REVISION OF THE STATUTES IS DESIRED

Exchange Appoints Committee to Suggest Changes So that Lenders May Not Be Kept from Their Own for Years.

President W. H. Green of the Omaha Real Estate exchange has apppointed John N. Frenzer, Richard Berlin and John W. Robbins a committee to propose chapges in the realty laws before the legislature The appointment was made in pursuance of a recolution adopted at a meeting of the exchange earlier in the week.

The Omaha Real Estate exchange, in taking the initiative in reforming the Nebraska statutes pertaining to realty matters, seems to have struck a movement that classes of business men-

'President Green of the Real Estate exchange has selected the members of the committee on legislation, and the real estate agents and owners and the financial men of the city are manifesting a lively interest in the work that lies before them. John S. Knox, upon whose motion the committee was appointed, realizing the importance of the task to be undertaken, incorporated in his motion a suggestion that the three committeemen should be old hands and experts in the real estate business, and President Green has followed that suggestion in making the appointments.

Fair Play for Creditors. in the intricacles of the law to ful owner. Nebraska, in common with other rates. western states, is a debtor state, but nine out of every ten of our debtors are honest and fair-minded men who do not take advantage of legal technicalties to avoid meeting their obligations promptly. It is this has furnished the State department with one-tenth of the debtor class that composes official statistics concerning Canada's trade

"It seems to me that it is about time for our legislators to consider the rights of with a considerable falling off in the the majority of the people as against allowing special privileges to the minority. state investors of the east who prefer to put their money in mortgages will look elsewhere before sending their good and helpful dollars to Nebraska.

"Another defect in the present laws is the opportunity they offer for the successful resistance to suits in ejectment. If a tenant refuses to pay his rent and has the disposition to fight his landlord in court he may under our laws remain in free possession of the property for many months after he has ceased to pay for its use. Straw bonds in electment suits and the many exemptions allowed under the present statutes make the burden of the house owner who has unfortunately secured a bad tenant almost unbearable. We want landlord and tenant laws that will protect the owner as well as the tenant, and with such laws we can more easily induce men to put their money into real estate for investment."

Bankrupt May Linger Long. Frank L. McCoy, in speaking of the changes in the statutes sought by the real estate men, said:

"Foreclosure proceedings under the Nebraska laws are necessarily slow and expensive when the debtor takes it into his head to fight in the courts. The first delay, which may be unnecessary, is the publication of notice to all parties interested in the involved property five times. This preliminary consumes five weeks, and it might without injury to anyone's interest be cut down to three weeks. Foreclosures, after the publication of notice, go through the district court in reasonable time, but when an appeal is taken to the supreme court the accumulation of cases in that tribunal makes it impossible to reach a hearing for perhaps five or six years. Then, after you get a decision from the supreme court you must have a sale under the mortgage, and from this the debtor, if particularly pugnacious, may take another appeal. So it is that the serious delay in connection with foreclosures is caused by the crowded docket of the supreme court. I think that the creation by the legislature of a special commission of eight, ten or twelve members to clear up the work of the supreme court would give the real estate men a large measure of the relief they are seek-

A short time ago a gentleman stepped into COPLEY'S Jewelry Store, 215 S. 15th St. Paxton Block, and said: "Mr. Copiey, I want a watch—one that will keep time—I know nothing about watches, out after careful inquiry I have been recommended to you." Copiey looked his watches over, picked out one and handed it to the gentleman. "How much?" Price was quoted money paid and the gentleman can rest assured he has a GOOD WATCH at a fair price—no job lot—no bargain counter watch—not 50 per cent below cost—but GOOD value for his money. This is Copiey's method of doing business and it is successful. Are you one of his customers? If not, why not?
