Jetter is the owner of a tract of land between Twenty-seventh and Thirtieth streets and Madison and Y atreets, and he proposes to have this land laid out into city jots and placed upon the market. The increasing demand for residence property in the Third ward has caused Mr. Jetter to decide to plat about twenty-five acres of his land and place it upon the market. Only a short time ago Suliivan's addition was platted into eighty-three lots and every lot has been rold with the exception of two, which are being held for the erection of a Bohemian Catholic church. The ready manner in which fots in Sullivan's addition were sold convinced Mr. Jetter that there was a demand for more property in that vicinity, and it is understood that engineers will commence within the next day or two lay-

In addition to the plats referred to Mr. Jetter proposes to plat and offer for sale four acres on East Q street. This land lies between Thirteenth and Seventeenth streets. Should these lands be placed upon the market soon it is thought that there will be considerable building in the spring. Laboring men are daily making inquries of dealers in materials as to the price of lumber, cement, etc., and carpenters figure that a large number of small dwellings will be erected in the Second. Crow in Jail.

Members of the South Omaha police force became tired the other day answering inquiries about Pat Crowe, so a little joke was framed up and it worked to perfection. A real nice fat crow was secured and placed in the rear cell at the jail. Then the word was sent out that Crowe was in jail. Every policeman who told the tale gave it out in strict confidence and soon the jail was full of curious people who wanted to take a look at Crowe. After exacting all kinds of promises from the curious visitors Chief Mitchell convoyed the visitors to the rear of the tail, where they were treated to the sight of a dead crow. WASHINGTON, March 6—The annual report of the Board of Indian Commissioners expresses a confident view of the Indian situation and says that the policy of Jissible pursued by the government and the better knowledge of the power and resources of the government of the United States which now prevalls among the indian tribes will render improbable any renewals of serious rioting and attempted war on the part of the Indian tribes.

The report says there is a need of comprehension and continuous policy of administration in Indian affairs which shall look to the speedy extinction of a separate bureau for Indians and a separate Indian administration.
