

SOCIAL DESPITE THE HEAT

Omaha Smart People Have a Few Things During the Week.

LUNCHEONS LEAD THE LIST OF DOINGS

Several Very Elaborate Affairs and Many Little Ones Fill in the Time of the First Hot Week in June.

One large luncheon and a half dozen smaller ones, an equal number of small, but elaborate dinner parties, and a large garden party, complete the list of happenings among Omaha's fashionable for the week past, but not the list of their doings, for several of the real features of the week occurred over the river and the smart set on this side were invited over to participate. Among these, Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Dodge's tea, on Thursday, was perhaps the most prominent, given as it was for an Omaha party, but the sailing parties, of which there were some half dozen, and the picnics and suppers, which marked nearly every day last week, were most enjoyable and proved attractive, at the expense of a number of affairs on this side. The coming of many of the college men and women occasioned several family dinner parties the last of the week and give promise of informal affairs this week, but the question that is still uppermost in the minds of society is: "When will we see the summer?" At the rate it is being decided in favor of out of town resorts, July and August will be a quiet season for those who are to remain at home.

The majority of those who played golf last week indulged early in the morning or late in the afternoon, when the sun was not so warm, but there are still those whose enthusiasm defies the possibility of sunstroke or even physical discomfort and the links have been dotted with players most of the time. The tournament next Saturday is being generally anticipated and if the weather permits, there will be a large crowd at the Country club to witness it.

Weddings and Engagements. Wednesday evening, June 12, at 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride's mother, The Normandie, occurred the wedding of Miss Grace May Maxwell and Willis I. Hoopes, Rev. T. V. Moore officiating. Only immediate relatives of the bride and groom were present. The young couple will begin housekeeping at once at 2113 Grant street, in this city, and will be at home to their friends after July 15.

St. Matthias' church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Tuesday evening, when the marriage of Miss Anna Mable Cameron and Rev. P. E. Henry was solemnized, Rev. Bishop Williams officiating. Flowers and greens decorated the church, which was filled with friends. The bride was attended by Miss Nettie Bayharsch and Dr. Ellis acted as best man. Mr. and Mrs. Henry will be at home after July 1 at 4116 North Twenty-fourth street.

One of the prettiest home weddings of the spring was that of Miss Sara McFarland and Mr. George D. McElroy, which occurred at 5 o'clock on Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's mother, 218 North Twenty-fourth street. A mass of waxy white blossoms and greens arched the doorway, while a festoon of asparagus and hanging from the chandeliers to the corners of the ceilings and shower bunches of pink roses were combined with the greens about the rooms. To the opening chords of the Lohengrin bridal chorus, two little boys in white duck suits entered, strutting the white ribbons which formed an aisle the length of the double parlor, through which the bride and groom advanced, side by side; the bride groomed in opera ballet, over which a long tulle veil hung to the foot of the train. Following them came two little girls in dainty white frocks and carrying the ends of the ribbons. Before the palm-banked window in the front parlor the marriage service was read, Rev. J. R. Ross of the Central United Presbyterian church officiating. About fifty guests, relatives and near friends witnessed the ceremony, which was followed by an informal reception.
