

ECLIPSE OF LENT PASSES

Society Emerges Joyfully from the Obscurity of Holy Week.

FAITHFUL TO CHURCH OBLIGATIONS

Social Calendar for Immediate Future is Brilliant, but Brief-Fashionable Charity Tea is in Prospect.

Now that Lent is over and society is privileged to be as gay as it pleases, the smart set will draw a sigh of mingled relief and regret before launching into the social whirl again...

The splendid success of the Lenten musicales has encouraged the undertaking of another enterprise for sweet charity's sake. Though of a vastly different order, it will include all of the fashionable women and probably such of the men as care to be included in an afternoon tea of an entirely new and delightful variety.

Refurnishing and Redecorating. The Bathery is being refurnished and redecorated throughout, and on this account will be closed for about a week, which will be opened for the inspection of its patrons. Some improvements are being added and a pleasant surprise in the way of a most attractive and handsomely furnished reception room is in store for the old friends and patrons. It will be as always, exclusively for ladies and a lady manager will be in charge. For the convenience of its patrons a hairdressing and manicuring department has been added which will, no doubt, delight the ladies who have been accustomed to enjoying the beautiful benefits of The Bathery, 229 to 234 Bee building.

Chancellor in the Pulpit. E. Benjamin Andrews of State University will preach at First Baptist Church. Chancellor E. Benjamin Andrews of the University of Nebraska will preach at 10:30 o'clock this morning in the First Baptist church, 419 South Twenty-ninth avenue. The church is widely known since the resignation of Rev. C. B. Allen, Jr., who left last week for Canton, O. In the evening a sacred concert will be given by the Sunday school.

V. B. Conklin, Bowersville, O., says: "I received more benefit from Foley's Kidney Cure than from months of treatment by physicians." The Most Stubborn Coughs resulting from an attack of influenza or heavy cold must yield to the wonderful healing properties of Foley's Honey and Tar, which strengthens the lungs and makes them sound.

Woman's Work in Club and Charity. Omaha's need of a social settlement will be the general subject before the department of political and social science of the Woman's club on Monday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock. Mrs. A. G. Gault will give the result of some of her investigation of the subject. Rev. Dr. Herring will speak on "My Settlement Work is Worth Doing" and Dr. Holland will tell of his work among the boys of New York City. Then there will be a general discussion. Invitations have been extended to the Ministerial union, the Coterie, the Board of Love and Peace Mission, the Woman's Christian Temperance union, the Central Labor union, the Sigma Club and the committee appointed by the Woman's club to suggest plans for some benevolent or philanthropic work for the club to do next year. A general invitation has also been extended to the club members and citizens interested in the work.

The Clio club met on Friday afternoon with Mrs. J. T. Cather, 2021 Locust street. Under the leadership of Mrs. Robert McEachron, the club journeyed figuratively from Liverpool to London by a roundabout tour through Wales. Talks on various phases of Welsh life were given by Mesdames Bryce Crawford, W. D. Percival, Edwin McEachron, J. E. Christy, Sales and Cather. Mrs. Moore sang an old Welsh hymn in the native dialect, which was much enjoyed. Mrs. D. E. Evans read Charles Kingsley's poem, "Mary Go and Call the Cows Home." Miss Rebecca Boyd read Tennyson's "Lady Godiva" and the afternoon closed with a musical number, "Lead Kindly Light," sung by Rev. M. DeWitt Long and his daughters, Mrs. Levers and the Misses Long.

The official announcement has just been issued of the fourth biennial meeting of the federated women's clubs of Iowa, which is to be held at Council Bluffs May 1 to 3, inclusive. The meetings are to be held in the auditorium of the First Methodist church, the first session opening at 9 a. m. on Wednesday and to be continued by the efforts of officers and of the extension committee. John N. Baldwin will deliver the address of welcome on behalf of the citizens of Council Bluffs, which will be followed by the address of the president of the state federation, Mrs. Mabel Hutchins.

A discussion of the library and the recitation bureau work will be the feature of the afternoon session. Wednesday evening will be given over to a reception to the delegates and visiting members at the Grand hotel and elaborate preparations are being made for this function, which is the only social affair that the program committee has allowed time for.

Thursday morning will be devoted to reports on the general federation, the educational and the village improvement work. Mrs. Martha Johnson of Ottumwa will preside at the Thursday afternoon session, the first hour of which is to be devoted to the press women. At 4 o'clock the delegates and visitors will be given a complimentary ride. In the evening will be the art session, Prof. Lorado Taft of Chicago being the speaker.

The report of the committee on the revision of the constitution and bylaws will be given on Friday morning, to be followed by the report of the nominating committee, the election of officers and delegates to the next biennial convention of the federation. The household economics program will occupy the afternoon and in the evening there will be a musical program and the new officers will be introduced.

Among the prominent speakers who will participate in the convention will be Miss Alice French ("Octave Thane") of Davenport, Miss Alice Tyler of the state library commission, Miss Bertha D. Knobe of Chicago, Mrs. Mary Moody Pugh of Omaha, Mrs. Nellie Kedzie Bradley of the Polytechnic institute of Peoria, Prof. Beardshear of Ames Agricultural college and Prof. Lorado Taft of Chicago.

The clubs of Council Bluffs, with the assistance of the citizens, have made extensive preparations for the entertainment of the visiting women and the program this year surpasses any that has yet been given by the federation.

The twenty-fourth annual meeting of the Woman's Missionary society of the Presbytery of Omaha will be held at Belleme on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week at the Hotel Chicago. The educational society being entitled to two delegates. There will be a meeting of the executive committee at 4 p. m. Tuesday and a praise service at 7:30. Wednesday morning's session will open at 9:30 o'clock, the address of welcome to be delivered by Mrs. D. R. Kerr, and the response to be made by Mrs. E. Thompson. The reading of reports and other business will occupy the remainder of the time. There will be music and several interesting papers in the afternoon, the reports of committees and the election of officers being the last business item for the day.

Ice with music and reports of the field work. Special train accommodations have been provided and a large attendance is expected. The Dorcas Sewing society of the Castellar Presbyterian church will hold its meetings in the church every Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The Dundee Woman's club met on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Wedge. The program was in charge of Mrs. Fannie H. Perry and was a continuation of the events of the reign of Queen Elizabeth. Mrs. Howard gave an interesting account of the defeat of the Spanish Armada. Mrs. Johnson told of the growth of commerce. Mrs. Lighth spoke of the aid sent to the sufferers and Mrs. Heafers read a paper on "The Progress of Civilization in the Sixteenth Century," accompanied by photographs of old English manor grounds and gardens. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Sibly.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Missionary society of Westminister church will be held at the home of Mrs. E. W. Speed, 1533 Park avenue, at 3 o'clock on Friday afternoon. It is expected that Mrs. Rice of the western Nebraska field will be present and give a report of the home mission work of that part of the state. The Helping Hand society will also meet with Mrs. Speed on the same afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Realizing the necessity of acquaintance among the members of the congregation, the Ladies' Aid of the Second Presbyterian church have adopted the plan of giving monthly receptions, to which every woman of the congregation is invited. On Thursday afternoon Mrs. McLean and Mrs. Hood received from 2 until 5 at the home of the former. The attendance was large. Refreshments were served during the afternoon and the affair greatly enjoyed by all.

MRS. CARTER'S NEW PLAY

At the Close of This Season She Says Goodbye to "Zaza."

SHE WILL LAUNCH "MADAME DU BARRY"

This is from David Belasco's Pen and Depicts the Amours of Louis XV of France—Trip to Paris to Study the Art.

With the closing of this season Mrs. Leslie Carter will say goodbye to "Zaza." It has been one of the greatest successes of any of late years, but Mrs. Carter says she is anxious to try something new. Speaking of her plans for next season, she says: "I am to have a play based upon historical facts. Its title is 'Madame du Barry' and it is, of course, by Mr. Belasco. Madame du Barry, as you doubtless know if you are familiar with French history, lived in the seventeenth century and was the mistress of Louis XV. She exercised a powerful influence in his court and received the homage of nearly every distinguished man of France, many of whom obtained through her important offices and privileges. I have read her history and consider her one of the most remarkable women. It is a character that I am surprised has not been made the center of some dramatic author's effort before. Mr. Belasco is confident the play will be even a greater success than 'Zaza,' and I firmly believe and hope that it will, although this is a play which is not to be found anywhere like 'Zaza' are not to be found anywhere.

Partial to That Sort of Character. "Am I partial to this sort of character? Well, only because I believe there are greater possibilities in them for an emotional actress than in any other class I can think of. Just stop and look back. Can you recall many great actresses of woman? It is a character that I am surprised has not been made the center of some dramatic author's effort before. Mr. Belasco is confident the play will be even a greater success than 'Zaza,' and I firmly believe and hope that it will, although this is a play which is not to be found anywhere like 'Zaza' are not to be found anywhere.

But with her lover, Bernard Dufresne, it was a different story. He was a man of an education, was polished, influential, had a wife and child. It was he who was bad at heart. "When she learned of all this, Zaza dismissed him, swallowed her cup of sorrow and lived afterward by her art only. She has been accustomed to enjoying the beautiful benefits of The Bathery, 229 to 234 Bee building.

She Watches Her Audiences. "It has been a long time since I last paid Omaha a visit, more than four years ago, and I felt when I first came on the stage Thursday night that I was something of a stranger. I was a little vexed with my audience, but I knew that I was not so. I seemed unable to get any sympathetic feelings from them, but after the fourth act they were so nice to me that I could just have gone out in the audience and hugged every one of them, and so it has been every night during my engagement.

"You know I always take delight in getting something between the glare of the footlights and my eyes for an instant during some of the pathetic scenes in the play, just long enough to discover a few women in the audience with a tear in their eye. I always choose women, for my own comfort, ever weep at a theatrical performance, and then I play to those women. I go right after their tender chords, and nothing delights me more than to see them weep. I feel then that my work has really reached that point where it deserves to be called art."

Vacation "Way Down East." "How shall I spend my summer? Well, at the close of my present season, that will be about June 1. I shall go immediately to Bar Harbor. There I will rest a month and then Mr. Belasco and I will go to Paris to see what additional knowledge we can acquire of Madame du Barry, also choose her costumes. You see, it is the intention to have the play as nearly historically correct in every detail as possible. We shall return to America early in August and will begin rehearsals at once. Mr. Belasco will direct the production and one who has any knowledge of his ability along this line knows what a help that will be to me and how much it will mean toward the success of the piece and that of my own as well. Mr. Belasco I consider one of the greatest dramatists and stage directors in the world. He has a marvelous conception of the minute details of character and this is one of the main points to be looked after in order for one to be successful in the drama.

"Who is my favorite author? Why, Mr. Belasco, of course. With me it is David Belasco first, last and forever, and by should it not be so, since it is to him that I owe all of my success."

Advice to Mothers. The Re-Test-May being strictly a curative powder, should not be used as a toilet dusting powder for infants or small children. Talcum, powdered starch or similar products without any intrinsic value are inexpensive and sufficient for the tender years. Only when the inconvenience of excessive perspiration is due to the heat of the years should they have recourse to the Re-Test-May powder, which is incomparable for its curative, hygienic and antiseptic properties. Those having been benefited by its use will please make known to their fellow men the marvelous results obtained after a few applications. You will not only convince the incredulous, but render a great service to suffering humanity. Re-Test-May powder, manufactured by A. Mayer company, Bee bldg.

BAKE BREAD FOR PRIZES. Omaha Women Display the Products of Their Skill at the Auditorium Exposition.

Bread in all conceivable forms and varieties, big loaves and little, round loaves and loaves without classified form, light loaves and heavy ones, were piled upon tables in one of the exhibit booths at the Auditorium exposition last night. There were some as large as buckets, and some as small as one-fiftieth of an Omaha woman had brought in the products of their skill in the making of the staff of life to compete for prizes. Fifty-one cakes had also been brought in to represent the aspirations of their respective makers to acquire a little fame for clever housewifery and incidentally to carry home for her one of the handsome presents offered for the finest cakes. The prizes included an oak center table, an oak rocking chair and an upholstered divan, the maker of the best layer cake to have first choice, second choice going to the best breadmaker, and third to the best compounder of layer cake.

Judges were appointed by the exposition management. They were Mrs. MacMurphy, Mrs. J. K. Coulter and Mrs. M. F. Morrell. To avoid the possibility of favoritism the makers of the bread and cakes were given numbers to correspond with numbers placed upon their respective sweets and substance, so that the judges were wholly ignorant of the identity of the parties whose baking they were judging.

One Woman Wins Two Prizes. Some consternation was occasioned when the committee discovered that it had awarded the first and second prize to the same person for the best bread and the best layer cake. The favored woman is Mrs. John W. Pead, wife of an attaché of the city treasury. She was recently given a costly prize by an eastern paper for having made the best mince pies. One of the judges favored reconsidering one of the awards in order that two such fine presents should not go to one person, but she was overruled by the other two. The third prize was given to Mrs. W. J. Naylor. After the awards, all of the cakes were sold at auction in the auditorium and went at low prices generally, except that the prize cake was knocked down to Walter Moore for $9. Most of them sold for less than 50 cents. Bread that was put forward to capture $25 worth of prize was actually sold at the rate of two loaves for a nickel.

The attendance, afternoon and evening, ran to something over 1,600, of whom 300 were children who attended in the afternoon. During the afternoon a program of music was given, which pleased the women and children. The program was rendered last evening preceding the bestial of prizes for the bread campaign.

Race for the Prizes. Additional activity marked the battles of rival claimants of popularity to the numerous prizes offered. In the typewriter contest Miss Pardon again went to the front, with 5,442 votes, to Miss Reichardt's 3,915, and Miss Beecher's 4,482. Altogether 2,295 votes were cast last night.

For the popular politician's pipe Officer Shoup rolled his standing up to 1,045, passing Officer Osburn going up, the latter getting only to 950. There are a number among the dozen other officers listed who will be quietly coming in at the finish.

C. A. Newton has a cinch thus far in the popular mail carrier race for a suit of custom-made clothing, although he has but 276 votes. The next of the thirteen other candidates is Carrier Ringler, with fifty, J. F. Carpenter leads H. J. Penfold, second of the four list of popular men listed for the $100 phantom, by eighty votes, the figures being 317 to 457. There was the usual distribution of presents from the auditorium.

Monday evening there will be the sensational cakewalk set by four couples, the best known and most highly respected colored people of Omaha, who are experts in capering for the cake. There will be no other prizes than the cake and the audience will be permitted to bestow that. The greatest night of all the exposition season will be next Friday, when the women's committee will have complete charge
