BANQUET TO GENERAL LEE

Dr. George L. Miller is the Host at Omaha's Reception.

FITZHUGH'S OPINION ABOUT CUBA

Governor Shaw of Iowa Speaks of American Patriotism and Congressman Perkins of the Editor in Congress.

Brigadier General Fitzhugh Lee was given a banquet last night which he will not soon forget. Forty men, many of whose names have been carved high on the tablets of fame and achievement, surrounded the festive board at which he was the guest of honor.

The white-haired general, hero of two wars, sat at the right of the host of the evening, Dr. George L. Miller, hero of many a civic battle waged in behalf of the city of his adoption since his residence began in Omaha, where the metropolis of today was but a mere hamlet. Grouped about the table were representative men, leaders in politics, successful directors of business affairs and masters of finance.

There was no attempt at ostentatious display, yet there was a subdued elegance about the appointments of the dinner becomingly fitting the occasion. The banquet eloquently demonstrated the warmth of Omaha's regard for General Lee. Even regret arose from the knowledge of his early departure from the city was forgotten in the joy that his brief presence in the west has occasioned.

The banquet was imposing especially because of the prominence of the guest of honor and the hospitality of the others at the table. Beneath all of this there was a strong undercurrent of familiarity and good-fellowship. While the feasting was in progress there was a flow of wit and a ripple of conversation that created an informal formality and the absence of all artificiality and the complete absence of the purpose of the dinner—the drawing together in closed bonds of friendship the men who surrounded the board.

Seven o'clock found all of the invited guests with two or three exceptions, in the parlors of the Omaha club, where an informal reception was held. Shortly afterward the men were ushered into the banquet hall. It was midnight before they left. There were five hours of feasting and speechmaking. The table was formed in the shape of a T. It was profusely decorated with flowers.

At the speakers' table, besides Dr. Miller and General Lee, were the other speakers of the evening, Governor Leslie M. Shaw of Iowa, Hon. J. Sterling Morton of Nebraska City, Congressman George D. Perkins of Sioux City and Hon. J. M. Woolworth of Omaha.

The other guests were: G. W. Holdrege, J. C. Cowin, C. E. Yost, G. W. Doane, E. M. Morsman, G. F. Bidwell, W. D. McHugh, H. H. Wood, E. A. Cudahy, W. H. Munger, J. R. Buchanan, E. Wakeley, W. N. Patrick, Frank M. Cook, R. B. Samners, Sr., Walter A. Page, E. P. Peck, Fred A. Nash, H. W. Yates, Stockton Heth, R. W. Patrick, James G. Martin, J. C. Wharton, J. J. Dickey, C. J. Greene, Thomas C. Byrne, Clifford H. C. Conant, T. M. Orr, H. S. Hall, H. Mercer, A. J. Sawyer and Hal McCord.

The dinner was a triumph of cuisine. It was served in eight courses and there was a liberal accompaniment of sparkling wines, sautee, caviar and champagne. After it was finished and the others from forty cigars rolled upward, Dr. Miller introduced the first speaker of the evening, General Lee.

"I congratulate myself," he said, "on having had the good fortune of summoning here tonight our honored guest, one of the most distinguished men of the country. You who are gathered here to pay your respects to him will recall the memory of one of the most illustrious names in the annals of our national history. Before I call upon General Lee to respond to the toast, 'Our Distinguished Guest,' I propose that this toast be drunk standing: 'To the Health, Length of Days and Happiness of Brigadier General Fitzhugh Lee.'"

General Lee was accorded a rousing ovation when he responded to Dr. Miller's introduction. He spoke of his high regard for Dr. Miller and the length of time he had known him, having served with him many years ago on the Board of Visitors to the West Point Military Academy. The general's address was punctuated with witty remarks and pungent illustrations. He was frequently forced to stop until the tremendous applause that some of his utterances afforded had time to subside.

General Lee on Cuba.
 Morning ever comes to him as an exercise of patriotism in its highest sense, the citizen of the United States. The whole of Cuba is under the shadow of the sword of the world undreamed of till recently as being in its course. The Philippines are not to be mentioned. Cuba is so far as the United States is concerned, should be put under martial law. It is a daily determined by congress after and not before, the United States to the authority of the United States has caused the United States to have a brilliant light upon the coming path of peace.

Porto Rico is ours by conquest, while Cuba has its status fixed by the Teller resolution. It is the act declaring war against Spain. Had no such resolution been there, the government of the United States would have exercised its authority over Cuba, and when that is accomplished the government of the United States should be in a position to assume the responsibility for its own people. That solemn declaration of our government and, in my opinion, will be and should be rigidly adhered to.

Should Be Permanently Pacified.
 The expenditure of treasure and blood, the dead American soldiers and sailors, the geographical location of the island, the Spanish, English, German, French and Italian who have themselves declared that they will never again be permanently pacified. The pledge of the United States does not demand that American control or supervision be absolutely withdrawn if the United States from evidence before the proper department believes that the Cubans will fight among themselves before or shortly after the American soldiers now in Cuba stack their muskets on American soil.

The war was waged to make Spain withdraw its hand and relinquish its authority on the island. That having been accomplished the United States is to have no further concern in the island. Why? Because it would interfere with its assumed responsibility for its pacification. Cuba must not contract a debt whose obligations it cannot meet. Why? Because the rights of its citizens and other foreigners whose interests it must protect might suffer and unrest and disturbance result.

Third—The United States must be permitted, if necessary, to intervene for the preservation of its independence and the maintenance of a government strong enough to protect life and property; and give confidence to the people. Because in this way it controls the pacification of Cuba.

Fourth—Cuba must devise plans satisfactory to the United States for the sanitation of its cities. Why? Because the ports of the United States must be protected from epidemic and infectious diseases.

Fifth—The United States must protect the conditions specified in the Teller resolution, or leave certain specified points to be agreed upon with Cuba for cooling and naval stations.

Cuba Will Agree in Time.
 Cuba will agree in time under such conditions in the interests of its own independence and in order that the United States may faithfully maintain the pledged pacification of the island.

Thirty-one members were elected, or rather the committee which was to constitute a constitutional convention. It is organized their work is nearly completed. The organization of a government should follow and when that is accomplished the jurisdiction of control over the island will undoubtedly be turned over to the Cubans. The foreign and other property holders will protect and defend their interests as Cubans, constituting the agriculturalists, and apparently ignorant that a convention of Cubans is to be organized to rule them. Many portions of Cuba did not know a war was in progress with Spain, so many Cubans pay attention to the war of words of the constitution for control of the island will undoubtedly be turned over to the Cubans. The foreign and other property holders will protect and defend their interests as Cubans, constituting the agriculturalists, and apparently ignorant that a convention of Cubans is to be organized to rule them. Many portions of Cuba did not know a war was in progress with Spain, so many Cubans pay attention to the war of words of the constitution for control of the island will undoubtedly be turned over to the Cubans.

Charles J. Greene read letters of regret from Governors Darbin of Indiana and Dietrich of Nebraska. Governor Shaw of Iowa followed with a response to the toast, "American Patriotism and American Valor."

Governor Shaw on Patriotism.
 "We will agree," said Governor Shaw, "that our forefathers were patriotic. The blood which coursed through their veins has descended to their sons and fathers who fought in the civil war for the perpetuation of the republic furnished a noble example for honor in the Spanish-American war. We came to the war with Cuba unexpectedly, but it was patriotically begun. There was never gathered together an army which there was more patriotism in the heart of the soldier than in the arm of 250,000 men who made the world quiver with their footsteps in the spring of 1898."

"The American Lawyer" was the toast to which many lawyers in congress responded. "Every nation," he said, "has a distinguishing characteristic. The Greeks loved art, the Romans had genius for law, the French scientific development and the English social organization. The distinguishing characteristic of we Americans is a judicial instinct. It comes to us from the early generations. In colonial times it found expression."

Editor in Congress.
 Congressman George D. Perkins of Iowa responded to the toast, "The Editor in Congress." His remarks were bright, facetious and particularly entertaining. "There are too many editors in congress," he said, "to make it a really desirable place for an editor. It is the habit of editors to try to do something and it is the practice of congress to try and do nothing, a practice which the bar is more familiar than the editorial fraternity."

Mr. Perkins spoke of his pleasure in being a member of the congress which appropriated $50,000,000 for carrying on the war with Spain. "When the roll was called on the 13th of March," he continued, "three hundred and sixty-six names, representing every shade of political belief in this country, were responded to and every man, when his name was called, answered 'yea.' It was not a vote of confidence in William McKinley; it was a vote of confidence in the president of the United States and thus we started forth on that most marvelous, most unprecedented contest for the liberty of a struggling people. Nothing like it before in all the history of the world."

American Motherhood.
 "American Motherhood and the American Heart," the toast for the Perpetuation of Free Institutions in the United States, to which Hon. J. Sterling Morton responded. "Men have taxed themselves through all ages," he said, "for the purpose of maintaining satisfactory forms of human government. Yet, after all, the best efforts of men throughout all ages have been for the upbuilding of human homes. The home is the foundation of liberty and that government only is good which protects the home. Upon the home rests everything that is great and sacred in this life. Without the home we can have no nation. When riots prevail in the big cities it is always the homeless who are responsible for inciting them."

You can always smell a "dead one." He has a costive-looking face. His breath knocks you down. He drags his feet. Listeners to his talk turn their heads the other way. His breath poisons God's pure air.

He ought to keep clean inside; —that means sweet breath, quick brain, swift moving feet. You can't feel well and act well with your bowels clogged, sending poison all through your body. EXPOSITION GROWS GAYER

Auditorium Fund Much Increased by Saturday Crowds.

SPECIAL NIGHTS FOR THIS WEEK

Shriners and Their Friends to Gather at the Zem-Zem Ball This Evening—Competitive Drills Later.

The beginning of the end of the Auditorium exposition is at hand and people appear to be awakening to the fact, for the crowd in attendance last night was not only large, but was inspired by a more tangible impulse to boost the exposition receipts for the benefit of the Auditorium. About 1,500 people passed through the doors, the receipts were much larger than upon any previous night and participation in the amusements and numerous contests were more hearty and spontaneous than heretofore.

Miss Whitmore still appears to be the most popular teacher in the list of twenty-five, as she has 292 votes, Miss Fried being second with 196.

Shriner Night.
 Tomorrow night promises to be an occasion of especial interest. It is Shriner night and the Shriners of Omaha and their wives will undoubtedly attend in large numbers. A committee of Shriners, consisting of Nobles Victor White, Henry Hardy and Frank P. Browne, has charge of the program and is assisted by a committee from the Auditorium company, consisting of Nobles H. S. Weller, Euclid Martin, C. H. Pickens, Rome Miller and C. E. Bivell.

Arrangements have been completed by the Shriner committee whereby all Shriners and their guests may quench their thirst at the flowing Zem-Zem well and refresh themselves by feasting upon cake and other choice delicacies. All nobles are to wear their caps upon this occasion. A gypsy queen from the interior of Arabia will pitch her tent by the side of the Zem-Zem well and read the future in all its interesting details for the benefit of the Shriners' wives and their guests.

The Shriner quartet, under the leadership of Mr. Jones, will furnish ballads appropriate for the occasion.

Shriners will make a special inspection of the buffalo wallow under the guidance of a noble who has spent many years upon the plains and who understands the peculiarities and habits of the noble bison. Committees are to be at the exposition building as early as convenient, in order to assist in making the evening thoroughly enjoyable.

Tuesday night the Woodmen of the World and the Elks will jointly enjoy a special night and the former will compete in prize drills by representative teams.

Thursday night an entertainment will be contributed by the Young Men's Christian association athletic classes and Friday night the prize competition between the

THREE KILLED OUTRIGHT

Explosion in Colorado Mine Kills Bodies Over One Hundred Feet Away.

DENVER, March 30.—A special to the News from Albuquerque, N. M., says: A horrible explosion occurred Friday night in the Weaver mine, at Gallup, operated by the Colorado Fuel and Iron company. Three men are known to have been killed outright, and many others who were cut off in the mine are believed to have died from suffocation. Japanese laborers have been employed in these mines since the strike, but the killed were two white men and a negro. Their bodies were picked up 120 feet from the scene of the explosion. Numbers of the Japanese are also thought to have been killed or injured. It is supposed giant powder was the cause of the explosion.

HAROLD CROWLEY ARRESTED

Son of Former Congressman Suspected of Having Appropriated Money Not His.

SAN JUAN, P. R., March 30.—Harold Crowley of Lockport, N. Y., son of ex-Congressman Crowley, and an employee of the postal department, who was recently ordered to Buffalo, has been arrested, charged with the appropriation of $377 of postal funds, and is held in the city jail.

Crowley is charged with appropriating this money from funds registered in Ponce and en route from Yauco to San Juan. He intended to sail from there March 27. He was detained by the United States marshal and an investigation showed that he displayed about 1,500 neatly packed through the package was missed March 25, and Crowley intended to sail from there March 27. Arrests Newspaper Men

CLEVELAND, O., March 30.—Hon. Tom Johnson tonight caused the arrest of Charles W. Chase, president of the Leader company; James H. Morrow, editor-in-chief; Mrs. Elliott; and other persons connected with the paper on the charge of libel. The Leader this morning printed an affidavit signed by Johnson, charging Chase with libel. Johnson is said to have given Hubbell $300 for the purpose of inducing Chase to deny in Mr. Johnson's behalf the charge of libel. The newspaper is using money in his campaign. The new law is said to be in force in April.

FOR THE AUDITORIUM FUND

Last Week's Subscriptions to Stock Added Over Two Thousand Dollars to Amount.

One of the most important nights of the Auditorium exposition will be Tuesday, when the Elks will attend on invitation of the management. A program will be arranged with special reference to the Order of Elks and the prizes to be distributed that evening will be contested for by Elks only. As the Elks are widely known as champion fund promoters, a particularly lively time is expected.

Subscriptions to Auditorium stock continue to come in and during the week just closed more than $2,000 was added to the fund. It is the purpose of the directors to make another systematic canvass of the city and those who have not already appeared on the list of stockholders will be urged to get in line at once. The subscriptions reported for the week are:
