This makes the second time that these cases have been continued, and the motion yesterday was vigorously resisted by County Attorney Killpack. PUBLIC LIBRARY QUARANTINED.

He had been alling for sevimportant matters yesterday. At the morn- eral days and had not been on his run, which is between here and Omaha, for nearly two weeks.

Mrs. Van Horn, wife of the sick man, is teacher in one of the public schools in Omaha. Deputy Marshal Charles White, a brother-in-law, and Mrs. Van Horn's two sisters, Misses Jennie and Williams White, all occupy a portion of the Van Horn apartments and have been placed under quarantine. Miss Jennie White is a teacher in the Bancroft school in Omaha, while Miss Williana White is principal of the North Eighth street school in this city. The later was not feeling well yesterday and was unable to go to school.

The public library is situated in the Meriam block and as soon as the Van Horn spartments were quarantined Mrs. Dailey, the librarian, acting under instructions from the board, closed the doors of the

The Merriam block was ordered thoroughly disinfected, especially the floor on which the Van Horn family lived. This was begun last night. It was learned that Conductor Johnson of

During the several days since Van Horn first became ill Miss White has been regularly at her work until Monday afternoon, when she was unable to remain at her post, and went home. She did not go to the school yesterday.

After a protracted discussion, in which Member Macrae strongly urged that there was sufficient danger of Miss White having carried the contagion to warrant closing the school, a motion was made by him that the Eighth Street school be closed until March 18, and that the entire building be signified. This was supported by the votes of President Henry and Macrae and Sargent, but was defeated by the votes of Cooper, Hess, Stewart and Swaine. latter took the position that the quarantining of Miss White was sufficient precaution and that the dismissal of the school and the scattering of the teachers and children would be more dangerous than to continue harles Stevenson Arrested on Complaint of J. F. Moore. Charles Stevenson is behind the bars at the city jail, charged with the theft of nearly nine tons of hay, the property of J. F. Moore of Onawa, Ia. He was arrested yesterday morning on an information filed by Moore before Judge Aylesworth of the susperior court.

THEFT OF NINE TONS OF HAY,

Moore is a dealer in hay and recently shipped five carloads from Onawa to Council Bluffs and stored it here awaiting a rise in the market. One carload he stored in the barn of a sister of Stevenson at 1516 Fifth avenue.

A few days age Moore had an opportunity to dispose of the hay and he came to Council Bluffs. On going to the Stevenson barn, he discovered that all of his hay with the exception of about one ton was gone. Investigation developed the fact that Charles Stevenson had sold it to different parties in the city.

Stevenson recently finished serving term in the penitentiary for mortgaging wagon and team of mules belonging to the lowa School for the Deaf. The team was hitched on the street and Stevenson drove it to the office of a Broadway money lender and, representing that the outfit was his property, borrowed $100 on it. Two weeks ago he was arrested and taken to Onawa o answer to a charge of breaking into freight cars. The preliminary hearing resulted in his acquittal.

Moore stored part of the hay on Broadway and yesterday discovered that it had also been stolen and that the party owning the building had left for parts unknown.
