Clews & Co., writes of the situation in Wail street: Throughout the week the stock market has shown a strong tendency toward re-govery from the late reaction, transactions having increased in volume and prices steadily advanced. It is true, many of the larger operators have unloaded, and some of them begin to think they have been pre-mature and are availing themselves of the drops to buy in again, but the change of having from the professionals to the our-siders has been pretty thorough; and this fact has to be taken into account in esti-market. It is to be noted, however, that never before in the history of Wall street has the market been held by an outside clientele of such numbers and financial strength as that which now fills the local commission houses and sends its orders from the interior. The street is surcharged with the 'ball' sentiment, which it re-ceives very largely from operators in the interior, who better comprehend than we at this center the great wave of prosperity that is now apreading over the length and breadth of the country. A how and Im-portant source of strength also comes from the men who have transferred their busi-messes to the trasts and now, with ample means, find themselves drawn into the powerful eddles of speculation. These are forces in the current speculation which have not yet begun to culturate: it is not therefore surprising that many stocks have a transferred the bow the option during railroud stocks on December II, compared with the bighest and lowest of the year, show that which it values have risen very largely above the minimum figures, a good many of them are not yet up to the top prices of 1990. in the current. Deducting the general condition and prospective necessities of the government the Investors' Review regards no home security at the present prices as being a good investment and expects lower average prices, not only before the year's end, but in an indefinite time to come. Home rails have been fairly strong and generally higher. Interest in Americans centered principally in Eries and the connections. The extreme was mainly in Wall street, as London was a day late for the fair. The Statist, discussing the money position, volces the fear that gold may be sent to the fair. The Statist, discussing the money position, volces the fear that gold may be sent to the dearly end of the year's end, justifying a rise in the bank rate. Possibly the bank, desiring to avoid the advance, will permit gold to be withdrawn. It is said the bank has arranged to part with £550,000 in enticipation of the arrival of £500,000 in enticipation of French money in London be service are the set with the set in the set of the set of the fair.

from India. The quantity of French money in London is very large. Were circumstances to arise which would cause it to be withdrawn an unpleasant position would be created. The indebtedness to the United States is also great. It is improbable, however, that New York will call for gold from London, a por-tion of the balance in the American treas-ury being available.

The tendency of prices the past week has been downward on all kirds of killers. The market on beet steers has been slow and draggy and prices declined all the way from lie to 25e. Other markets re-ported similar declines, so that prices are well in line at this point. It is the common and half-fat stuff that is the hardest to sell. Packers simply do not want the un-finished cattle and they will not take them unless they can get them at a low furner. The best handy weight cattle have prob-aby not gone off more than liee or 15c but aside from those prices are all of 156/25c lower for the week. There has been very little strictly choice cow stuff on sale this week and values on that class of cattle have not declined more than liee or 15c for the week. Canners have about the same as on the good stuff. The medium kinds have been the worst sellers about the same as on the good stuff. The medium kinds have been the worst sellers than they were a week and of late and the tendency of prices has been downward. Stags are also a little lower for the week and veal calves have not shown much change. The best function of the better grades were further than on Monday. The demand for the better grades wes failing good and as as were than on Monday. The demand for the better grades wes failed lower is the and in the tendency of prices has been down ward. Astor Illegally Taxed.

Astor Illegally Taxed. NEW YORK, Dec. 16.–Justice Andrews in the supreme court has decided that the personal estate of William Waldorf Astor in this city was llegally taxed by the com-missioner of taxes and assessments for the year 1899, when he claimed to be a resi-dent of London. His personality was fixed at $2,000,000. When examined before the tax commissioners he swore he had given up his residence here and purchased a resi-dence in London and had no intention of again residing in this country. Justice An-drews' opinion is that Mr. Astor's applick-tion for remission of taxation should have been granted, as his evidence was not con-tradicted, and there was no reason to be-liev that his testimony was not true.
