There were not many cows and helfers on sale this morning, and buyers took hold in fairly good shape and bought them up at just about steady prices with yesterday. Good heavyweight stuff in particular was in good demand and was picked up in good eeason. The commoner kinds also sold fully as well as they did yesterday. Buils were slow and weak unless the quality was satisfactory, but anything good could be quoted steady with yesterday. Veal calves did not show much of any change, but stags were a little lower than they were yesterday. There were very few stockers and feed-the case for some time past, and the de-mand was equal to the supply at good, steady prices. The commoner kinds, how-ever, were neglected and rather slow sale.
