CAN SHE WIN THEM BOTH Question Some People Would Like an

Omaha Girl to Auswer Them. It was the choice between an Omaha lover and another one from Bay City, Mich., hat she made Sunday afternoon. Perhaps she did not intend to make the choice, but she did just the same. She spent the afternoon with one, she went to the depot and waited with him until the train left she waved her handkerchief through the fron fence and threw a kiss at him as the car pulled past the depot.

No, she is not my wife, said the Omaha man. "We were to have been married this spring, but we won't now. I won't marry her after this performance. For two hours the Omaha man had stood on the visduct watching the loving couple as they strolled up and down the platform. He had followed them from her home, where he had found the Michigan lover, who had come down to spend Sunday and whom
