POLICE OFFICER SUSPENDED

Callaghan is Off the Feros Pending Official Investigation.

RESULTS FROM ARRESTING BERT BROWN

His Associates in a Secret Order Are Charged with Having Boasted that Trouble for the Bluecoat Would Fellow.

Officer Callaghan has been suspended pending an investigation. It is charged that he made a statement derogatory to Chief Albro in a Main street saloon. The charge against Callaghan results from his arrest of Bert Brown, a stagehand at the Dohany theater, who is a member of a secret society which has recently obtained a large membership. Brown was discharged in police court and Callaghan filed an information before Justice Ferrier charging him with resisting an officer. The case was taken on a change of venue to the court of Justice Bryant, where a hearing was partly had.

It is alleged that members of the secret order to which Brown belongs have openly boasted that it would "get Calaghan's scalp" and that one or two other officers had better "tread" a little carefully in the future or they might find the same fate as Callaghan. Mayor Jennings was out of the city yesterday, fishing at Noble's lake, so nothing can be done in the matter until his return. Callaghan says he is not worrying about the results of the investigation, which he feels assured will clear him of any charge unbecoming an officer.

Universal education is the duty and the need of the republic was the keynote of Dr. Emerson E. White's lecture before the teachers of the normal institute last night in the Broadway Methodist church. Dr. White's reputation as a public lecturer and educationalist attracted a large audience and his address on "The Duty of the Hour" held attention. Dr. White said: "Childhood is a warfare. Between the higher and lower natures of the child there is a conflict for rulership in its life. On the issue of this conflict hang all the issues of the child's future. If the higher nature conquers, if reason and conscience win the throne, out of this victory will

Third, the child also becomes a citizen of the state, good description of the three men, but an element of its weal or woe. Hence the they are supposed to have boarded a freight state stands by the side of every child born into liberty and with plenary power to see to it that the child is prepared for the duties and responsibilities of citizenship. It is thus seen that there are agencies that stand by the cradle of every child-the family, the community and the state These three agencies are conjoined in a sacred alliance to help the higher nature of the child to rulership in its life-to train the child for manhood and liberty." Then taking up the argument that the state should educate, Dr. White said: "The state should educate as a means of military defense-that it may be strong in war. The state should educate as a means of industrial progress—that its people may be rich. The state must educate that civil liberty may endure. Education never impoverishes a people. The public school is never a source of poverty. The world over it is the very best of financial investments. The school tax is guano on the fields of the farmer; it gives richness to the soil and industry to the tiller. In all the past liberty without popular intelligence has been the sport of civil tempests. "The duty of the hour is universal education. The school must be placed within easy reach of every child born into American citizenship. Whatever else may be done this must not be left undone." In concluding Dr. White said: "We hear much of human rights-the rights of labor and the rights of women and the rights of capital, but we hear too little of the one fundamental right, the right of childhood. This is not only the one fundamental, but the conservator of all other rights. In the center of civilization is the little child. Cars Off the Track. One of a string of refrigerator cars laden with merchandise while being hauled from the freight house track of the Omaha & St. Louis railway to the main line jumped the track yesterday afternoon. Before the cars could be brought to a stop four left the track and two were turned over on their sides. It was several hours before the track could be cleared, as the cars had to be unloaded before they could be righted. When the cars turned over a number of small children were playing by the tracks and two of them had a narrow escape from being caught under the falling

City Settles with Henry Lock. Attorney John Lindt notified City Solic itor Wadsworth yesterday morning that his client, Henry Lock, had decided to accept the offer of the city to settle his personal injury damage suit for $2,000. Then with all the speed possible judgment was entered in the district court against the city for the sum agreed upon.

The manner in which this damage sul has been disposed of by the city council has excited more than ordinary or usual criticism. Lock, who at the time was employed in a restaurant in a minor capacity. TO BEAUTIFY THE CAPITOL injuries through the breaking of a defective sidewalk on Broadway near Seventeenth street. He brought suit against the city for $5,250. Monday night his attorney, John Lindt, went before the city council and offered to compromise for $3,000. The al-lermen went into secret session as a committee of the whole, where after an hour's discussion they offered to settle the suit for $2,000. Attorney Lindt stood out for $2,500, but finally took the $2,000 proposition under advisement until yesterday morning, when, as had been generally expected, he accepted it.

Mayor Jennings, when asked concerning the action of the city council, declined to discuss it, but it is known that he is much displeased.

INQUEST ON NICHOLAS LASH

Coroner's Jury Holds Milwaukee Railroad and Its Employes Blameless.

The inquest held yesterday morning by Coroner Treynor over Nicholas Lash, who was run over and killed Monday night on the Milwaukee track between Ninth and Tenth streets, resulted in the jury bringing in a verdict that the man's death was due to being run over by a Milwaukee engine and that no blame is attached to the railroad or the engine crew for the accident. Such evidence as was before the jury showed that Lash had either fallen or lain down across the track and had gone to sleep, his legs being inside the rails, while his head and body were on the outside. The testimony of the train crew showed that the engine was backing down the track toward the bridge, pulling twelve cars. The switchman who was standing on the footboard of the engine did not perceive Lash until the train was within fifteen feet of him. He at once gave the signal to the engineer to stop, but the distance was too short, Lash was breathing when picked up, but after giving a few gasps expired. The evidence of the crew was that the train was running not more than eight miles an hour. The testimony showed also that several of the cars were not provided with airbrakes and that the headlight on the engine, according to the opinion of one of the witnesses, was "bummy." The funeral of Nicholas Lash will be this morning at 8 o'clock from St. Peter's Catholic church. The services will be conducted by Father Thomas and burial will be in the Catholic cemetery. Lash leaves a widow and five young children in poor circumstances.

COLLEGE PRESIDENT

Corneratone of Memorial University Soon to Be Laid-Tax Ferrets Adjust Large Amount of Unpaid Taxes.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) DES MOINES, June 25 .- (Special.) -The commission authorized by the last legislature to report on what is necessary to complete the lows state capitol building and the expense thereof met here this afternoon, there being present Colonel Peter A Dey, Iowa City; George A. Josslyn, Cedar Rapids, and C. A. Cummings of this city; also F. A. Dielmann of New York, president of the Academy of Design. Mr. Dellmann has been engaged in making sketches of the capitol, which he will take home with him to work out the decoration scheme. He expressed himself as greatly surprised at the beauty of the capitol and the rare opportunity for splendid decora-tion afforded. The commission will recommend that when the capitol building is finished the work be well done and that nothing be slighted anywhere. The capitol commission was abolished while there was yet at least a year's work to be done, but now that the state is abundantly supplied with money it is proposed that the halls, corridors and general interior shall be completed as originally planned and by the best artists of the country. The commission is not ready to suggest how much ought to be spent in deccration of the building. One thing decided upon is that the legislature will be recommended to remove the battle flags from the capitol building and place them in the historical building. The flags are in large, ungainly cases in the main corridor of the capitol where they are being carefully preserved. but they are very much in the way if the capitol is to be finished properly. There is also a large group representing an Indian scene in the main corridor and this will be removed to a more suitable place. The commission will have another meeting in the fall, when Mr. Deilmann's report is in to complete the report to the legislature. Governor Shaw is much interested in the work and will recommend that the legislature make a liberal appropriation to complete the building.
