The conclusion, therefore, expressed by this court in the Kochler case is not distum, but is decision, and we must either follow it or overrule it. We consider that inasmuch as it involves the construction of our own constitution and has been recognized for many years as making definite and certain the method to be pursued in amending the constitution, it should be followed. And in conclusion, with reference to that case, we consider that it is not for us to determine that of the two questions involved, relating to the method of amendang the constitution, one only was regarded as decided while the other was simply discussed. The conclusion of the court as to either one of these two questions would have determined the case, and one conclusion is as binding upon us as the other. Therefore, following the locision of the court in the Kochler case, we hold that the proposed amendment not having been entered upon the journal of the house of the twenty-seventh general assembly was not proposed and adopted as required by our constitution and has not become a part thereof.

Nervous Exhaustion

"Two years ago this summer I was in a miserable condition as the result of hard work. I was completely run down, pale and losing flesh, and so nervous that I could not sleep or even get rest. It was dreadful to go to bed at night all worn out and lie awake for hours with nervousness. If I did fall asleep it was to wake up in the morning as tired as when I went to bed.

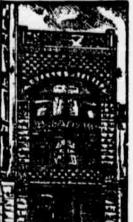

"My head troubled me a great deal, too, both with pain and dizzluess. If I stooped over at any time I would be so dizzy I could hardly see or keep from falling down. I was troubled somewhat with indigestion at this time, but the nervousness was the greater trouble. If I became a little excited my hands would shake so I could hardly hold anything in them. I employed our best physicians, but not one of them did me any permanent good.

"I had, of course, read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pil's for Pale People, but had never taken any of them till Mr. Robert Van Kuren, of Jordan, recommended them to me so strongly, from his own experience with them, that I got some and before the first box was used up I began to feel that they were doing me good. I kept on taking them according to directions and got from them the only real, permanent benefit I have had from any remedy. It did seem so good to get a night's sleep and to be refreshed by it. I am a firm believer in Dr. Williams' Pink Fills for Pale People and I do, and shall, recommend them to my friends. I generally keep a box in the house to take in onse I feel a little run down."
