

WILL FIGHT FOR TEN CLUBS

Tebeau Believes Western League Will Find the Plan Feasible.

STANDS UP FOR DENVER MAGNATE

Figures It Out That All Can Stay in and Shoulder Expense by Judicial Arrangement of Schedule.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 13.—(Special Telegram.)—"I am in favor of a ten-club league," declared George Tebeau, the local base ball club owner tonight. "That is, if the thing is feasible, and I think the schedule can be so arranged that it will be quite possible that we can carry ten clubs the coming season. I am going to St. Paul with the idea of working for such a circuit. Unless I am shown that the arrangement is impracticable I intend to make a big fight for it. It is not right that Packard, the Denver magnate, should be shut out the first year he gets into the business. He has spent money on his team with the expectation of making a good return on his investment and he should be given the chance to do so. Denver is a good ball town—the best in the league last season. It's a shame it is so far west.

"As our traveling expenses were about $1,000 last year, with a bigger circuit this year, they will be nearly $2,000, as near as I can figure it out. This is a big load to carry, but we can fix up the schedule so that all can stay in. At any rate, I will have to be convinced that the plan can't be carried through before I will consent to leaving Denver or Pueblo."

COLEMAN ACCEPTS CHALLENGE

Will Accommodate Grand Island Wrestler with a Match Any Time During This Month.

Scott Seale, a wrestler of prominence, whose home is at Grand Island, has forwarded the sporting editor of The Bee a challenge for a match with Prof. Frank Coleman, instructor in wrestling at the Omaha School of Physical Culture. Mr. Seale's challenge is as follows: "GRAND ISLAND, Neb., March 11, 1901.—To the sporting editor of The Bee: I hereby challenge Mr. Coleman to a wrestling match, catch-as-catch-can, on a side."

Prof. Coleman and his manager, Eddie Robinson, were notified of the challenge this morning, and immediately signified their willingness to accept it. "I have heard a great deal of Mr. Seale," said Coleman. "Although I have never met him, I am cranked up to a fighting mood. I have been anxious to meet him for some time. I hear that he is a six-footer and weighs over 200 pounds, but I am willing to meet him on the terms of this challenge and an affidavit that I can win two falls out of the three."

FAT MEN ARE GOOD BOWLERS

Carry Away the Prizes in Their First Series of Match Games with the Clever Westerners.

In the first of this series the Westerns defeated the Fat Men by a total of 255 pins; in the second the Fat Men turned the tables by defeating the Westerns by a total of 242 pins, thus leaving the Westerns 43 pins to the good when starting in on the match last evening. WILL KEEP ATHLETIC PARK

Young Men's Christian Association Decides Not to Give Up Summer Playgrounds.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Young Men's Christian Association Tuesday night it was decided that the athletic park will be continued during the present year.

It was thought for a time that the park must be abandoned on account of lack of funds, but fifty-eight members agreed to either secure a new member or pay $10 into the association and this will make it possible to maintain the park. It will be used exclusively by members of the association and will not be rented for the use of athletic events in which the association is not interested.

The membership committee reported that seventy-six permanent and fifty temporary tickets were issued during February, and that the total membership at present is 1,231.

In the educational department there are three classes in fifteen branches and the total enrollment is 800. One hundred and thirty-seven new members were added in February, with a total attendance of 4,000.

constitutional and international lawyer and it was his extraordinary ability as a lawyer that contributed so largely to his success in his administration of the great office. Mr. Elkies paid a high tribute to General Harrison's character as a man and said that he was much better known and appreciated by the people of this country and by the world at large after leaving the presidency than he was as president. In conclusion he said:

"General Harrison's death is a loss to the United States and to the world. His counsel and wisdom in these troublous times were much needed. Mr. Harrison in the presidency showed himself not only a great administrator and a great lawyer, but what was more surprising a great writer as well. When he had finished a state paper nobody in Mr. Blaine's opinion, could add anything material to it. This is a verdict on Mr. Harrison's reputation as a statesman which will be substantial and history will accept."

Ex-Speaker Dead

The Journal and Advertiser tomorrow will print the following statement from former Speaker Thomas B. Reed after the death of Mr. Harrison:

"No one could doubt the intellectual force of General Harrison or the strength of his character. These attributes always gave him command of the confidence of his nation. His standing in his own state was so high that when his success in Indiana was indispensable in the national election he was naturally chosen as the candidate of his party. As soon as the campaign opened it became evident to dwellers in distant states that Harrison was more than an available candidate. His term of the presidency was full of his personality. His administration certainly left the country better than he found it. His recent utterances have been characterized by the same good sense and moderation that in general marked his previous speeches and his death at this time is peculiarly unfortunate for the nation."

Whitewash Dead

SAN FRANCISCO, March 13.—Whitewash Reid of New York tonight said the following of ex-President Harrison: "General Harrison ranked intellectually among the ablest of our presidents. His labors were conscientious and he was ready, when required, to assume at the same time the detailed duty of the most exacting of the departments. His administration was pure and the country under it was prosperous. His absorption in his work sometimes led to a brusqueness of manner which was misconstrued, and those who knew him slightly, or not at all, thought him cold. Those more intimate found him hearty, genial and in private life, full of quick and tender sympathies. He never forgot a friend or a service, though his critics sometimes said that the same tenacity of character might occasionally make it difficult for him to forget an injury. He has distinctly gained in public appreciation since his retirement from office. The loss of such a man when beyond further ambition and trusted by the country, is almost the greatest we could experience."

General John Noble

ST. LOUIS, March 13.—General John W. Noble, who served as secretary of the interior in the cabinet of General Harrison, displayed much emotion when informed of the ex-president's death. He said:

"I have admired from my first acquaintance with him, and have recognized in him one of the greatest, if not the very greatest, men in our country. He was great in every department of life—as a soldier in the civil war, as a lawyer practicing in the courts of the very highest tribunals and as a statesman. He held the first rank as a senator of the United States and subsequently exhibited the broadest mind and the highest diplomatic skill in his treatment of the Bering straits difficulty with Great Britain. "I know him personally and well, and I know it was a great mistake to look upon him as a man of little feeling. He showed signally on the occasion of Secretary Tracy's great affliction when the latter lost his wife and daughter in the great Washington fire all the tenderness of a woman."

General Harrison's Wealth

is Various Estimated at From $250,000 to $500,000—Law Practice Lucrative.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 13.—General Harrison's wealth is variously estimated, public opinion rating it as high as half a million dollars. Those who are best informed about the ex-president's affairs, however, say he was worth about $250,000 or $300,000. At the time he was elected president he was reputed to have accumulated a fortune of $125,000 from his law practice and this has been doubted at least since that time. Of late his practice, owing to his great reputation as a constitutional lawyer, was very lucrative. His fee in the Venezuelan boundary dispute, in which he represented the South American republic, was $100,000.

PIONEER CITIZEN DIES

E. A. McClure Passes Away at the Age of Eighty Years—An Early Settler.

E. A. McClure, a pioneer of Omaha, died at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday of pleuro-pneumonia at the family residence, 621 1/2 South Nineteenth street. He was aged 80 years, nearly half of which were spent in this city.

Mr. McClure came to Omaha December 21, 1861, and purchased a half interest in the Omaha Republican, which he disposed of in 1868. He then left Omaha and was a trader among the Winnebago Indians in northern Nebraska for four years. Returning to the city in 1871 he began the manufacture of crackers on Harney street in partnership with E. V. Smith, to whom he sold out in 1878. In 1879 he was appointed to the police force and a year later was promoted to the position of deputy city marshal, which he held for many years.

He was born in Butler county, Ohio, November 18, 1821, and was married to Miss Jane Studebaker, who survives him. They have six children: Harry, Fred, Frank, George A. and Lizzie and Mrs. M. Preston, all of whom, with one exception, reside in this city. His was the only death in the family for thirty-five years. Interment will be in Prospect Hill cemetery, but the date has not been selected.

Dog Sets a House Afire

A little fluffy poodle dog that wears a round comb to keep the hair out of its eyes is said to have been responsible for a $150 fire Tuesday morning in the home of its mistress, Mrs. Kate Stein, 194-6 North Tenth street. While trying to jump out of a window about 7 o'clock it inadvertently dragged the curtain over the chimney of a lighted lamp and in an instant the hangings were ablaze. As the family was not yet astray, the fire made considerable headway before it was discovered. All loss was covered by insurance.

Large advertisement for Wine of Cardui. Includes illustration of a woman and text: "TRIALS OF WOMANHOOD. Disordered menstruation works with the lives of women. Thousands of women, because of menstrual troubles, are keeping the pall of sickness continually over homes they might cheer and brighten were they well. To these sufferers—to those stricken homes—Wine of Cardui is offered today. Mrs. North was in misery. Her condition was so bad that menstruation, instead of being a health function, was a weakening drain on her system. She took Wine of Cardui, and secured relief just the same as thousands of her sisters had done. There is no mystery about her cure. This pure vegetable Wine which was provided by Nature regulated her menses and banished the terrible smarting pain and now she is a well woman—as well and strong as if she had never known the terrors and agony of disordered menses. She is doing her own work without getting tired. Thedford's Black-Draught assisted materially in this cure. It regulates the bowels and invigorates digestion and blood making. Black-Draught is the companion medicine of Wine of Cardui and works in harmony with it. Wine of Cardui and Thedford's Black-Draught are the medicines that made Mrs. North say: 'I feel so much better now'. Never accept substitutes for them. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui and 25 cent packages of Thedford's Black-Draught. Des Moines, Iowa, November 18, 1900. I thank you very much for your kind advice. A friend of mine who has been using Wine of Cardui with much benefit advised me to get a bottle of the Wine as she was sure it would help me. I got a bottle of Wine of Cardui and a package of Thedford's Black-Draught and they have done me a world of good. I take a small dose of Thedford's Black-Draught dry after each meal and no gas arises from my stomach as there always was before. I was always in misery two or three hours after eating. Now I can eat a good hearty meal and never know it after taking a little of the powder. I began using Wine of Cardui as soon as my menses came on and I had hardly any pain at all. I did not have to lie down at all. I stayed up and I did all my work without feeling very tired. I am going to continue the use of Wine of Cardui for I am sure I have hit on the right medicine at last—a medicine that will cure me. I feel so much better now. I have a sister in Manitoba who has been troubled with falling of the womb. I am going to write her about your wonderful medicine and get her to give it a trial. I am sure Wine of Cardui will help her. Mrs. SARAH A. NORTH.
