MANY ENTERTAINMENTS OF LAST WEEK

«New Year's Day Sees a Start Made on Functions of All Sorts That Kept the Society Devotee Busy.

If the initial day of the year is to be accepted as a criterion, those who have found the social life of the city lacking in interesting affairs this winter will have no further occasion for complaint, unless it be of an excess of galety, for it has been many years since New Year's day has been so generally celebrated in Omaha as it was this Aside from the exceptional list of fashionable functions in the homes of the city, the annual receptions of the Woman's club, the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian associations and several other organizations afforded opportunity for the exchange of greetings among hundreds who had entertained less pretentiously, while the Bostonians at Boyd's attracted numerous box and theater parties. Dozens of homes kept open house and their hosts or hostesses dispensed good cheer and heapital ity according to the custom so popular more than a generation ago, while the bachelor who for weeks past has been a superfluity at all afternoon affairs enjoyed to the utmost the fact that he was an absolute essential to the success of the occasion.

Bullion was served by Mrs. Dietz, while Miss Webster presided at the punch bowl. The other assisting women were: Mesdames Joseph Barker, jr., Guiou, Burgess, Yates. Towle, Morse, Lomax, Lindsay, Allen, Preston, Taylor, Smith and Elizabeth Allen.

Between 9 and 10 o'clock New Year's night Judge Woolworth, assisted by Mrs. Howard, received about 300 guests at Courtlandt in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Minor Fairfield. The large rooms had been partially cleared of their furniture and dressed with a quantity of southern smilax, which banked the mantles or trailed at a supper party to meet Miss Hilda Clark above the door and windows opening upon the varanda, which had been inclosed and the sides festooned with Christmas wreaths caught empire style with handsome hows of scarlet.
