NEW EDITION OF GORDON'S LOVE LETTERS

Novel Dedicated to Captain Dreyfus—The Woman Who Trusts—Birds of the Bible—Science and Scientific Works.

Margaret Horton Potter, author of "Uncensored," has published a new work entitled "The House of De Mally."

The unprecedented popularity of the various volumes of love letters that have been published recently has evidently been one of the inducements for bringing out a new edition of "His Letters by Gordon."

The Dreyfus case will probably long remain a cause celebre, and the captain's own account, recently published, has called attention to it anew.

Recently a collection of Mr. Harben's short stories reprinted from the Century and other magazines and entitled "Northern Georgia Sketches" was published.

The Abbey Press has become one of the most prolific of publishing houses and every week a number of new volumes come to hand.

Dr. Madison C. Peters, who is already known to the reading public as the author of several books, among which might be mentioned "Why and Whom of the Talmud," "Justice to the Jew" and "Why I Became a Baptist," has brought out a new work, "The Birds of the Bible."

"The Symphony of Life," a series of constructive sketches and interpretations, is by Henry Wood, who already has a wide circle of readers.

"The Christian in Hungarian Romance," by John Fretwell, is a study of Dr. Maurus Joki's novel, "There is a God, or the People who Love but Once." This little book, a study in world literature, gives an illustration in fact as well as in fiction, of the manner in which the greatest of Hungarian novelists, Maurus Joki, endeavors to solve for the Hungarian people such problems as are presented to the English reader by Hall Caine in "The Christian." But Joki has an advantage over Caine, so far as the picture-essence of his story is concerned, in the fact that he brings his characters into connection with the stirring scenes of 1848, when both Hungary and Italy would have secured their liberation from Austrian misrule but for the aid of Russia, and also with the battle of Solferino, in 1859, when the defeat of Austria paved the way for both Italian and Hungarian liberty.

"Books for Graduates" have a nice line of white and gold presentation books, also a good line of nature books for children passing a successful school year.

George Wharton James has done a splendid work for the cause of art and science in his new book "Indian Basketry." Except for a few newspaper and magazine articles, there is nothing upon this subject in popular form. The author, however, has researched many scientific monographs and culled therefrom everything of interest relating thereto.

The writers and publishers of books have done a great work in the cause of science in the publication of such a large number of most valuable books descriptive of the life and habits of our native birds. The artists who sketch with pen and pencil the various birds have been at work until they have seemingly represented almost every bird in a book of this character, and that fully explains almost every question that can arise in the mind of the reader.

L. C. Page & Co. announce for publication in June two novels that are said to be of great interest. One is "The Mystery of the Woman Who Trusts," by Mark Ashton, and "My Strangest Case," by Guy Boothby.

The women have the Ladies Home Journal, Delmonico's Women's Home Companion, Vogue, Harper's Bazar, Housekeeper, and other high-class fashion, literary and topical magazines.

A Montana woman writes in praise of Newbro's Herpetide. No commissioner was ready to make a motion, and the attorney for the Omaha Suburban & Traction company remarked that he would move the adoption of the resolution granting his company a franchise if he had such a privilege.

Country Home Comforts. Couches, Chairs and Draperies.

In furnishing a home a variety of pretty effects can be gained by small seats which hug the corners closely. Among the latest are those with a single ornament end of fine stoved wood out in an appropriate shape.

TWO 'SUBURBAN COMPANIES'

Eagerly Seeking Franchisees from the County Comm. members.

BOARD NOT READY TO ACT ON MATTER

Arguments Presented Again by the Promoters and Proposition of the Newest Company is Read in Full.

With the representatives of two companies present and demanding action the county commissioners yesterday refused to take a vote on the suburban railway propositions which have been submitted to them, and thus indicated their unwillingness to grant a franchise to any party at this time.

John S. Knox, representing the Omaha & Fremont Railway company, was then given the privilege of the floor.

Omaha & Fremont Proposition. "Our proposition," said he, "has been before your board for eight months and we are now ready, as we have been for some time, to have it voted on."

Suburban and Traction Offer. The attorney for the Omaha Suburban and Traction company then declared that his clients were ready to build a line from Benson to Fremont.

Mr. Knox said that he wanted to be heard as a citizen and a taxpayer. "For every dollar of interest I have in the Omaha & Fremont railway," said he, "I have ten in other interests in this county and while I speak one word for the railway company I want to say ten words for myself as a citizen. The contract just read by Mr. Hector ties up all the roads in the county to this one company for an indefinite time and shuts out any and all other parties who may be willing to build suburban railways over specified routes. It throws a blanket over the entire county, if our company had thought for a moment that your board would grant such a blanket franchise to anyone we would have applied for one. I will say frankly as a citizen that the proposition of the Omaha Suburban Railway & Traction company is indefinite and does not properly protect the interests of the county."

3848 Women's Caps. 34 38 and 42 Bust. Women's Caps, No. 3848. To Be Made with Straight or Scalloped Edges and with or without the Applied Ribbon—Every woman recognizes the need for a wrap that can be slipped on and off with ease and realizes that nothing fills that need so perfectly as a cape. It is comfortable as well as smart. It does not rumple the waist nor crush the sleeves. The excellent model illustrated is adapted to many materials, peau de sole, taffeta, cloth and even chiffon, and can be made elaborate or plain as may be preferred. The original is of peau de sole with applique cream lace and frills of liberty silk, but trimming can be varied to suit the foundation of the entire cape can be covered with fringe frills.

The main portion falls to the waist and is finished with a scalloped or straight edge. Over the shoulders is applied the shaggy fur trimming, which may be of lace or other contrasting material, but which can be omitted when desirable. At the neck is a high shaped collar which may flare open or be held by ribbon ties.

To cut this cape for a woman of medium size, the pattern material 21 inches wide, 1 1/2 yards 44 inches wide, or 1 yard 54 inches wide will be required, with 1/2 yard in any width for yoke, 5 yards of pleating and 1 1/2 yards of applique to trim as illustrated.

For the accommodation of The Bee's readers these patterns, which usually retail at $2.50 in 30 cents, will be furnished at a nominal price, 10 cents, which covers all expense.
