THE ONLY SAFE PLAN.

Differences as to caucus agreement seem now to have been brought down to the method of voting for the two senators, substantial harmony having been reached on the number to nominate and the roll call ballot.

Two plans are proposed—one for separate voting for each of the two senators and the other for simultaneous choice. The first plan contemplates the nomination of one senator first and the second afterward.

Not only would simultaneous choice place all candidates on an equal plane, but it would be most efficacious in accomplishing as speedily as possible the real purpose of the caucus, which is the election of two republican United States senators to represent Nebraska.

There is no doubt that there is reflected in this opinion of a majority in the senate, but it is still questionable whether that body can be induced to take action on the pending bill.

According to a dispatch from Paris three reasons are urged for the opposition to removing the negotiations from China. One is that all the information is at hand regarding the situation.

Our government has shown no great anxiety to have the negotiations carried on at Washington, so that the opposition to its suggestion is not regarded as a serious matter, but it is very desirous to have the negotiations begun without unnecessary delay.

The superintendent of the State Institution for Feeble-Minded Youth has resigned, to take effect April 15. The superintendent desires as long a time to get out as it required for him to get in.

The majority of the populist members of the Montana legislature absented themselves from the senatorial caucus. It is becoming evident would-be Senator Clark must tap another copper mine.

CUBA IN THE NEW CENTURY.

General Fitzhugh Lee in Leslie's Weekly. Cuba stands at the portal of self-government, the most important of the new century. Our government is pledged to establish a stable government in the island, and to make this pledge good there must be some supervision of the convention's work from Washington.

There are other Cubans who, while desiring absolute home rule, believe it desirable that the United States exercise some kind of protectorate and limited responsibility. These men are in favor of once establishing with us trade relations of the closest character and sealed by imperishable agreement.

There is a third class of Cubans, who, while agreeing more or less with both of the two former propositions, believe that Cuba should have her own government and that after this government has existed for a while, the people of the island should then apply for either partial or complete annexation.

At present the whole matter is in abeyance. Only one thing is certain, and that is that the United States cannot and will not step in and override any wise form of constitution or government that the people of the island decide upon.

The river and harbor bill which President Arthur vetoed which the forty-seventh congress passed over his veto and which was re-elected occurring a few months later swept the republicans out of power in the house of representatives.

Guam is becoming a rival to St. Helena. To the latter island the British have transported the captured Boers. General Macartney captured the precedent and is sending Filipino officers to Guam.

It may be assumed that it was not the desire or the intention of Mr. Armour to enslave himself to his business, but it is difficult for a man situated as he was to do anything else.

OTHER LANDS THAN OURS.

King Carlos of Portugal in his speech on the reopening of the Cortes again took occasion to refer to the recent visit of a British fleet to the Tagus as having "emphasized the solemn affirmation then made of the close friendship and alliance which unites the two nations."

A disturbing element in the domestic affairs of Belgium is the question of religious instruction in the common or state schools, which, apparently, is about to be reopened with all that bitterness of party spirit which seems to be unavoidable in all such controversies.

The correspondent of the London Times in Vienna, after referring to the prevalence of murder and every sort of outrage in Macedonia, says that there is a general suspicion that the Turkish authorities are directly responsible for a great part of the lawlessness prevailing there.

PROTECT THE BABIES.

The story of pitiful horror which the wires brought from Rochester yesterday suggests the question, Are not such things preventable? There is no evidence that the fire in the Hubbell Orphan Asylum was due to carelessness on the part of the firemen.

The story of the slaughter of the innocents that followed is heartrending, but how much more heartrending is the thought of the cold-blooded "charity" that would consent to the storage of so many little lives under such conditions?

It may be assumed that it was not the desire or the intention of Mr. Armour to enslave himself to his business, but it is difficult for a man situated as he was to do anything else.

LAUGHING GAS.

Detroit Free Press: "How your life shall be filled with sunshine. 'Yes, but how about lamplight? Can you undertake to keep the oil can filled?'"

Washington Star: "That was a ringing speech you made the other day. 'A friend of mine said it is a great force to have an electric bell, with a big corporation pressing the button.'"

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Your son has a very robust appetite. 'Yes, but he is ashamed of him. He always over-eats when we have company. 'A friend of mine said it is a great force to have an electric bell, with a big corporation pressing the button.'"

Detroit Journal: "The World stood aghast. 'They are marrying in haste!' exclaimed the World in horror. 'Two more hasty puddings!' remarked Dire Fate, sotto voce, and laughed with extreme immoderation."
