Harry King, Held in Omahn for Theft, Has a Long Record of Crime.

Forty-four years on earth and twenty years of that time in state penitentiaries is the record of Harry King, now under arrest at the city jail awaiting trial on a charge of larceny. This, too, without taking into account the innumerable sentences he has served in city and county jails and reformatory institutions.

King began his career of crime when young and was a member of the notorious 'Lake Shore gang.' operating out of Chicago, until it was broken up through the killing of many of its members by officers of the law. Later he belonged to the "Northwestern gang," which was a bad lot. King served two terms, one of two and the other of five years, in the Lansing (Mich.) penitentiary; three years in Lin-coln; two years in Jefferson City, Mo.: five years in Fort Madison, Ia.; one year Each sentence was for burglary, a crime which has been King's specialty. HONOR ARCHBISHOP KEANE Impressive Ceremonies at Dubuque In., Today Will Attend Bestownl of the Pallium.

Bishop Scannell of Omaha, accompanied by Bishop Hennessey of Wichita, left last night for Dubuque, Ia., where will be assembled today one of the most notable gatherings of dignitaries of the Roman Catholic church ever brought together west of the Mississippi river, the occasion being the conferring of the pallium upon Archbishop Keane of the province of Dubuque. The council as one of the regular ceremonies as early as the fifth century.

The pallium itself is a band of white wool worn on the shoulders. It has two strings of the same material and four purple crosses worked on it. It is worn by the pope and by him presented to patriarchs, primates and archbishops as a token that they possess the fulness of the episcop I office. Bishops who have been elevated to the archiepiscopate are not generally permitted to perform the functions of their higher office until they have received the pallium, and for this reason they are required to demand it of the pope within a few months after their appointerect a high board fence around the ment, and to demand its transmission with the most urgent haste, "instanter, instantius, instantisime," reads the canon.

The greatest care is taken in regard to the wool from which these pallia are made. Two lambs are brought annually to the church of St. Agnes at Rome by the apostolic sub-deacons while the Agnus Del is being sung. These lambs are presented at the altar and received by two canons of the Lateran church. From the wool of these lambs the pallia are made by the nuns of Torre di Specchi The sub-deacons lay the pallia on the tomb of St. Peter, where they remain all night, and are then ready for transmission to those destined to receive them. Archbishop Ke of Lateran in 1897 and subsequently, and it is possible that he received at the altar the lambs whose wool forms the pallium which he is to receive today.

The pallium is conferred upon the archbishop by an officer of equal rank delegated especially by the pope, after the recipient has taken an oath of obedience to the latter. it is worn on certain great festivals.

At the ceremony today there will be present hundreds of priests, dozens of bishops and many archbishops. Cardinal Gibbons will come from Baltimore and will possibly confer the pallium as the representative of the pope. Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul, a friend of the new archbishop, will deliver the principal address.

The province of Dubuque includes the dioceses of the Roman Catholic church in the states of Iowa, Nebraska and Wyoming. and all of the suffragan bishops and many of aid, who polled over 1,600 votes. Shields the members of their official families will be present and acknowledge the sway of the new metropolitan. In addition to these there are bishops present from Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, North Dakota, South Dakota and from other western states.

Anxious About Bonds.

Some of the eastern holders of South Omaha bonds are beginning to get anxious vision for the outstanding indebtedness. If the holders of bonds will continue to have a little patience the city will, it was stated yesterday by an official, redeem all of its pledges, including interest. BOSS MACHINISTS CONFER

Secret Meeting of Employers at Commercial Club Fooms.

STRIKE SITUATION IS DISCUSSED

Members of Association of Machinery Manufacturers Say They Are Not Worried by the Strike-Other Side of the Case.

There was a secret meeting of the employing machinists of the city yesterday after the decisions of the organization.

The meeting was held in the Commercial club rooms, and the present strike of the Machinists' union was considered. If the plans of the employers are carried out there will be waged in Omaha a battle between two national societies. As soon as the threats of a strike assumed definite form the officers of the local association of employers opened up correspondence with offi cers of the Chicago association, the object being to form a combination with the local will conform in many respects to the same associations of employers all over the union to deal with the labor situation in a uniform manner. At this time no answer has been received from the communication, and until they know definitely regarding the possibility of their entrance into the national asrated in addition to the regular parochial sociation the Omaha employers will take school which will be conducted by the Sis- no active measures to settle the strike. bers of the association said that the pres ent strike was causing them little trouble as the shops were running short handed on account of lack of work anyway. They profess to be running as usual and to be doing all of the work in the shops, but members of the union say that, with the exception of L. C. Sharp's shop, all the job shops in the city are practically shut down. Asked whether there was any probability of the master's association importing machinists, one of the members stated that at this time they did not intend to take this course, as they believed that their workmen would return to the shops as soon as work increased, and then there would be as many workmen in the city as could be provided with work under any condition which is likely to confront the trade this

"We are waiting," said one of the members, "to see what the members of the union are going to do. One of my employes reported to me this morning that many of the men now out on the strike are anxious to return. They will stay out but a short time, I believe, and I for one do not want to bring a number of man to town to take the places of old men who will be ready to go to work in a short time."
