaha men in the proposition to reclaim work a hardship on many butchers to comthe arid lands of the west by means of the reservoir system of irrigation is even more pronounced than ever. He found a lively interest in the annual gathering of the congress to be held in Chleaga next week and was gratified with the willingness indicated by enthusiasts on the question to set other things aside and attend the meeting AL Chicago.

"The people of the cast," declared Mr Maxwell, "are beginning to realize the advantages that will come to them in the reclamation of western and lands so that they may be converted from desert wastes into homes for millions of settlers. These settiers will open new markets for the eastern manufacturers and the beneficial influences will be widespread. Because of this condition the appropriation we seek from congross does not have its origin in the desires of one particular section. It is a crying need of the whole nation and the chorus it being joined in by the people of the east as well as those residing in the west.

Omaha is DDeeply Concerned.

"How important it is to Omaha that out plans materialize is self-evident. This city to the gateway to the west. It will thrive and prosper only in such measure as the transmissouri territory thrives and prospers and how great this measure would be can easily be appreciated if the west were inhabited by millions of prosperous agriculturists, where there are now, compara tively, but hundreds. It is as much a federal function for the government to store these flood waters of western rivers, pre serving them for the use of settlers when needed and preventing them from inundating the country and accomplishing great damage by floods in the springtime, as it is to build levees to hold the waters of the lower Minsissippl.

"There is only one thing necessary to ordered the strike. The linemen are not bring about the accomplishment of the things we desire and that is a display of sincerity and a proof of earnestness which will attract to our support a majority of hold their jobs, and further, they desire to the members of the national congress. Dave Mercer Promises Help.

Congressman Mercer attended the meet ing and expressed himself as heartily in favor of the proposition. "If we can gain the sympathy of the east in this matter." he said, "to such an extent that some ev which is uselessly expendthrough the river and harbor appropriations can be diverted for the purpose of constructing irrigation reservoirs in the west, the good that will come to our transmissouri region will be so far-reach ing as to be almost incomprehensible." I. A. Fort of North Platte, H. F. Mc-Intosh and E. E. Bruce spoke in favor pushing the matter with all possible energy. Mr. Bruce asserted that within the territory immediately contiguous to Omaha there are 30,000,000 acres of land that by means of irrigation could be madfertile and productive and furnish home: for 4,000,000 people. Chairman Pickens of the Commercial club executive committee appointed a general committee of seven to represent the Commercial club at the Chicago meeting Besides this committee it is expected that a large number of others from Omaha will be in attendance. The committee consists John Steel, Euclid Martin H . Mat-C. G. Pearse, R. C. Peters, Rome Miller and I. A. Fort of North Platte.
