BISHOP MORRISON'S VISIT

Head of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Iowa on His Tour.

PREACHES TWO SERMONS IN THE BLUFFS

Doctrine of Purgatorial Problem is Expounded in the Morning and in the Evening.

Right Rev. Theodore M. Morrison, bishop of the Iowa diocese of the Protestant Episcopal church, spoke Sunday morning at the Protestant Episcopal church in Council Bluffs.

In speaking of diocese affairs Bishop Morrison said there is a great deal to encourage him. The missionary offerings have doubled in the last year and the members of the church are apparently taking more interest in its advancement.

With the assistance thus received Bishop Morrison says he has been able to arrange for services in almost all parts of the state where there appears to be any possibility for growth.

In many of these localities he hoped in the near future to establish permanent parishes. There are a number of new men in the diocese and the work in the state has progressed most favorably during the last twelve months.

The church has grown materially in membership during the same period and the bishop has given the rite of confirmation to over 700 persons.

Bishop Morrison is on a tour of his diocese and from here will go this morning to Le Mars.

At St. Paul's church Bishop Morrison was greeted by a large congregation. He took as the theme of his sermon "Christ's Teaching Regarding the Intermediate State" and his text from the last two verses of the eleventh chapter of Hebrews.

Doctrine of Purgatorial Probation. In discussing this subject Bishop Morrison spoke of the insistence upon the fact that Christ taught that at death men do not go into heaven or hell, but into an intermediate state of spiritual experience and referred to the fact that the church has always taught the existence of this intermediate state. He said that the very fact that we are only here in a state of probation, that the Christian likeness might be perfected in us, and that none of us in this life attain to this holiness without which none of us can see the Lord, is a ground for believing that many Christians are not good enough for heaven nor bad enough for hell.

To deny this doctrine, said the bishop, leads to the denial of the resurrection of the body and the final judgment. He dwelt on the fact of the life and teaching of the Lord Jesus Christ, His words to the penitent thief, "Today shalt thou be with Me in paradise," to the woman the morning after the resurrection, "Touch Me not for I have not yet ascended to my Father." He referred to 1 Peter 3, 17, in which St. Peter refers to Christ while he is being put to death in the flesh, being quickened in the spirit, preached to spirits in prison, sometimes disobedient.

Bishop Morrison held that while we can know nothing of the details of the spiritual life, we can be very sure of a two-fold purification; that the soul will see its sin, realizing what sin is and its consequences; that it will be purged by sorrow and repentance and that the presence of God and the more complete revelation of that which was good will change the soul.

He held further that the destiny of the saved is likeness to God; that the whole meaning of the life here has reference to the development of man's spiritual and moral nature, and that which God has begun here He will carry on until the day of Jesus Christ.

Special Music for the Day. The following special music was rendered by the choir, under the leadership of W. L. Thickett: "The Dawn," by Miss H. B. H. "Jubilate," F. H. Brackett; offertory anthem, "Ye Christian Herald," from "Christ the Victor," Buck.

At Grace church in the evening Bishop Morrison's address on missionary work was listened to by a congregation that completely filled the pretty little church. He impressed upon his listeners the necessity of the members of the church contributing liberally to the work of their means, otherwise it will be impossible to secure the desired growth and upbuilding of the church in the diocese and the country at large. He explained the needs of those parishes and localities which are not self-supporting and the large field there is for improvement.

Revival Meetings Commenced. A series of revival meetings commenced yesterday at Trinity Methodist church and will be held daily during the week at 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. The pastor, Rev. W. H. Cable, is assisted by Miss Lida M. Herrick, formerly of Chicago, now of Omaha, and Rev. M. M. Cable of Delaware. The latter is rendering special service in directing the music. The opening service yesterday afternoon was well attended and Miss Herrick showed herself to be a plain but pungent teacher of the gospel.

Revival meetings, which will last through the week, opened yesterday at the First Christian church under the charge of the pastor, Rev. W. B. Crewdson. The meetings will be held at 7:30 o'clock each evening. Music is being rendered by an enlarged choir and Mr. Crewdson expressed himself last evening as very hopeful, judging from the attendance at the first meeting, that they would prove of much benefit to the church.

The congregation of Mount Zion Baptist church formally opened its new church building yesterday afternoon at the Rev. E. E. Wilson, through whose efforts the building was secured, was installed as pastor. Rev. Adams of Mount Zion church preached the opening sermon and was assisted in the installation service by Revs. Green and January of Omaha.

Premiums given with Domestic soap. Colonel Hogenland's Address. Colonel Alexander Hogenland, father of the curfew ordinance, delivered two addresses in this city yesterday, one in the morning at the First Methodist church and the other at the Broadway Methodist church in the evening. His theme at both places was "Mother, Child and Curfew."

Domestic soap has no equal. Grand ball to be given by Hawkeye lodge No. 14, I. O. O. F., on Friday evening, November 23. All cordially invited. Tickets, 50c.

COSTLY FIRE AT DAVENPORT. Hundred Thousand Dollars Damage Done by Flames in the Iowa Town.

DAVENPORT, Ia., Nov. 18.—(Special Telegram.)—At 3 o'clock this afternoon fire destroyed the building occupied by the Davenport Furniture company and falling walls crushed several adjacent buildings to total wreckage. The fire originated on the top floor of the four-story building and was soon followed with an explosion that blew the roof high into the air and shot the flames downward through all the other floors. When the fire department arrived the whole building was a mass of flames and could not be saved. Six firemen and the chief were working in front of the structure when the crowd that had gathered shouted that the front wall was falling. It crashed down into the street and the firemen narrowly escaped being crushed. The south wall stood two stories higher than the adjacent building, but soon fell, crushing it, and the occupants barely escaped with their lives. This building was occupied by Harold Petersen with a wall paper store and above his family lived. Next to it was the Jarvis White Art company's store, which also was crushed to ruins, and the tin collections were all destroyed. The rear of Barr & Co.'s and of the Davenport Fruit company's stores were wrecked by falling walls. A saloon was crushed and a shoe shop was totally demolished. Falling electric wires came in contact with many of the crowd and in the stampede persons were pushed through plate glass on the opposite side of the street and badly cut. The total loss is estimated at $100,000. The big building belonged to the Renwick estate and was recently insured for $140,000. The art store occupied the William Winckler building, which was insured. The other losses are only partially insured.

Notes from Omaha. GNAWA, Ia., Nov. 18.—(Special.)—Charles Utterback of Castana, aged 77 years, and Mrs. Adelin Springfield of Council Bluffs, a lively widow of 67 years, were united in marriage by Rev. E. Denton this week. The couple are fifth matrimonial experience of Mr. Utterback, but he is still in the ring and festive as a colt.

There are twenty-five or thirty well developed cases of smallpox at Decatur, Neb., also several cases of measles. The cases were diagnosed as "Cuban measles," but it is smallpox when it gets on the Iowa side and there are now three cases in South Lincoln township, as a result of exposure at Decatur. The cases are in a mild form and are all children. The disease is being kept in the quarantine and the quarantine is entirely stamped out and the quarantine has been removed. Dave Daywalt, a plasterer who formerly lived in Omaha, is reported sick with smallpox at Little Sioux. There have been no deaths and the disease seems to be a very mild form.

Charles Snyder, who burned the barn on the Heining place in Lincoln township last spring, has been located by Sheriff Strain at Albia, Ia., where he is under arrest for larceny.

George Smeets of Franklin township sold his eighty-acre farm this week to C. W. Waterman of Wisconsin for $50 per acre.

W. J. Tori, who owns a large tract of land in section 25, West township, threshed out 7,000 bushels of flax this week and will erect fine buildings this year.

The Monona county district court adjourned yesterday until Monday, when it will adjourn for the session. Judge Oliver will go to Des Moines for a short visit.

The grand jury adjourned yesterday, after a two weeks' session at the county seat. It decidedly lively for the liquor men of Monona county. Fifteen indictments were returned and twenty-two persons are indicted therein. Robert Johnson of Hellenoc is indicted for assault with intent to commit murder. There are two indictments for criminal assault and one for arson. The balance are for selling liquor and even the druggists did not escape. A large number of the parties are not yet under arrest and their names cannot be given, but it is the belief that some of the liquor men have had for some time and a good part of the bootleggers have been hiding in Nebraska and the woods this week.

Remains of a Collision. FORT DODGE, Ia., Nov. 18.—(Special.)—The Illinois Central's crew is still busy clearing away the remains of a wreck that resulted from a collision here Friday between the Illinois Central and the State Normal school some time ago asking that he be allowed to send a number of the native teachers to the school for a course of instruction. The matter has been referred to the directors, who have decided to grant a limited number of tickets, and have also made the provision that if the student be ex-soldiers for Uncle Sam they may come in free of charge. The government has agreed to carry them free of charge.

After the Delinquents. ATLANTIC, Ia., Nov. 18.—(Special.)—Notwithstanding the fact that several suits have been filed against it, the Board of County Supervisors is continuing its campaign for back-tax collection and has just named Auditor Shippelt authority to draw a county warrant for $1,600 as the balance of his share of the amount collected to date. Mr. Welman's commission, figured on a basis of $50,000, has amounted to about $5,600, which he has already been paid. The board proposes to sue those who have still failed to make settlement.

Band Becomes Independent. CEDAR FALLS, Ia., Nov. 18.—(Special.)—The Ancient Order of United Workmen has withdrawn control of the Ancient Order of United Workmen band of this city and it now takes the name of the Fitzgerald Concert band, an independent organization. Prof. Fitzgerald has been the leader for the last five years. The band represented the state at the last national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Chicago and enjoyed the same distinction at four former encampments.

Woodmen Unveil Monument. LOGAN, Ia., Nov. 18.—(Special Telegram.)—Woodmen of the World unveiled a monument here today to the memory of John H. Baker. Rev. E. H. Schell delivered the address. Consul Commander Isaac N. Watson had charge of the ceremonies and Charles Bolter was poet of the day.

ACCUSED OF PATRICIDE

Fifteen-Year-Old Son of Arkansas Farmer Said to Have Been Tool of Designing Relatives.

POPULAR BLUFF, Mo., Nov. 18.—(Special Telegram.)—The 15-year-old son of Richard Alexander, a farmer living across the line in Arkansas, is under arrest on suspicion of being implicated in the death of his father, who was shot and killed yesterday. Young Alexander, who was arrested pending an investigation, is said to have confessed the crime and to have implicated his mother, sister and the late husband, James Hogan, all of whom have been arrested and placed in jail at Corning, Ark. Citizens are aroused and Hogan, whom they profess to believe is at the bottom of the affair, will be taken to the county jail at Paragard, Ark., for safekeeping.

Alexander was killed with a shotgun, receiving the contents of both barrels in the breast and stomach and dying almost immediately. His family informed the officers, who had previously been notified of the shooting, that he had accidentally shot himself while loading the gun. The nature of the wounds and the report of the neighbors with the dead man led to the detention of the son, Young Alexander. It is stated, added to his confession, that the killing had been planned deliberately and that he fired the fatal shot as his father appeared suddenly around the corner of the house.

Alexander was well-to-do, owning valuable farm lands in the vicinity of Corning.

Novel feat in Power Transmission. SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 18.—(Special.)—The power company of this city has performed a novel feat in the driving of an electric motor 100 miles distant from the generator. All the lines of the company were connected in one continuous circuit beginning at Snohomish Falls, near Seattle, back to the falls, thence to Tacoma and back again to the falls. The regular transmission is thirty-two miles to Seattle and forty-four miles to Tacoma. Experiments were conducted for experimental purposes and it is shown that electric transmission of power can be made completely satisfactory at much greater distances than has heretofore been contemplated.

Standard Dictionary for $7.00

This low price places the book within the reach of so many that a discussion of the merits of the book seems in vain. But here are some of the opinions:

R. D. Blackmore, the English Novelist: "The Standard Dictionary is most comprehensive and correct."

William Black, the Scotch Novelist: "Admirably comprehensive and exact."

A. Conan Doyle, the Eminent English Novelist: "It has become quite a joke with us that we cannot trip up this dictionary. We have several times been sure that we would, but have always failed."

Sir Edwin Arnold: "A noble piece of work, destined to be most useful. . . . Everywhere copious, erudite, and reliable."

Engineer and Iron Trades Advertiser, Glasgow, Scotland: "Taken altogether the sum total is, the Standard Dictionary is without a peer."

Youth's Companion: "We have selected the Standard as the dictionary for the use of our proof-reader in his own room."

The Times-Democrat, New Orleans: "He who has the Standard at his elbow to refer to for the meaning, pronunciation, or derivation of a word, or for its compounds, synonyms, antonyms, or phrase use, will never need another dictionary to help him out."

The Christian Cyclopaedia, Chicago: "It is difficult to speak adequately of this great work without seeming to be extravagant."

The Interior, Chicago: "It was a stroke of genius to give a full catalog, for example, of the name of every tool and of every device employed by the carpenter; to give the name of every one of the vast varieties of apple. The editors have forgotten nothing. It is all here, and everything where one can lay hand upon it."

The Tribune, New York: ". . . A comparison with the Century Dictionary leads to the inference that the Standard Dictionary has made a distinct advance in certain fields. . . . The new dictionary is rich in . . . terms peculiar to occultism and oriental religions."

The Congregationalist, Boston: "It is positively a splendid piece of work and an honor to our country."

The Western Druggist, Chicago: "Americans have just reason to feel proud of this achievement."

The Christian Secretary, Hartford: "We cannot speak in too high praise."

THE STANDARD has a vocabulary of 300,000 words. The Century 225,000, Webster's 125,000, Worcester's 105,000.

THE STANDARD was produced at a cost of a million dollars.

THE STANDARD will bear comparison with any other dictionary because there is nothing omitted.
