Fact that Other Countries Have Definitely Expressed Disapproval of Private Manchurian Trenty Seems Assurance Enough.

LONDON, March 22.-The Foreign office takes a pessimistic view of the immediate situation in the east, in spite of the settlement of the Tien Tain question, and entertains grave fears that the relations between Japan and Russia may shortly reach the danger point. Judging from information obtained in various official quarters in London, Japan has confided to at least some of the powers her determination to oppose, at all costs, any secret agreements made between Russia and China by which the former could secure territorial or other advantages contiguous to Korea.

The British government has received no official confirmation that the Japanese fleet is mobilizing, but it would not be surprised to learn that such were the facts. A highly-placed British official said to a reprecentative of the Associated Press today: "All Japan wants is a free hand against

This she has got, so far as England an Germany are concerned and, I presume, so far as the United States government is concerned, although I do not imagine for one moment that any of the powers mentioned would be drawn into a fight between Japan and Russia. If Japan sees nothing for it but to fight she would have the moral support of objections committed to paper by at least two other powers against secret treaties with China. That is all; but Japan seems to consider it sufficient to provide against interfer-

Japanese Secretary's Statement. Confirmation of the foregoing definition of the situation was afforded by the secretary of the Japanese legation, who said, in the course of an interview:

While rejoicing at the fact that England and Russia have reached a pacific settlement over the minor issue, the main question-the integrity of the Chinese empire-remains unsettled. In response to pressure brought by Japan upon Russia it was announced that Russia's secret treaties with China had been modified, but the terms have been withheld. Until we see the treaties we will not be satisfied that the modification does not consist of the spirit. In this contention we other powers will support us."

Would Affect Credit.

LONDON, March 22 .- The Statist tomorrow, after editorially discussing the possibilities of a conflict between Russia and Japan, will say: "It is idle to deny that there is danger of new complications. Nevertheless we think peace will be preserved and trust that Russia will give satisfaction to Japan in Korea, thus removing the danger of a rupture."

While holding these views, the Statist will devote a column of its financial news to considering how a Russo-Japanese way would affect the money markets. It says that Russian securities would fall in Paris. which would possibly be able to sell a fair amount of them in New York. After this prices would largely depend upon the course of the war and whether other countries took part. Russian credit, the Statist will say, might possibly fall very low.

LINCOLN, March 22.-(Special Telegram.)-Still no election of United States senator on the forty-ninth joint ballot, but the Thompson and Rosewater columns were each pushed up another point. This was effected in the case of Thompson by the addition of the vote of Crounse, and in the case of Rosewater by the vote of Crissey. Thompson went up to fifty-nine, but was still short by six votes of an election, as sixty-five were necessary to a choice, the fusionists having called in every available man in their ranks in view of the critical emergency and even transferred the pair of Marshall from Hanks, who was present, to Walker, who is sick and absent.

The special feature of the day was the explanation by Crounse of the reasons for his apparent change of heart. He spoke words to writing as follows, omitting several pertinent points, among them the explicit declaration that Thompson was not his choice, but he did not want to share the responsibility for preventing his election:

This, as a san ounced, is our forty-ninth ballot for United States senator. For many weeks we have labored unsuccessfully to effect a choice. Yesterday's vote disclosed that our candidate came within a few votes of an election and responsibility for the failure in his election must fail on but a few of us. In view of all its consequences I dare not shirk my responsibility. The candidate's fitness and republicanism stand attention of the day before, touching $7.97½ and closing at 57.92½.

It is said that there is little chance of any lorecase in the stock supply, which at present is about 8,000,000 pounds, between now and the end of May, owing to the last fall's clearing vote be received in the last fall's election. With an expressed purpose to bring about an election and end this controversy I vote for D. E. Thompson.

Effect of the Gaillery Play.

Effect of the Gallery Play. As a gallery play Mr. Crounse's explanation was a glittering success, bringing he had occupied was soon plain to those familiar with the situation. Crounse has, or had, two votes in the present legislature absolutely at his command-his own and that of Representative Rohwer. While INDIANAPOLIS, March 22.-Dr. Edward giving his own vote to Thompson to make capital for his own candidacy, he has been using every effort to keep Rohwer's vote away from Thompson, and last night got Rohwer to the point of openly joining the but that marriage was only a foolish trick. antis and signing with them a telegram to Senator Hanna declaring that they would oppose his election to the end. Fusion Deals in Incubation.

The situation with the fusionists is becoming decidedly interesting. As already stated, they are bending every effort to keep all their members on the ground and stop absenteeism that might let a senatorial election result from a short vote. At the same time a number of schemers within the fusion fold are canvassing and figuring on different deals by which they are to take a hand in the election. Incontrovertible evidence is at hand that at 3 o'clock this morning Captain Ashby of Wymore, who has been cultivating the fusionists for various purposes all winter in company with Representative Hamilton, roused Representative Tanner out of bed to discuss a proposition to corrall enough fusion votes for Crounse to enable him to trade himself into an election with Thompson or some other republican.
