House I noncupied, but Patients to Be Removed There Today-Flames Are Subdued with but Small Damage.

An attempt was made to burn the South Omaha pesthouse, at Thirtieth and J streets. last night.

That the fire was of incendiary origin is shown by the fact that parts of the building cuits. This is the third time that the city had been saturated with kerosene. Prompt action by the fire department saved the building from destruction, and the damage is comparatively slight. The fire broke out porch. The house was unoccupied, the city having purchased it for emergency hospital pur-poses only the day before. It was the intention to remove several smallpox patients there today, but now it will be necessary to delay such action until repairs are made. The water thrown by the firemen thoroughly soaked the place and that is another reason why it is not ready for immediate Small Frame Structure.

The building is a small frame structure of three rooms. Workmen had been engaged yesterday cleaning and otherwise preparing for the reception of patients, and such scant furniture as pesthouses require was in position. There was a fire in the stove, but the discovery of kerosene on the outside of the house sets at naught the theory that the blaze originated from that source.

No particular effort has been made to ascertain the identity of the incendiaries. The most plausible motive is that a pesthouse was not wanted at Thirtieth and J streets. It was announced officially last night that there will be no surrender from the original plans, and as soon as the place is in proper condition smallpox patients will be taken there. To prevent the possibility of further application of the torch a police watch will be established, it is announced. The fire was discovered at 8:30 o'clock and was subdued a few minutes later.

Market State of the State of th At a meeting of the Board of Health held yesterday it was decided to issue a proclamation laying down certain rules for the government of the people during the existence of smallpox and also informing the public of the exact status of affairs at this time.

The proclamation follows:

The proclamation follows:

Whereas, Several cases of smallpox powexist in different and widely separated parts of this city at this time and many exposures have resulted therefrom; and.

Whereas, It has become necessary to take prompt action and decided steps to eraclicate such disease and to prevent its further spread; and.

Whereas, The city authorities have signified their willingness to co-operate and assist to the end that the foregoing sitted purposes might be best accomplished:

Now, therefore, under and by virtue of this authority vested in us as a Board of Health of the city of South Omaha, we hereby announce and proclaim the following as a part of the rules and regulations adopted by us as such board and approved by the city authorities, and their strict observance is hereby requested and demanded from all persons to the end that our work in attempting to eradicate said disease and to prevent its further spread, may be quickly, and best accomplished.

The city authorities have purchased and fitted up a pesthouse or temporary hospital, where all indigent persons will be removed when exposed or stricken.

Gentlemen:—I know Warner's Safe Cure saved my life. Last spring I had a severe attack of jaundice with other complications, which laid me up for several weeks. I lost my appetite, became nervous and irritable, lost flesh and courage and found no relief. As the doctor's prescription did not help me mother talked with our druggest, who advised her to try Warner's Safe Cure. She brought me a bottle and as that seemed to help me I tried another, and then another and inside of a month I was well and have enjoyed good health ever since. Valuable for Bomes.

"Time was when fear of an annual overflow caused this land to be undesirable to persons who wanted something more than place to raise corn, cattle and hogs, but since the development of the country higher up the river has caused a cessation of the spring overflow this land is as valuable as any for homes. Farmers from the east who in times past would not look at the desolate homes and who feared to settle on the bottoms have changed their views. They have bought land, planted orchards, seeded tracts down to grass and made homes where their predecessors were content to leave the land undeveloped except in the degree necessary for the cultivation of corn.

'Since Nebraska has experienced several years of good crops and the Nebraska farmer has money instead of bills payable at the bank, the men who formerly loaned him the money are now trying to invest it in real estate. There were heavy sales of ranch and farm lands last fall, but I predict that it will be as nothing when compared to the sales which will be recorded in all parts of the state in the spring.

THAT CLOCK OF UNCLE SAM'S Every Genius in Town Has a Remedy for Its Shortcomings.

Local genius is interesting itself in disovering a method of making the hands of the government clock plain to view at night as well as day, and Cadet Taylor, custodian of the federal building, is being flooded with suggestions. These suggestions are all made in good faith and received in the spirit in which they are sent, but some of them are more remarkable for their novelty than for practicability. One person suggests that the light be taken from behind the dial and that two incandescent lights, one red and one green, be placed at the extremity of the hands, their location showing the time of the night. This plan would be effective if there were any way by which the lights could be attached and maintained, but at the time the tower was constructed no provision was

Charley Baxter, the engineer at the building, has a plan which he thinks discounts all of those suggested, but on this subject GOOD DEMAND FROM VARIOUS SOURCES remains mute, saying that until the plans are ready for the clock he will not make them public, as it is a method which may be stolen unless patented. He has not even taken the custodian into his confidence, but when all details have been arranged he will forward them to Washington for approval, and afterward Omaha will be given the first chance to see the full flower of the inventive

People cannot help worrying when their nerves are weak. That feeling of languor, dullness and exhaustion is the fearful condition which often precedes insanity. The power to work or study diminishes and despondency depresses the mind night and day.

If you are suffering the tortures of Nervous Debility, there is no knowing how soon you may decline to something more horrible. But you can get well. The youthful strength, buoyancy and happiness can be restored by the use of
