KAISER STRANCER AT HOME Prussian Recruits in German Army Don't Even Know His Name. OTHERS THINK BISMARCK STILL ŠERVES Officers Discover Embarrassing Un- ismiliarity with William's Great- ness-Crown Prince Visits Emperor Joseph. BERLIN, April 13An inquiry made among the recruits for the German army by a number of officers showed grous ignor- ance in the majority of those examined re- garding public personages and events. Out of seventy-eight recruits from various parts of Prussia, twenty-one were unable to give any answer when questioned as to who was the emperor of Germany. Twenty-two of the recruits when questioned designated the emperor as a great general, nine called him a renowned field marshal, six thought him to be the minister of war, while four- teen of the replies were approximately cor- fect. Soveral thought the late Prince Bis- marck was emperor, a great poet, a trans- lator of the bible, etc.	a number of festivities lasting several days and including parades and a large court ball, will be held in his honor. Emperor Francis Joseph during his last stay in Ber- lin, and more recently at Munich during the celebrations. March 12, attending the eightleth birthday of the prince regent of Bavaria, conceived an extraordinary affection for the crown prince, which he has since testified upon a number of oc- casions. The emperor of Austria is es- pecially pleased with the crown prince's modest, frank and unaffected bearing. Ceremonious Matriculation. Shortly after the crown prince returns from Vienna, he will go, April 24, to Bonn, on the Rhine, there to be matriculated at the university. Emperor William, his father, will accompany him to Bonn. The matficulation of the crown prince will bar. Emperor Milliam is expected at Ham- burg next Monday, there to greet the re- turned sick and wounded German soldiers from China. On April 18 the emperor will proceed to Kiel to witness the entrance of his son, Prince Adelbert, into the Ger- man navy. The statement published in the American press that Germany is making an exor- bitant claim for indemnities from China is energetically denied in official circles and officials assured the representative of the Associated Press that Germany's claim is considerably below that of France or Russia. many-sided powers were enlisted. He believed in the university when it was only an idea; be worked for it when it came within the range of possibility; he redoubled his efforts when it came within the range of probability, and when, finally, the American hierarchy decreed that the university be founded, Bishop Keane was chosen as its head. At the urgent request of Leo XIII, he resigned the see of Richmond to undertake this great work. He MAP COUPON busied himself with the infinite details of organization, erected buildings, collected endowments and brought together a faculty of distinguished scholars. The university as it stands today represents in land, buildings, equipment and endowment about to the Map Department, Bee Publishing Co., and $2,000,000-the work of ten years.

Test of His Usefulness.

Probably no greater test of his usefulness was had than when Pope Leo called him from the university to Rome. Asked to give up his life work, where his highest powers had ample exercise, and his noblest ambitions found their freest play, he obeyed instantly, and yet obedience took him away from America, the spirit of whose institutions he had absorbed, whose ideals he had cherished with exceptional love. The public banquet tendered to him in Washington when he departed for Rome was an extraordinary testimony of the citizens of the national capital to his merit, as a representative of religion and as an eminent American. American institutions have no truer friend. American ideals have no more devoted champion, than Archbishop Keane. Democratic to the last degree, liberty loving, active and enterprising, he has always been in close touch with the currents o American life and has been an interested e-worker in its elevation. Dubuque has a triking proof of his interest in public affairs in the gentle but forceful suggestions which he made to the city council soon after he took up his residence here.
