BREEDERS SHOW ENTHUSIASM

Lead and Emphasis in Praise of South Omaha as Distributing Point.

MAKE DEMAND FOR NEW SALE PAVILION

Second Day of Westrop Sale of Short-horn Stock Proves Successful, with Good Prices Prevailing.

The enthusiasm of the breeders of this section of the great corn belt for South Omaha as a fine stock market and their desire for better accommodations was shown in a resolution presented to the breeders present at the Westrop sale yesterday afternoon.

The breeders are in earnest in this matter and they all seem to believe that if proper facilities are afforded many more sales will be held here.

Whereas, Many fine short-horn breeders of the corn belt of America being desirous of holding auction sales of breeding stock of the beef breeds, and appreciating the fact that South Omaha, because of its excellent location as a railroad center, is destined to be the three principal points for the sale of breeding stock.

Resolved, That we respectfully and most earnestly petition the management of the South Omaha stock yards to provide as soon as possible commodious and suitable buildings for holding such public sales.

E. O. COWAN, New York Mo., T. M. WOODS, Lincoln, Mo., Committee.

Colonel Woods' Long Service. Twenty years ago Colonel L. M. Woods conducted T. R. Westrop's first public sale and yesterday he, assisted by Colonel T. C. Callahan and R. W. Barclay, closed the last one.

The first sale was $112 for the cows and $109 for the bulls. The last sale made the average of $160.70 for cows and $433.23 for bulls.

The last one witnessed the sensational price of $3,795 paid for one cow.

Good Prices Prevail. The second day's sale of T. R. Westrop & Son's herd of short-horns was without exciting incidents, but the good stock brought good prices and the average fell because of very young stock.

The cow Lavender Princess topped the day's sale at $1,590, going to George E. Ward, Hawarden, Ia. C. C. Bigler of Hartwick, Ia., bought Princess Dagmar for $1,010. Three cows sold for $905 each.

The top bull was Golden King 152,918, going to Cronin Bros., Lincoln, Neb., at $1,700. Thirty-eight bulls sold for an average of $418.28. Thirty cows sold for $12,975, an average of $432.50. Eight bulls sold for $2,915, an average of $364.37.

In the two days' sale eighty-one animals were sold, aggregating $38,850, an average price of $474.92. Sixty-four cows sold for a total of $29,485, an average of $460.70. The seventeen bulls brought $7,365, an average of $433.23. This being a dispersion sale, of course there was young stock that lowered the average. Excluding those under a year old the average was well above $500.

Prof. P. A. Audin will lecture Friday evening in the Methodist church, under the auspices of the Epworth League. The subject of the lecture is "The Old Planet."

South Omaha News

During the last few days of the charter fight at Lincoln numerous amendments were introduced and passed of which the public in general has little idea.

Councilman Ed Johnston, who spent a week at the capital working for the charter, is home, and as he had more to do with the drafting and passage of the charter than any other one person his ideas may have some weight.

Mr. Johnston announced the charter duplicating the charter is a good one for the city. Some concessions had to be made, he said, namely in the matter of extending the limit of franchises for the reason that unless this had been agreed to the bill would have been foundered by members supposed to be under the influence of corporations.

"Taken altogether," Mr. Johnston said, "the charter will save the city thousands of dollars, as the officials are so completely kept about their restrictions that there will be no opportunity to defect from the straight and narrow path."

Among the features to which attention has not hitherto been called is the amendment providing that commencing in the spring of 1902 councilmen shall be elected at large.

The election this spring will, therefore, be by wards. As originally drafted the charter fixed the salaries of the officials. Amendments, however, have changed this section so that salaries may be fixed by ordinance.

The city attorney will be permitted to appoint his assistant. This is considered a good move, as it will to a great extent take the appointment out of politics.

In the original charter submitted to the house no official whose office is a fee one was to receive more than $50 a month. This has been changed so that such officials receive all of the fees of their offices.

The levy in the city is instead of mills, as heretofore, and here is the schedule, figured on the basis of a valuation of $2,500,000: General fund, $38,000; fire, $13,000; police, $18,000; lighting fund, $13,000; water, $13,000; library, $5,000; repairing paved streets, $2,500; park fund, $2,500; interest, $22,500.

City taxes will become delinquent, the first half in January and the second half in July of each year.

An Omaha compromise measure on paving and grading has been adopted and incorporated into the revised charter.

Section 148 is virtually entirely new. It empowers the city council to issue general indebtedness bonds to take up bonds issued for the payment of debts.

As this matter is of considerable importance the section is given below: "Whenever it shall appear that any special taxes or assessments levied prior to the passage of this charter are illegal, the authorities of any city to which this act may become applicable upon any property specially benefited for the purpose of paying the cost of grading, paving, curbing, guttering or sewerage, and which taxes have been issued and are to be redeemed by special taxes or assessments, and such special taxes or assessments shall have been judicially determined to be invalid, and for that reason uncollectible, it shall be the duty of the city council to issue bonds of the city to such amount as may be necessary to refund so much of the special or district bonds issued against such grading, paving or sewer districts, together with accrued interest thereon as may remain unpaid after paying out of their payment all of such special taxes or assessments as have been paid without protest. The bonds issued under this provision shall be for a period of not more than ten years and shall bear interest not more than four per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, and be sold for not less than par. All money realized from the sale of such refunding bonds shall be used to take up the aforesaid district bonds, and the amount of such bonds to be paid by general taxation, from year to year, for the payment of the interest on said refunding bonds, and the creation of a sinking fund to pay the principal at maturity.

Where special taxes have been declared illegal by the courts the municipal authorities are empowered to make a reassessment. This feature alone will save the city from the necessity of voting general indebtedness bonds in the sum of $125,000 in order to pay for the Twenty-fourth street paving and other districts where the court has held the tax to be illegal.

Another feature is that the city council may now issue intersection bonds without a vote of the people.

Expenses in the matter of sidewalks have been curtailed by the doing away with the present style of walks and substituting two planks laid lengthwise.

No sewers can be laid from this time on without a petition properly signed by property owners.

Five park commissioners are to be appointed by the judges of the district court to look after the parks the city expects to acquire.

While quite a number of other changes have been made these mentioned are the most important ones.

THREE CAVALRY COMPANIES

Room for Them is Sought at Fort McKenzie, Wyoming.

RESTRICT GROWTH OF FORT CROOK

Des Moines to Become All the Greater When Soldiers Return from Philippines—Grand Island Postoffice Removal.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—(Special Telegram.)—Senator Warren, who is greatly interested in the construction of Fort McKenzie, Wyo., upon lines commensurate with its position as a frontier army post, said today that he hoped to get an additional sum from the general appropriation for army purposes to erect a sufficient barracks to quarter at least three companies of cavalry. The Wyoming delegation has been assiduous in bringing about an understanding as to the requirements of Fort McKenzie as a new post, but the quartermaster general and his aides have been unable to see just how they can spend more than $35,000 directly appropriated by congress for the purpose of erecting additional buildings than those already provided for.

Major Martin, who is in charge of the posts, and one of the ablest assistants General Ludington has had during his connection with his position, said that while the war office desired to do everything for McKenzie, it was handicapped by reason of a clause in the bill which appropriated but $35,000 as covering the contract for the barracks at McKenzie. He recognized the intention of the appropriation and thought that an additional sum should be expended, but anticipated the comptroller would not permit any deduction of the general sum appropriated on the ground that a specific sum had been set aside for the construction of quarters at Fort McKenzie.

In the case of Des Moines, Congressman Hull of Iowa, chairman of the house committee on military affairs, secured $200,000 for the beginning of the construction of a post at that place, which now gives promise of being one of the best equipped garrisons in the country.

Effect on Fort Crook. "The construction of an army post at Des Moines" said an official of the quartermaster's department, "will not necessarily detract from the importance of Fort Crook, but it will undoubtedly prevent any enlargement of that post, should it be contemplated."

More Money for Des Moines. Congressman Hull, who has been signally successful in securing this large appropriation for Des Moines, will, it is understood, ask for $300,000 next winter to carry out the purposes of making Des Moines one of the leading military posts of the country. It is anticipated that 25,000 soldiers will be in the country from foreign service within a year and these soldiers will have to be provided for, hence the desire to equip posts as rapidly as possible and put old posts in condition to receive returning volunteers.

Grand Island Postoffice. The postoffice department has issued a final order for a change of location of the Grand Island postoffice, which has been a source of internal dissension in that city for some years. The facts as presented at the department are of more than passing interest. The office is at present in a building owned by the local Grand Army organization and was leased by the department some five years ago. While ample, it is said to be at the extreme outskirts of the business portion of the city on West Third street. The lease having expired an inspector was detailed to examine sites and a few months ago reported favorable to a change to some location nearer the business center, notwithstanding that the government was practically securing quarters rent free at the present location.

Petitions have been filed for an against the change to the Security bank building, two blocks from the depot and directly across the street from Masonic temple, the place where the office has been for years before its removal to the Grand Army building.

The plan shows the location as now ordered to be as near the business center as it is possible to locate it, there being three blocks east and three blocks west and north and south a similar number of blocks, which are considered the business portion and fire limits of the city.

Grand Army's Struggle. It is asserted, however, by friends of the Grand Army that just previous to the election a decision had been made favorable to retention of the office in the building for another five years, conditional that some necessary improvements would be made, and these, it is claimed, have been done according to requirements of the Postoffice department, and thus additional hardships have been entailed upon the Grand Army organization, which is struggling to save its building and home from becoming lost. Remonstrances, however, of much importance were filed with the department against continuing the office in its present location and the order above was made in lieu with the recommendation of the inspector.

Omaha License Renewed. The license of Dawson & Wood of Omaha to trade at the Rosebud (S. D.) agency has been renewed.

South Dakota postmasters appointed: F. A. Shoemaker, Grindstone, Stanley county; G. M. Meenard, Houndston, Fresno county.

A postoffice has been established at Buxton, Monroe county, Ia., with Margaret A. Willis postmaster.

"I was troubled for several years with chronic indigestion and nervous debility," writes F. J. Green of Lancaster, N. H. "No remedy helped me until I began using Electric Bitters, which did me more good than all the medicines I ever used. They have also kept my wife in excellent health for years. She says Electric Bitters are just splendid for female troubles; that they are a grand tonic and invigorator for weak, run-down women. No other medicine can take its place in our family." Try them. Only $50. Satisfaction guaranteed by Kuhn & Co.

Announcements of the Theaters. William A. Brady's American production of the dramatic version of Marie Corelli's greatest novel, "The Sorrows of Satan," will begin at Boyd's theater tonight an engagement that will be concluded Saturday night. This weird production is in the hands of a cast that has won the most pronounced favor through the west, and the scenic, spectacular and electric effects are in keeping with the tenor of the play, which deals with the domain of his satanic majesty.

R & G CORSETS NEVER STRETCH

The moderately straight R & G No. 197 was and is the corset of comfort with the essence of style. It is straight enough for the prevailing vogue and curved enough to conform to healthful anatomical lines.

In 1900 we were unable to fully meet the demand for straight-front goods and unwilling to resort to any makeshift to meet the conditions. At present, however, considerable additions to our factory facilities enable us to keep the trade supplied with real straight-front corsets at retail prices from $1.00 to $2.50, and also our 197, 197, Empire and other popular numbers. There are over seventy styles and sizes of R & G Corsets—a corset to fit every figure. R & G Corsets are the corsets that do not stretch. Every hairbreadth of stretch is taken out of the goods by means of steam-heated iron forms. This gives a permanency to the right shape and form that will stay in until the last day you wear it. Every R & G Corset is sold with the understanding that it must give satisfaction to the wearer, or the dealer will supply a new one free of cost. If your dealer hasn't it, send us his name and we will see that you are supplied with what you want.
