

REAL PURPOSE IS SECRET

Much Speculation as to Meaning of Dundee Car Line Overhaul.

DEAL OF "SOME KIND" IS RUMORED

Authorities Who Are in Position to Give Authentic Information Are Inclined to Be Reluctant.

The purpose of the Metropolitan Railway Cable company in asking for permission to grade Dodge street, between Thirty-sixth and Thirty-ninth streets, is being maintained as an executive secret.

Some kind of a deal is on in street railway circles, however, and those who are on the inside of it refuse to tell.

The only apparent motive is a desire to have the city recognize the charter rights of the Metropolitan to the Omaha Street railway, but the price asked for the former, the Dundee line, and the stipulations which are inserted by the owners have proved to be too stiff.

The Dundee people have better service now," said General Manager Smith of the Omaha Street railway, discussing such a proposition.

"For 5 cents they are now brought to the end of our Farnam street line, given transfers, carried anywhere in Omaha to South Omaha, East Omaha or North Omaha. That is all for one fare and the connection is with the boat line we have.

"The Dundee people the quickest ride, the better hills, the better cars and the better class of people to ride with. A connection with the Dodge street line would offer no advantages for the people of Dundee.

"Yes, they have been trying to sell to us for some time, but we don't want the line. It will always be an expense account and Mr. Benson never operated it at anything but a loss. He had the road as a real estate speculation and as such it was a success. What he lost on the road he made up by converting farm property into town lots.

"The Dundee line, though, runs to nothing but a residence district. There is no park or other attractions there. The traffic is merely hauling people to town in the morning and back at night. For two years our company have been transferring people to and from that line. During that time, when my father was in charge, he had the road repaired for the Dundee line, a new set of wheels or anything of the kind, the company has been represented by John H. Harte and W. L. Selby."

"These two men appear in the roster of the Metropolitan company and as the executive committee, Mr. Harte's name was signed to the check which was presented to the council Monday night with the petition as pay for the appraisers.

"Mr. Harte doesn't know," said Mr. Harte when questioned. "Yes, I gave that check to Mr. Patrick the other day, but I did not know it was to be used in that way. The grading of Dodge street has not been discussed by the company and I guess it is being done by people outside. Neither Mr. Selby nor myself, the managers, have anything to do with that matter."

"Is not a proposition on, Mr. Harte, for the sale of the road to the Omaha Street Railway company?" "Yes, and it has been for the last six months, but nothing has come of it. The price and certain stipulations are the stumbling blocks in the way of the purchase."

"It is the majority of the stock in the Metropolitan company is owned by John N. H. Patrick and his son, Robert W. Patrick. It is said that they are behind the petition which was presented to the council, and, as already stated, are refusing to discuss the matter. It is said that they have fixed the price of their road and are holding it at a high price, one which the Omaha company considers a holdup price. It is also said that the Patrick's insist on the terms of said proposition, that the line shall be extended 'way out over the meadows beyond Happy Hollow,' as one put it."

"From one source it was learned that an effort is being made to bring the two parties to the sale together and it appears now to offer more hope than have any of the former attempts along that line.

Dr. Kane of Wabash college, near Crawfordsville, Ind., is in Omaha this week looking over some of his property. He told his agents that he was much surprised by the lack of rent signs in the city and by the disappearance of the long faces which he saw here a few years ago.

Dr. Kane is reporting on improving some of his vacant lots in order that they may begin to bring in a revenue.

Olmedo Buys to Build. R. H. Olmedo has bought a lot immediately north of the Turner property on Thirty-fourth street. The considerations of the Omaha Typographical union yesterday centered in the contest for positions as delegates to the convention of the International union, to be held at Birmingham, Ala., in August.

The union is entitled to two delegates and there was a sharp four-cornered contest for the places, resulting in the election of M. N. Griffith of The Bee, with 119 votes, a tie between W. M. Ellsworth of the Omaha Herald and D. G. Craighead of the Omaha Printing company, with eighty-seven votes each, and the defeat of D. W. Carpenter of Klump & Bartlett's, with thirty-nine votes. Another election will be necessary to determine whether Mr. Ellsworth or Mr. Craighead is to be the second delegate.

The only other offices contested for at yesterday's election were the vice president, the recording secretaryship, J. J. Copenhaver of The Bee was elected vice president, receiving 124 votes to forty-one cast for George Vawter. For recording secretary J. C. Smith of Burkle's won out over Samuel Parsons, the vote being 119 to 112.

Charles Mathews of The News was elected president; A. F. Clark of the Omaha Printing company, secretary-treasurer; J. H. Collins, sergeant-at-arms; W. S. Ripley and Charles Elmendorf of The Bee and A. E. Butler of the Omaha Printing company, trustees, all without opposition.

COURT CHARGES PERJURY

Two Defendants Before Judge Baker Get Into Deeper Trouble.

"Something must be done to put a stop to the practice of putting up perjured defenses in this court."

So said Judge Baker yesterday morning as he instructed the county attorney to file charges of perjury against Louis Perkins and Thad Lockley, who were arrested some time ago on a charge of having stripped several vacant houses of plumbing.

When the men were arrested they made statements at the police station in which they admitted their guilt, and stenographic reports were taken of their statements, which were made in the presence of witnesses.

Perkins was tried in the district court last week and was found guilty of malicious injury to property, with damage in excess of $100, which is a penitentiary offense. When he was on the witness stand in his own behalf he was confronted with the statement he had made to the police officers, and he swore that he never made any such statement, although it had been stenographically reported and witnessed by several reputable people.

Lockley made a similar denial of his statement to the police when he was tried in criminal court yesterday. He had already broken faith with the court by promising to testify to the decision of the jury in the case of Perkins, his pal, and by repudiating the promise when that jury brought in a verdict of guilty.

"The defendants in these two cases," said Judge Baker, "have evidently testified falsely. It does not seem reasonable to me that their sworn testimony that they never made these statements to the police, when we know that the statements were actually taken down in shorthand and heard by a half dozen witnesses.

The penalty for malicious injury to property in excess of $100 is from one to three years in the penitentiary, while the penalty for perjury is from one to fourteen years.

Andrew Tucker on Trial. In Judge Baker's court yesterday afternoon the case of Andrew Tucker was called for trial. Tucker is charged with shooting Joseph Chinn in South Omaha on April 3 of this year. The afternoon was taken up with preliminaries incident to the trial.

Verdict for Defendant. In the case of Nels Mathisen against the Omaha Street Railway company Judge Baxter instructed the jury to return a verdict for the defendant on the ground that the evidence did not show any negligence on the part of the street railway company.

Neilson A. Stoner of Juniata on Trial. Neilson A. Stoner of Juniata is on trial before Judge Munger in the United States district court charged with perjury. Stoner was indicted by the grand jury for making false oath in a bankruptcy case in which he was a witness.

September 25 of last year Stoner's wife appeared before a referee in bankruptcy and was declared a bankrupt. In the schedule of property presented the referee and the creditors it is alleged that a quantity of binding twine amounting in value to $1,900 was not listed.

Stoner was one of the principal witnesses in the proceeding, and, it is alleged, he swore that all the personal property of the applicant, Minnie E. Stoner, had been listed. Some of the creditors did some sleuthing on their own account and discovered that Mrs. Stoner had a valuable asset in the form of a safe which she had not mentioned at all. Stoner's arrest followed, and he was indicted at the last session of the grand jury.

Enlarges His Yard. S. F. Hunter has sold to A. T. Austin fifty-five feet adjoining his residence on Thirty-ninth street for $3,500. The lot is number 8, in block 8, Jerome Park, and it is about a hundred feet north of Farnam, with a west frontage. The price is about $84 per front foot. R. C. Peters & Co. made the sale.

Preparing to Lay Tracks. Residents of Lowe's addition and adjoining districts are now counting on the street car extension to Prospect Hill cemetery being completed this summer. Although the settlement with the property owners for the opening of Thirty-third street has not yet been effected, the street car company is now hauling poles and depositing them on the side of the street from Cuming street north to the cemetery. There is an idea that if the city warrants to be issued for the opening of the three blocks from Cass to Cuming are not otherwise disposed of, the street car company will be willing to take them up in order to avoid any delay in the laying of the tracks. Meantime, however, G. S. Benawa and others interested are endeavoring to sell the warrants.

Webster County's Wheat. C. W. Kaley, a live real estate agent from Red Cloud, Neb., was in Omaha yesterday telling his friends of the wonderful wheat crop of Webster county. He declares that the wheat grown in that section of Nebraska is bigger and better than any he has seen in a recent tour through Ohio and Indiana. The acreage of winter wheat is double that of any previous year, and there is not a bad field in the entire county.

Mr. Kaley says further that the farmers are finding that what is a money-making crop, as is evidenced by the fact that nine out of ten of the men who are paying off their mortgages are wheat farmers.

Many families of Dunbar have been settling in Webster county, says Mr. Kaley, as the result of efforts that have been made by the real estate men. Thirty or forty families, he says, have come in within two years and they have already built themselves one church. Mr. Kaley believes that this number, however, is merely a nucleus and that now that a beginning has been made a large settlement of these people is likely to follow.

Farm sales continue brisk in Webster county. Mr. Kaley says, at prices ranging from about $10 to $20 an acre, or fully 25 per cent ahead of one year ago. Then a large quantity of land was selling at $6.25, $7.50 and $10 an acre, and a sale is made under $10. Pasture land, especially, is advancing in price.

Half-Section in Buffalo County. The Payne-Knox company reports the sale of 320 acres in Buffalo county, belonging to W. M. Fuller, for $5,000. The farm is well improved and lies on Wood river about four miles from Gibbon. All but about twenty acres is under cultivation and the balance is timber land. The deal was closed yesterday. C. D. Brink is the buyer.

RECRUITING HENRY'S ARMY

A. M. Palmer Raises a Regiment in Omaha to Support Richard Mansfield.

LOCAL CONTINGENT IS WELL TRAINED

Three Hours of Patient Drilling and Careful Instruction to Bring Them Into Realization of What Is Expected.

A. M. Palmer of Union Square fame conducted a school of dramatic art in Omaha last night. He didn't resort to the Belasco method of instruction in the matter of emotional expression, but he did put in three hours of hard work teaching the prospective Mansfield army how to kneel and bow and march and about for the king. He taught the maids of France and England (who will be tonight) how to bear themselves on London bridge or to lean from balconies and to carry wreaths before his victorious majesty.

When it was all over Mr. Palmer smiled the smile of patience born of many years of experience in the getting of things right on the stage and pronounced his class good, far above the average, in fact.

It was at the Royal. Something more than 150 young men and women who will tell in the future of the time they supported Richard Mansfield in his great production of "Henry V" crowded around the empty stage waiting to be trained in their part of tonight's play. The young men were dressed in various military spearmen, bannermen and the like, and then the young women were divided into those who are to stand on the bridge, to lean from balconies, to carry wreaths of flowers and to otherwise aid to the pictures that make the Mansfield production the great thing of it.

Drill is a Thorough One. When they had been properly assorted and labeled the work began. Tableaux for archers and halberdiers, musketeers for all and tableaux for some were taken up one after another. Now they all raised a joyful shout and marched away in merry disorder, following in imagination the hapless of the Henrys. Again the soldiers cheered their king and on bended knee pledged him loyalty and support in the battle which was to follow.

"Cheering a blank space in the wing is dull business, but the young people worked at it faithfully, and when King Henry appears tonight he will be astonished perhaps at the business of support given him by his Omaha retainers. Mr. Palmer noted them steadily to the work, drilling them carefully in all they are to do and instructing them minutely, so that by 11 o'clock he had them all working smoothly. Tonight they will be mingled with the hundred or more players who accompany Mr. Mansfield on the main and the result will be an army of 250 at least, working in perfect unison and co-operating to make successful the beautiful tableaux that form a delightful feature of Shakespeare's greatest "picture play."

The Mansfield train will arrive from St. Joseph this forenoon. The opera house is all ready to receive the scenery for the piece and by evening the company will be ready to show to the multitude the most magnificent performance ever given the play.

Woman's Bathing Gown. No. 3825—A comfortable well fitting bathing suit is as essential to a satisfactory sea bath as the well made outing costume is to the sports of dry land. White, various materials, flannel, serge, mohair and taffeta are used, nothing gives quite the satisfaction of alpaca or Siellian in quiet times. White has certain inherent advantages. It does not fade, salt water and sun render it only a deep, rich cream, but, on the other hand, many women find it conspicuous. Blue and black have stood the test of many seasons and are both reliable and correct. The admirable costume illustrated is suited to any of the materials mentioned, but in the original is of dark blue brilliantine, with bands of narrow black braid, and is worn with a soft silk tie.

The bloomers and full blouse are made in one with a loose, comfortable belt holding the gathers at the waist line. As shown the dress is of dark blue brilliantine, made high by means of a shield and standing collar; but, when preferred, the sleeves can become long and the shield or collar only be omitted as indicated in the sketch. The skirt is gored, but sufficiently full for freedom, and is attached to a separate band.

To make this gown for a woman of medium size 9 yards of material 27 inches wide or 5 3/4 yards 44 inches wide will be required.

The pattern 3825 is cut in sizes for a 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42-inch bust measure.

For the accommodation of The Bee's readers these patterns, which usually retail at from 10 to 50 cents, will be furnished at the nominal price of 10 cents, which covers all expense. In order to get any pattern, enclose 10 cents, give number and name of pattern wanted and bust measure. Allow about ten days from date of your letter before beginning to send for the pattern. Address Pattern Department, Omaha Bee.

GROCER'S CASH IS STOLEN

Burglar Breaks into the Store of William Gentleman on Sixteenth Street.

The cash drawer of William Gentleman's grocery store at Sixteenth and Cass streets was emptied of $18 by a burglar between 7 and 9 o'clock Wednesday evening. Patrolman Bloom found the back door open at 8 o'clock and an examination of the store disclosed the burglary. A partition door in the meat market adjoining was forced open and the drawer robbed of $18. The suspicion is that the thief secreted himself in the Gentleman store before closing time. The rear door was fastened with a heavy bar and the front door was locked.

HELD FOR KENTUCKY CRIME

William B. Aiken, Omaha Prisoner, is Charged with Murder.

Deputy Sheriff Comes After Him. Alleged Murderer Will Be Taken Back to His Former Home to Stand Trial—Sheriff Fears Mob Violence.

Deputy Sheriff Hubbard of Hart county, Kentucky, arrived yesterday and identified the prisoner, Will B. Aiken, who was arrested Saturday, as the man charged with the murder of Mrs. Siss Shipp and her 12-year-old grandson near Munfordville, Ky., in October of 1899. After satisfying himself that Aiken is the man he wanted, the officer went to Lincoln to procure requisition papers.

"The feeling against Aiken is very bitter in Hart county," said Mr. Hubbard, "and if I succeed in getting him into the Munfordville jail without violence I shall consider myself lucky. It isn't generally known there, however, that he has been located here before the mob has time to organize."

"This double murder was one of the most atrocious crimes ever committed in that part of the state," continued the officer. "Robbery was the motive, and the weapon used was an ax. It was generally understood that old Grassy Shipp, as she was known, was wealthy, and that most of her wealth was in the form of money which she kept concealed about her shanty, a little shack of pine boards.

"One morning neighbors visited her shanty and found both the old woman and her grandson dead and their bodies horribly mutilated. Beside them was the bloody ax with which the deed had been committed. The shanty had been ransacked, furniture and clothing were heaped in wild confusion in the middle of the rooms and several boards had been torn from the walls and floor.

"Several arrests of suspicious characters followed immediately, and among these suspects was Will B. Aiken. There was very little evidence against Aiken at the time and at his preliminary hearing which came a week later only two witnesses were able to give any material testimony for the state. These testified to having seen Aiken in the neighborhood of the Shipp shanty late in the afternoon of the day preceding the murder. This Aiken explained to the satisfaction of the justice and the hearing resulted in his discharge.

"Aiken immediately dropped out of sight. He hadn't been gone a week until new evidence was discovered which conclusively connected him with the crime. Some boys soon hunting in the woods near the scene of the murder found a suit of blood-stained clothes which was identified as having belonged to Aiken concealed in the branches of an oak tree.

"At once a vigorous search was begun for Aiken. Circulars offering a reward of $450 for his capture were sent broadcast over the country. Several times we heard of him in various parts of the west, but he always eluded us. Once he was arrested in the state of Missouri, but he was released, communication with the authorities Aiken had been released. His capture here was a stroke of good luck for the Omaha officers and they will surely get the reward."

Aiken Pleads Not Guilty. The arrest of Aiken was made last Saturday by Detectives Donahue, Heistfeld and Dunn upon information received in a telegram from Munfordville. Aiken admits that he is the man wanted in Kentucky for the murder, but denies that he is guilty of the crime. "Anyhow," said he this morning, "they couldn't convict me, because I've already been acquitted once of that charge. Further than this he refused to discuss the case.

"The 'acquittal' Aiken refers to is his discharge at the preliminary hearing, which, of course, does not prevent his being tried on trial for the crime. Over the head of Aiken hangs a reward of $450, which was offered at the time of his disappearance by the Kentucky authorities. This reward carries no stipulation as to the conviction of the prisoner and is offered unconditionally for capture. Therefore the money has been earned without a string to it by the Omaha officers who made the arrest.

Irregular Transfer Alleged. Suit in Federal Court Against John A petition filed in the United States circuit court yesterday alleges that John H. MacColl, at one time candidate for the governorship of Nebraska, has evaded the payment of judgments rendered against him by transferring his property to Frank H. Young of Broken Bow and William A. Stewart of Lexington.

The petitioners, Jeremiah P. Looney of Denver, and Fraser & Chalmers, dealers in mining machinery, pray that the transfer of property be declared null and void and HELD FOR KENTUCKY CRIME. The proceeds derived from the sale of the property be applied on their judgments. Jeremiah P. Looney alleges in his petition that on May 5, 1897, he filed a petition in equity in the district court of Douglas county against John H. MacColl and recovered judgment and received a decree in the sum of $4,054.36. It is further alleged that an execution was issued upon this judgment by the sheriff of Dawson county February 28, 1901, and was returned wholly unsatisfied for want of property, real or personal, belonging to Mr. MacColl. Fraser & Chalmers assert that they recovered a judgment in the district court of Dawson county against MacColl for the sum of $1,297.20, and this, too, it is alleged, remains unsatisfied.

According to the petition of the plaintiffs in this case Mr. MacColl evaded these judgments by transferring all of his property without consideration to Frank H. Young and William A. Stewart. United States Senator J. H. Millard is also mentioned in the petition, the allegation being made that MacColl first transferred some of his property to Senator Millard, and that it was subsequently transferred to Stewart.

December 10, 1897, is the date on which Mr. MacColl is said to have transferred the bulk of his real estate to Frank H. Young and the petition recites that the conveyance of these premises was made "for the purpose of hindering, delaying and defrauding complainants in the collection of their judgments therefor to be obtained upon their causes of action then existing."

Divorce Mill is Kept Busy. Two Petitions and Two Decrees the Day's Work. Matt L. McCune, a South Omaha saloon keeper, has been sued for divorce by Bertha L. McCune, who makes several charges against him. The wife states in her petition that she and her five children were driven from home by McCune and have been forced to care for themselves as best they can. Mrs. McCune says her husband has ample means to provide for his family and she asks the court to order him to do so.

Lola Brown wants a divorce from Mitchell Fred Brown. She says they were married on November 15, 1898, and he deserted her the following day. Judge Estelle has granted a divorce to Jessie A. Walkup from Andrew E. Walkup and ordered the husband to pay $45 alimony every three months. Judge Dickinson has divorced Emeline Eversole from William S. Eversole and ordered alimony of $1,000 for the wife.

Damage Trial Continues. The trial of the damage suit of Shields against The Bee Publishing company continues in Judge Keyser's court. Several witnesses for the defendant were examined yesterday to show that the alleged libelous article was published on information which the editor of The Bee had reason to believe true and not for the purpose of maliciously injuring the plaintiff.
