allowed to plead guilty to petit larceny. About a year ago Stevenson was paroled from the penitentiary at Fort Madison. One of the requirements of the parole was that Stevenson should report every month to the governor his whereabouts and what he was doing. His sentence to the county jail will, it is understood, result in the parole being withdrawn and Stevenson required to finish out his term at the penitentiary. Had he behaved himself and kept out of further trouble his sentence would have expired next week

Conveyances Made in Lifetime of Bank Partners Are Attacked-Lawyers Suggest a Compromise.

Judge Thornell of the district court is anxious that the affairs of the defunct banking firm of Officer & Pusey be wound up as speedily as possible and yesterday morning he held a conference in his chambers senting creditors of the firm.

The principal object of the conference was to discuss the method of procedure to be followed in the event it was found necessary to bring suits to set aside deeds executed by Thomas Officer and W. H. M. Pusey during their lifetime, conveying property to the various members of their families. Creditors of the banking firm will make as effort to have these conveyances set aside as null and void, on the grounds that at the time Officer & Pusey deeded the property to their children and other members of their families the bank was insolvent and that whatever assets the members of the Regular services will be resumed tomor-ow at Trinity Methodist church. LIQUOR WITHOUT A LICENSE.

Charles Hansen of South Omaha Locked Up in Iowa. Charles Hansen, representing a South Omaha wholesale liquor house, has been placed in the county jail, having been bound over by the United States commissioner at Des Moines to await the action of the federal grand jury on a charge of selling liquor without a government license.

Hansen first got into trouble at Massena, la., where he was arrested by the civil authorities for retailing liquor without a license and was committed to the county jail at Atlantic for thirty days. The day his sentence expired he was taken into custody by Deputy United States Marshal Mc Naught, who took him before the commissioner at Des Moines on a charge of violating Uncle Sam's internal revenue laws. He was bound over to the grand jury and being unable to put up a $200 bond was committed to the county jail here.

The South Omaha house which Hansen represented shipped liquor in "original" packages into the small towns throughou Iowa and Hansen would dispose of it wherever he could find a customer.

SHAW INJUNCTION

Courts Will Not Allow McGregor to Slander Iowa's Gevernor.

CONTROVERSY IS OF LONG STANDING

ery, is Pardoned-Many Enlistments for Army at Des Moines -Is Exposed to Smallpox.

DES MOINES, March 1 .- (Special.) -- Governor Leslie M. Shaw believes in government by injunction, at least to the extent of protecting his own good name by injunction pending his candidacy for the presidential nomination of 1904. The governor has resorted to the courts and to an injunction to prevent at least one person from talking about him or writing about him or circulating statements derogatory to the governor's good name as a practicing attorney in Crawford county. The governor claims that he has been slandered and libeled by one John McGregor and that the said McGregor contemplates repeating his slanderous statements, and this week Judge Elwood of the district court granted the governor a temporary injunction restraining the said McGregor from opening his mouth or using his pen in this offensive way until the court can finally adjudicate the matter.

The trouble is of long standing. Back in 1886 a client of Mr. Shaw attempted to get a judgment lien on some property in the possession of McGregor, but in McGregor's of them took part. The presence of the wife's name. The case was tried before minister kept away the Methodists, but Judge Conner, now member of congress, and resulted in a victory for McGregor, upon which Shaw, as attorney for John Glelser, the plaintiff in the case, appealed the case to the supreme court, where he was beaten again.

In making up the papers for the supreme court it was necessary to show properly the service of the legal papers in the case, and not having the original papers Mr. Shaw, in his petition at that time, stated that he substituted certain papers and gave the names of the officers who had served them. McGregor claimed that no such Mr. Brackett's service he still continued to papers were ever served and cites the case of one W. H. Laub, then a constable, who to the paper by somebody else. On the strength of this McGregor accused Shaw of perjury and forgery and other various offenses. He has circulated the statement freely in recent months and some time ago, in a tilt in court, McGregor boasted that he was going to print and circulate 5,000 circulars containing the full informa-

Ignorance Not Productive.

At the meeting of the Theta Delta Literary society of the High school yesterday afternoon the subject debated was: "Resolved, that Ignorance is Productive of Crime." Edyth Flickinger and Lera Wheeler took the affirmative. Alga Smith and Evelyn Thomas spoke in the negative. Following the debate Jane Jamison read a humorous selection. "A Boy's Pocket and a full pure with the state of lowa, and especially to judges of the supreme court and other high officials of the state of fowa, and especially to judges of the supreme court and other high officials of the state of Iowa, and the promise of the state of Iowa, and the promise of the supreme court and other high officials of the state of Iowa, and to promise the supreme court and other high officials of the state of Iowa, and to promise the supreme court and other high officials of the state of Iowa, and to promise the supreme court and other high officials of the state of Iowa, and to promise the supreme court and other high officials of the state of Iowa, and to promise the supreme court and other high officials of the state of Iowa, and to promise the supreme court and other high officials of the state of Iowa and Iowa and Iowa and Iowa and Iowa and Iowa and Iowa for an injunction, and in his petition says: Another smallpox patient was added to the list at the city pesthouse yesterday morning in the person of H. I. Shepard, whose home is at New Loudon, Ia.

Shepard has been in South Dakota and was on his way home. He boarded a Union Pacific train early yesterday morning at Fremont and arrived at the transfer depot about 7 o'clock. He was seated in the day coach of the Burlington passenger train waiting to continue his journey home when Conductor Dave Fisher became suspicious that Shepard was suffering from

The petition recites that all the charges are false and malicious, that the defendant is insolvent and the plaintiff has no remedy at law and that if the defendant is permitted to go on unrestrained the governor They are expected to arrive here this will suffer great and irreparable loss and damage and injury. > Pardon for Joseph Cuddy. Joseph Cuddy, who was sentenced to the penitentiary at Anamosa October 15, 1897, for a period of seven and a half years, has been pardoned by Governor Shaw and has arrived at his home in Clinton. Cuddy was convicted of forgery, his work being the cleverest ever executed in the state His operations covered a period of four years and involved several thousands of dollars' worth of property. In order to explain where he received his money Cuddy had the story circulated that he had fallen heir to a large sum of money. Prisoner Was Exposed.

A prisoner at the penitentiary at Fort Madison was taken to Council Bluffs to testify in some federal case recently and on the way back a stopover was made in Des Moines. The prisoner was placed in the Polk county jail for safekeeping over night and the next morning was taken on to Fort Madison. It has since been discovered that the night he was in the jail here was the night that several cases of smallpox were discovered among the prisoners in the jail. The prisoner has been vaccinated, fumigated, etc., at the state penitentiary.

April and May are the months when most people do their moving. The prospects are that the demand for of-fices in Omaha was never so great as it will be this spring. There are not a great many rooms vacant in but there are among them several which are particularly choice; one directly in front of the elevator on the 5th floor; one on the 1st floor next to the entrance to The Bee business office; a suite of three rooms on the 3rd floor, and a very large office and vault on the ground floor facing 17th street. Besides these, there are four or five smaller rooms in various parts of the building.

The rents are reasonable and the service perfect.
