Herman Keeps Hits Well Scattered and Deserved Winning Support-Gonding "atches Again, but Not So Well.

KANSAS CITY, May 15 .- (Special Telegram.)—The Blues made it three straight from Omaha today—thanks to the ragged fleiding of the visitors. Herman, despite the record of eleven hits made against him, pitched good ball and with good support would have won his game. Not one of the Blues' six runs was earned. Herman kept the hits well scattered. Gonding caught again today, but did not to do so well as yesterday. He failed to get a bit PHILADELPHIA, May 15.—The home team defeated the Pittsburg Nationals today in a ten lining game. The locals tied the score in the eighth inning by bunching hits and aided by bases on balls. It was a toss-up thereafter who would win, but in the tenth, with the bases full, Delahanty sent the ball to the fence, scoring the necessary runs to win. Attendance, 2,375. Score: and made a bad error. Gibson, the college pitcher from Notre Dame, Ind., was in box for the Blues and allowed only six hits and struck out seven men. He was a bit pervous and wild, however, hitting two men with the ball and giving four passes to first. Score:

Hundreds of people who obtained a Free Sample of Coke Dandruff Cure at the Boston Stere Drug Department on April 22 and 23 make their reports.

All but ten have either been entirely cured or greatly benefitted. Many of those who reported live in towns outside of Omaha. They report that Coke Dandruff Cure has created a sensation in their towns; in fact, we have reason to believe that wherever the Omaha newspapers circulate the public test that the A. R. Many letters are received daily which indicate clearly the interest being taken. Men and women who have been troubled for years with Dandruff, Falling Hair and annoying Scalp Irritations, for which they could find no cure, are rejoicing to know there is positively a cure for them.

KANSAS CITY, May 15.—(Special Telegram).—Nebraska smothered the college boys of William Jewell college today, 15 to 6. The Baptists were clearly outclassed. They were never in the game For a few innings the boys played a fairly good game, but when the occasion demanded the Cowboys batted out runs almost at will. Bender pitched a good, steady game, keeping the hits well scattered and fielding his position in good shape. Nebraska got a run in the first and six in the fifth. Favoring Postponement of Date for Tenm Reduction.

WASHINGTON. May 15.—Six of the base ball clubs in the National league have wired to President Young their votes in favor of an extension until June 15 of the time within which each club, under the provisions of a resolution adopted at New York, must reduce the number of 11s players to sixteen. The original resolution named May 15 as the date when such reductions should become effective. Two clubs remain to be heard from. It cannot be said tonight whether or not unanimous consent is necessary to the proposed extension or only a majority vote. Several of the clubs have sent lists of players to be released, but if the extension resolution be adopted the players named will not be dropped for the present, at least.

TO CURE SHAMROCK'S FAULT NEW BRIDGE IS COMPLETED BANK PRESIDENT MISSING

Immense Northwestern Structure Opens for Traffic Sunday.

The new Northwestern bridge west of Boone will be opened next Sunday for regular traffic. This is one of the remarkable pieces of railroad work of the present progressive age. A great bridge of steel jumps from bluff to bluff and thus avoids valley of the Des Moines river which bas been one of the hardest bits of work on the Iowa lines.

The bridge involved an outlay of about $650,000 and together with the approaches and the other works necessary, makes a total cost of about $1,250,000. The offset which the company will have for this expenditure is the straight line from Boone to Ogden, a distance of seven miles instead of eleven by the old route. Besides, the necessity of maintaining two and sometimes more helper engines with their crews and the burning of many tons of coal will be done away with, as the old Moingona hill is to be cut out of the line.

Running straight west from the depot at Boone, the new track strikes the bluffs along the Des Moines river at a point where the distance from summit to summit is 2,865 feet. That is the span which the new viaduct bridge makes. Over the river proper is a truss span, 300 feet long, which is 185 feet above the water at its usual

Pictures Fall Short.

Such figures give very little conception of the magnitude of the big structure. Few of the pictures present to the mind any adequate conception of the immensity of the structure. It is only as you stand under it and look up and up, that you realize its size. Then when you go on top and look down a shudder runs through your frame when you think of what an awful calamity it would be if a train should jump over that railing. There is small probability of such an accident, for heavy guard rails flank the track on either side and engineers say there is no possible way for a train to get off the bridge as long as the structure itself remains. The officials have such confidence in its strength that two trains will be allowed to pass on the bridge at good speed and they say there will be no danger.

The bridge is the largest double-track bridge in the world. In the superstructure were used 5,680 tons of metal and 400 tons of metal were used in the foundations, in addition to the masonry. Two gorges had to be filled in the construction of the track leading to the bridge, and these necessitated the placing of 223,000 cubic yards of The ravines were each 400 feet long and eighty to eighty-five feet deep. About 1,600 men have been employed on the preparatory work, while fully fifty men were kept at work last winter on the But one life has been lost in the work and that man fell from the top of the center span a few weeks ago. He struck on some of the false work in his fall of 185 feet His body was recovered a few days later several hundred yards down the river. One other man was seriously injured earlier in

The site of the bridge will become a summer resort of nc small proportions. Althrough the time of its building hundreds of people have gone there Sundays to watch the work. The grounds, since the opening of spring have resembled a picnic ground, with lemonade stands and fakirs of various kinds doing a thriving business. The Boone street cars already operate within a mile of the bridge, and it is planned to extend the line to the river and build pienic the devious and costly descent into the Wives of Officials Turn Over Their Property to Depositors of Ruined Institution-College Is Not Heavy Loser.

> SIOUX FALLS, S. D. May 15 .- (Special. -From the best obtainable information i appears certain that Fred H. Bacon, president of the failed Canton State bank, has fled. It is said that his wife, who is almost prostrated over the failure of the bank and the absence of her husband, does not know where he is. Some fear is expressed that he has committed suicide. Those who are well informed say that the investigation of the bank's affairs by Henry N. Cooper, bank examiner for South Dakota, who now has charge of the institution, may develop the fact that some of the institution's capital has been used for speculative purposes. It was reported soon after the bank closed its doors that St. Augustana college would lose about $1, 900 by the failure. This is incorrect. The loss to the college will not be more than $35 or $40. It is true that the college had on deposit about $1,000, but this was in a separate account and was returned to the officers of the college immediately prior to the closing of the bank's doors. An aggre gate sum of about $300, which had been deposited in the bank by the school children of Canton, was also returned to the owners after the officers of the bank had decided to close the institution

Women Deed Their Property.

Mrs. Bacon, wife of the president, and Mrs. Larson, wife of the cashier of the bank, acted the part of true women after the fallure. A half section of valuable land near Canton, which was purchased with the bank's money and deeded to them, has by them been deeded back to the bank for the benefit of the depositors. Other property, practically all they possessed. has also been turned over for the benefit of depositors. Mrs. Bacon and her three children are left practically penniless as the result of the failure. The only property she retained was an eighty-acre tract of land which was purchased with money other than that belonging to the bank and her home at Canton, valued at about $3,-000, but which has a mortgage of $1,800 upon it. Property aggregating in value from $15,000 to $20,000 has thus been turned over to the bank for the benefit of depos-

Life Insurance Lost. Among the deposits was the life insur-

His life insurance, amounting to $2,700, belonged to a sister, aged about 14, and had been deposited in the bank for safe keeping. L. H. Larson, the cashier of the failed bank, induced young Linn to insure his life and for awhile paid the payments upon the

Among the heaviest losers by the failure of the bank are a number of the residents of Worthing. Miss Maggie Denahue of that place had $150 on deposit. Edward Norton, a farmer near Worthing, had savings aggregating about $800 deposited in the bank. B. Oliver, another farmer in the vicinity, had $1,400 deposited in the bank when it failed. The most fortunate patron of the bank was John Turner, proprietor of the Turner hotel at Worthing. A short time prior to the failure he drew pose of investing it in Charles Mix county farm lands.

Lenient methods of transacting business are alleged to have been largely responsible for the failure. The bank carried number of persons who, when the bank got into straitened circumstances, failed to respond with the amounts due the institution
