START WITH THE CENTURY

Fourteen Happy Couples Will Join Fate in Omaha Today.

MORRILL IS IN HIS ELEMENT

Busy Day in the Marriage License Bureau Almost Breaks the Record for the Year-Coming from Everywhere.

Fourteen twentieth century weddings in Dmaha today.

This much is certain, for the licenses have been granted and there is no teiling how many more will be added to the list Harry Morrill, the marriage license clerk, is not a stickler for holiday vacations and his Cupid mill will grind as usual today provided there is demand for it.

Sixteen licenses were issued yesterday and two of the couples were married in the court house by Judge Vinsonhaler. The others said they would wait until today and take an even start with the first year of the new century. Yesterday's record lacks but two of being the banner nuptial day of the year. The day before Thanksgiving was the record-breaker, eighteen licenses being issued.

Judge Vinsonhaler evidently anticipated a matrimonial rush yesterday, for he came down early in the morning wearing a fresh shave, his brightest lavender tie and his patent leathers, supplemental to his usual complement of other clothing. Having posted himself on all of the technique relative to the dawning century the court congratulated the happy aspirants for matrimony on their even start with the new cycle and there was an orange-blossom atmosphere about the place all day long.

Bunch of Century Unions.

The list of licenses follows:

Name and Residence Charles E. Sharp, Omaha Virginia Vaughan, Omaha John C. Case, St. Joseph, Mo...... Minnie E. Masterson, St. Joseph, Mo William Margarnell, Omaha Carrie S. Saffelder, Omaha ... Alex C. Clark, Omaha ... Christina ..ligard, Omaha John Hoffman, St. Joseph, Mo. Ida Campbell, St. Joseph, Mo. Edward Ellis, Pilger, Neb. Ceba Bailey, South Omaha Edward Davis, Omaha ... Phoebe Moore, Omaha ... Dean H. Thompson, Papillion, Neb Bessie M. Barrett, Omaha George W. Todd, Elmwood, Neb. Rhena Jansen, South Omaha Andrew J. Trapp, South Omaha Mary Flaherty, South Omaha Ed W. Evans, Omaha ... Jennie E. Allen, Omaha Wilbur G. Liggett, Hamburg, la. Grace M. Cooley, Hamburg, la... Claude W. Tubbs, Omaha Otillia Donato, Omaha .... Alexander Armstrong, Pottawattamie Ruth H. Woodward, Corning, Ia ...... George F. Smith, Omaha . Mae M. Biair, Omaha .....

A glance at the foregoing array discloses that the matrimonial candidates came not only from Omaha and South Omaha, but from other parts of Nebraska, and that even Missouri and Iowa have honored Omaha as a marriage place. This eclipses the record of last year by five couples. Those married by Judge Vinsonhaler yes terday were John C. Case and Minnie E Masterson and John Hoffman and Ida Campbell, all of St. Joseph.

TWENTIETH CENTURY IS BORN

Dawning of New Cycle Marked by Saturnalia of Gunpowder and Glad Hurrahs.

The twentieth century is here. It was ushered in at midnight amid a saturnalia of gunpowder, clanging of bells, shricking of whistles and the tumultuous hurrahs of young America-and some old ones, too. The streets were thronged with pedestrians until after 12 o'clock and there was a general recognition of the fact that not only new year, but a new century, was dawn-lnasmuch as the birth of centuries are witnessed only once in a lifetime everybody seemed to try to make the most of the occasion. In nearly all of the churches | tions watch meetings were held, club rooms and lodges kept open house until early in the morning, residences were the scene of gay functions, all on account of the centennial epoch. The street cars worked nearly two hours overtime carrying belated revelers home, and there was a great demand for Jehus when at last the cars ceased running. It is hardly fair, however, to use the word "revelers" in this connection, for many a staid old father and several demure matrons were among those who went home late.

This New Year is a double holiday reason of the century milestone and the day will be more generally observed than usual. Business will be practically suspended and turkey dinners will be as common as they were on Christmas and Thanksgiving.

Some of the pyrotechnic explosions last night made as much noise as the charge on San Juan hill and the patriotic spirit of America, which finds its favorite vent in gunpowder, was turned loose at full Today there may be a few burned fingers and some bruised heads, but what matters those trifling things when it is remembered that a new century in swaddling clothes has just been laid upon the doorstep of the old earth?

PONTIFICAL MIDNIGHT MASS

Bishop Scannell Ushers in New Year with Dignity, Solemnity and Grandeur.

With all the dignity and grandeur of the Catholic church the twentieth century was ushered in with midnight mass at Philomena's cathedral, with pontifical high mass celebrated by Bishop Scannell. The side altars were beautifully decorated with evergreen and bright candles shed their light over the statutes. In the center of the high altar was a blaze of light a hundred candles uniting with the illuminated decorations arranged by woman's sodality of the parish, amid the palms and cut flowers upon the altar, while above the star of Bethlehem shonresplendent. The Episcopal throne was fittingly bedecked with evergreen.

The music for the mass was the same a that given at the last mass Christmas and was one of the most noteworthy efforts of the choir.

Bishop Scannell was assisted by Very Rev William Kelley, assistant priest; Rev. P McGovern and Rev. Father Kuhlmann, S J., deacons of honor; Rev. J. W. Stenson, deacon of the mass and master of ceremonies; Rev. Father Dincen, sub-deacon of

The bishop delivered a brief address to the congregation in which he called attention to the infrequent ceremony of the midnight mass and stated that it was being celebrated in thanksgiving for the bless ings of the old year, and as an appeal for the continuance of the favor of God. He called attention to the advance of Christianity in the last century, from the early days of the nineteenth century, when the head of the church was a prisoner and the French revolution had denuded the houses of worship and made the priests exiles, until today, when in all lands the Catholic is respected and if the rule of the church is not universal its representatives are honored by people of all races and conditions. He deprecated the spirit of greed which has in a great measure captured the nations of the world and said that the coming century would bring no blessing to man unless this spirit was suppressed.

KEEP OPEN HOUSE Theatrical Men Contribute Their Talents to an Evening of Festivities.

The Elks of Omaha kept open house last night. A large number of the members of Omaha lodge No. 39, with a few invited guests, watched the old year out and the new year in to the accompaniment of a delightful informal program. The lodge rooms were thronged from early in the evening until after midnight. At 10 o'clock Judge Lee Estelle, officiating as presiding efficer, called the meeting to order and the evening's program was inaugurated. the time for three hours. The contributions of a number of theatrical men from the three theaters assisted to a marked degree in the success of the affair. The musicians who took part in the program were Mesars. Gilroy, Kennedy, Marshall and Walter Dale all of whom rendered songs, the accompaniments in every case being furnished by Lew Dale, formerly of Omsha, who is visiting in the city from Louisville. George B. Frothingham of the Bostonians and George P. Cronk recited several entertaining selec-

Twentieth Century Reception and Sermon by the Pastor. Members of Kountze Memorial church were entertained last night at a reception given by the Young Peoules' Endeavor society During the early part of the evening the congregation was entertained at a musicale in the parlors of the church. At 11 o'clock a prayer and song service began in the main auditorium of the church and continued until the new year was ushered in.

Rev. Edward Frederick Trefz preached a brief sermon in which he reviewed the history of Christianity during the closing century and showed the great influence which the church has wielded. "The church the twentieth century. It has just begun to realize its power. It has been freed from many tenets, which impeded its progress and is about to enter upon an era of unparalleled "prosperity," said the pastor. "At this opening of a new year every churchman should pledge his efforts to the upbuilding of Christianity. "What the church needs is members who lead a higher spiritual life. There should be more religion in our everyday life. Men and women who believe in Christ should follow His teachings in such a manner that The following New Year's program has the world may know of their faith. The church cannot be better than its members and its power for good is dependent upon the individual conduct of its communicants. More thorough consecration is the great need of the century. The musical program given early in the evening was under the direction of C. H. Seevers, president of the Young Peoples' Christian Endeavor society. Piano solos were given by Miss Amanda Tebbins and Edward Droste. Mrs. John Nelson sang a solo and M. W. Swain delivered a brief ad-

Elaborate New Year Ceremonies at Holy Family Church. The new century was ushered in with appropriate ceremony at Holy Family church, Eighteenth and Nicholas streets As early as 11 o'clock the parishioners began to gather in the dimly lighted church edifice and bent in silent prayer until the hour of midnight was tolled and the watch service began.

As the new year and the new century began the lights in the church glowed in effulgence and the choir burst forth in melodious acclaim to the Father of all time Father Fitzpatrick delivered a prefound sermon, in which he appealed to the children of earth to spread the golden rays of Christ over the incoming century in even greater glory than they had illumned the past. The service was altogether impressive and beautiful and bore the evidence of true Christian spirit.

When the affairs of the great state of Nebraska are turned over to the republican party today there will be many a patriot out of a job. This is the company which is be here again. Whether he will renew his relations with the writing machine or take potluck with the brokendown fusion machine has not been announced, but as Henry likes to be regular with his corned beef and cabbage, he will very likely cut out politics for the next few years and get MacCartney. The state auditor, who has down to real work again: books in the office of the commissioner of public lands and buildings, is evidently anxious to show his former neighbors in Omaha that he is not afraid of work and is willing to stop and get acquainted with it again, for he is going into the newspaper business. Sjoberg has bought a Swedish paper in Saunders county, will move its headquarters to Omaha and after his several years of ease in the state house he will dive into editorial slavery.

Dahlman Goes, Too.

James C. Dahlman, who has been in the secretary business on a big scale while the "pops" reigned in Nebraska, will have to relinquish the secretaryship of the State Board of Transportation at the beginning of the new year. Whether his other secretaryships, which relate to populist committees, produce coin in sufficient quantity to continue him in a life of luxurious languor remains to be seen.

Henry Mathiesen, who has been hobnobbing with men of finance as a clerk of the State Banking board, may have found the association so congenial that he will undertake to continue it after coming back to Omaha. Henry may spend his future in the conception and execution of stupendous Anancial deals.

David Rowden, who in days and nights of the past proudly walked the streets of Omaha in the uniform of a "copper," will retire from his position as custodian-polite name for head janitor-of the state house. It is not likely that Dave will return to the police force at once.

Sidney J. Kent will retire from the posttion of state labor commissioner and in all probability he will again take up the arduous duties of a labor agitator in Omaha. Agitating labor is seemingly a necessary factor in the progress of American politics and Mr. Kent has always been found a willing subject to its rule

John Brandt, who has been a temporary resident of Kearney while acting as bookkeeper of the Industrial School for Boys. will come back to Douglas county and take the position of deputy county treasurer, to be vacated by George Anthes, who becomes deputy state auditor under the new administration.

Adam sloop, whose experience as keeper of the slippery inmates of the county jail for Sheriff Drexel was considered by the popocrats as qualifying him for keeper of the state fishery at South Bend, observes the finish of his term of office and will return to Omaha and seek a place on the editorial staff of the Outll.

John Brennan, steward of the Industrial School for Girls at Genoa, will return to the quiet precinct of Clontarf and resume his business as a contractor.

The Twentieth Century.

We now stand at the threshold of the wentieth century, and the nineteenth is thing of the past. It will, however, be known as the century of invention and discovery, and among some of the greatest of these, we can truthfully mention Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the celebrated remedy for all ailments arising from a must be more influential than ever during weak or disordered stomach, such as dyspepsia, indigestion, flatulency, constipation and biliousness.

The regular meeting was opened by Vice President Morrison, in the absence of President Gratton. The only business transacted was the election of officers for the year 1901, which resulted as follows: President, John Morrison; vice president, Frank S. Cannon; secretary, Edwin A. The watch night program opened with an address of welcome by R. B. Wallace. One of the pleasant features of the evening was a zither duet by Albert and Herman Handschuch. The history of the club, showing its organization three years ago and the work accomplished, was presented by W. F. Johnson. This was followed by a recitation by Miss Grace Brown and a piano solo by Miss Daisy French. A solo by George Churchill was followed by a club prophecy by President-elect John Morrison. August Schoemer rendered a zither solo, a mandolin quartet, consisting of Messrs, Dunn, Potter, Nelson and Craig, was also rendered. This was followed by a piano solo by Theresa Wallace and, with a vocal solo by Willie Gruenig, the watch meeting was at an end.

Pocahontas Discards Stage Coach.

The town of Pocahentas, the last county seat of Iowa to be connected with the outside world by rail, has only the past week discarded stage coach mails and begun receive the daily papers direct from the cars. But in making the change from stage coach to mail car the Postoffice department got orders so mixed as to cause much annoyance to the people for a few days. The contractor who had been carrying the mail across country from Havelock, on the Northwetsern railroad, received his orders to discontinue at a certain date, but the mail clerks had not yet received corresponding orders, so that the mail clerks insisted on putting the Pocahoutas mail off at Havelock. The postmistress at Po ahontas had to hire the mall carried over for a week before the postal clerks got their orders and there was loud Pocahontas over the Rock Island Sibely exension, and the town of Pocahontas, after an existence of nearly a third of a century,

Miss Ethel Paker, Des Moines Stu dent, is Taken by Her Parents.

DES MOINES, Dec. 31 .- (Special Telegram.)-Miss Ethel Fuller, a student of Drake university, was taken back to be home in Marion, Neb., this evening by her parents. She entered Highland Park college last fall, but soon went over to Drake university. She developed a mania for giving to all charitable causes and to friends and spent most of her expense money it that way. Last week she left the Drake dormitory and went to a boarding house to live. Her parents were notified and her mother came here from Nebraska. She took the girl back to the university, but Saturday she went away again and was found hiding in a barn near the boarding house she had chosen. As she was thinly clad she was suffering from the cold. Today her mother took her home.

Mr. Jordan, of course, had known of his appointment for several days, and the telegram of yesterday came simply as con firmation. The dispatch also ordered Mr. Jordan to proceed to business at once, and within a very short while the Indian supply depot will be in operation. The question of location has not yet been made public. Mr. Jordan said last night: We will know positively today just where we are going to be located. There will be no further delay and as soon as the necessary preliminaries can be settled Omaha will be the supply point for the extensive Indian country which is tributary."

William O. Thomas, a Nebraskan who has recently been in Washington, is now on his way to Omaha, having been appointed clerk ander Superintendent Jordan.

R. C. Jordan is 42 years old and is a native of Massachusetts. Nine years ago he located in Omaha and has been engaged in the commission business. Politically he is a hard-working republican and has never omitted an opportunity for active campaigning. He was secretary of the republican county central committee during the last campaign and therefore shared in the glory of the great republican victory which swept over Nebraska. Mr. Jordan is personally popular and he was busy last night receiving congratulations from his numer ous friends. Among the positions of trust which Mr. Jordan has held prior to his present appointment was the presidency of the school board in 1898, he having been member of the board two years before his promotion to the chair. The importance of the Indian supply depot to Omaha is apparent at a glance.
