THE BANKERS RESERVE LIFE Whipped the Whole Gang

Brillant Record Made by Nebraska's Home Life Insurance Company.

SUCCESS DUE TO HOME PATRONAGE IDEA

Every Obligation Promptly Met-Not a Dollar of Indebtedness-Bright Outlook for the New Year and the New Century.

President B. H. Robison of the Bankers Reserve Life association of Omaha reports a very successful year for his company. It exceeds the previous year over three times in the volume of business, and the premium income has been nearly quadrupled. The death losses have been light, there having been only two death claims, one for $1,000 and the other for $2,000, both of which were promptly paid upon the presentation of proofs of death.

The Bankers Reserve Life association closes the year and the century with about $3,000,000 first class business on its books. This is indeed a phenomenal record for a company only about three years old. This record speaks volumes of praise for the management of the company under the direction of President B. H. Robison, one of the most experienced and practical life insurance men in the United States. This record, furthermore, is an evidence of the faith and confidence of the people of Nebraska in home institutions. It is evident that the people of Nebraska are beginning to believe in patronizing home institutions when such institutions prove themselves equal to allen concerns, if not superior to Every obligation of the Bankers Reserve Life association has been promptly paid. It does not owe a dollar to anybody. It starts the new year and the new century without a cent claim against it.

The renewal premiums on business in for 1901.

President Robison extends his sincere thanks to his loyal field staff for the splendid results of the past year, as well as to the advisory board members, his friends, and to the policy holders—all of whom by united action have made possible the gratifying achievements which have so distinctly marked the brief career of the Bankers Reserve Life association.

cent meeting of the Northwest Missouri Teachers' association in St. Joseph were discussing in the hearing of a local newspaper man the great changes that had taken place during the last few years in the manners and customs prevalent in the district or country schools. Much of the rowdyism that formerly was such a prominent feature in some of the schools in remote settlements has entirely disappeared and as a rule the pupils are as well behaved and conduct themselves in as becoming a manner as they do in the cities. One of the teachers-a Mr. S .- related an experience that he had a number of years ago in one of the southern counties of Missouri. The school to which he had been appointed for the winter was one of the toughest in the county. The teacher during the previous winter had been thrown bodily out of the school one day by the pupils and was compelled to resign.

Mr. S. resolved that nothing of that kind should occur during his administration and from the first he ruled things with an iron hand. The school term was pretty well advanced before some of the older pupils entered, so that he had little trouble at first. Some of these were strapping fellows six feet in height, short in book learning, but long on physical strength. For several weeks their behavior was above approach. One day Mr. S. went out to the coal thed, which stood some distance from the schoolhou'e to get a bucket of coal. When he returned he found the school door locked and about fifteen of the largest and most powerfui of his pupils upon the inside of the building. where they were having a good time. All of the teacher's requests for admittance were received with shouts of derisive laughter and it looked for a time as if the day's session had been abruptly brought to a

There were two locks on the dcor, a spring lock and one of the common variety, and it occurred to Mr. S. that if the pupils had only secured the spring lock he was all right, for be had the key in his pocket. It took him but a short time to force show an income of more than $75,000 put the key in the lock and great was his surprise when the door yielded and he was again upon the inside. The sudden appearance of Mr. S. among the rebels disconcerted them, as they were not expecting any such ending to their sport. One of the young men tried to brush past, but he was hurried to one side and the others in the school room were ordered to their seats. The few scholars who still remained upon the play ground were admitted to the school room and the doors locked. Mr. S. is a man of powerful physique and is as strong as the proverbial cx. He determined then and there to put an end to any further insubordination. He asked why he had been locked out and who had suggested it. There was no reply. Mr. S. took off his coat, laid it upon a chair and called out the pupils who had been concerned in the uprising, one at a time. Most of them came out promptly to receive the severest whipping they had ever had in their lives. Several refused to come out, but they were unmercifully whipped in their seats. One strapping treatment which will correct this condition young fellow, the bully of the school, tried to mix up with Mr. S., but he received a not alone intended for those who are sick, stunning blow in the face that sent him sprawling. When Mr. S. got through he hearty, but cannot acquire sufficient flesh to had the meekest school in the district and round out the form. Cleveland Leader: A young insurance man received an introduction to some good people a few days ago in a manner which he will not soon forget. The friend who did the honors was somewhat of a wag, but was one of those quiet, sober, polished men whom one meets occasionally. Upon this occasion he was as grave and dignified as a church deacon and seemingly perfectly sincere. He said:

"I would like to make you acquainted with Mr. B-. I can recommend him to your good graces, having known both him and his family for years. His father is one of the best men I know, and their family is an old one. There is only one thing I might say: Mr. B- is an insurance man, and I have always insisted that anyone who could tell as good a lie as he can ought either to be a piano tuner or a lightning rod agent."
