BUTTNER WANTS TO SETTLE

Alleged Embezzler in Seattle Makes Overtures to the County Authorities.

William Buttner, the alleged embezzler, to apprehend whom Sheriff Power journeyed to Seattle, is willing to settle if such a thing is possible.

Judge Vinsonhaler yesterday received a telegram from the sheriff, who said that Buttner met him at the train on his arrival at Seattle. Buttner expressed a willingness to return to Omaha and settle, but asked that the matter be arranged so that he would not be forced to take the journey. Buttner also telegraphed to Judge Vinsonhaler, telling him that he is now well situated in Seattle, holding a good position and with a wife and family depending upon him. He asked that the judge see the county attorney and fix up a compromise for him if possible. Judge Vinsonhaler replied that the only way to settle the case would be with the complaining witness.

It is charged that Buttner collected from the Nebraska Brewing company $300 due Thomas Burns and failed to account for the same to Burns.
