

KILROY'S BULLET NOT FATAL

Aged Farmer Who Wounds Hired Man is Out on Bail.

WIFE'S HONOR IS CAUSE OF SHOOTING

Rodgers Admits His Fault, but Also Blames the Woman - Hot Language Used in Court.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

Lincoln, June 27.—(Special.)—Michael Kilroy, the aged farmer who was arrested in Raymond last night for shooting James Rodgers, was released this afternoon under bond for $1,000 to appear July 8 for preliminary hearing. The charge against him is shooting with intent to kill and to be pleaded not guilty. Rodgers is in a hospital here and his physician entertains strong hope that he will recover. Acting under the advice of his attorneys Kilroy refused to talk to reporters today. He left the city immediately after his bond was accepted, returning to Raymond with his wife. From his demeanor it is evident that he does not seriously regret his act of yesterday afternoon. When brought to the county jail at 6 o'clock this morning he was in a dejected mood and he said several times that he would willingly shoot Rodgers again under similar circumstances. Sheriff Branson investigated the affair in Raymond last night. He heard and saw only the wife of Rodgers and Rodgers, but also the opinion of citizens of the village of Raymond. It is evident that Kilroy is honest in the declaration that he shot Rodgers because he suspected him of assaulting his wife. The accused is 54 years of age and a farmer by occupation, residing in West Oak precinct. His home is small and the room occupied by Rodgers, who was employed by himself and wife Rodgers is about 27 years of age and had been employed on the farm not more than a month. Rodgers Admits His Offense. Monday Kilroy came to Lincoln and his business kept him here until Tuesday evening. When he returned his wife told him that Rodgers had entered her room Monday night by breaking down a window screen and, taking advantage of her helplessness, had assaulted her. When he heard the story Kilroy seized his revolver and went to a cornfield, where Rodgers was riding a cultivator. Pointing the revolver at his head he told Rodgers that he was going to kill him. Kilroy looked at him a moment and with a revolver still pointed at his head commanded him to go to the house. Rodgers obeyed and Kilroy followed a few paces behind, keeping him covered with the revolver. At the farm house Kilroy and his wife confronted the man and the former demanded of each in turn whether they had sustained any criminal relations with each other. Rodgers replied affirmatively, and instantly Kilroy fired a shot, the ball entering the left side of the face, immediately below the cheek bone, and taking a downward course. Rodgers staggered to a neighbor's house and remained there until Dr. Haggard of this city came to remove him to the hospital. The shooting was reported to the county authorities and prosecuting Attorney Caldwell immediately swore out a complaint, charging Kilroy with shooting with intent to kill. Sheriff Branson took the document and started for Raymond. He had no difficulty in finding Kilroy, for the latter remained at his farm. Mrs. Kilroy Warned Hiram. Mrs. Kilroy told Sheriff Branson that she warned Rodgers that if he did not leave the farm her husband would shoot him when he returned. But Rodgers was fearless and he remained at the farm. Rodgers declared last night he had made no forcible assault upon the woman, insisting that she knew he was coming and in fact had asked him to come as soon as the children fell asleep. He says he did not tear away from the woman, but walked through the communicating door between their rooms. Word Liar Used in Court. The fourth day's proceedings in the action brought in county court by Attorney Frank M. Tyrrell to recover $750 which he alleges is due him for legal services in behalf of the Bankers Union resulted in heated language being used by the plaintiff in the suit. Attorney Pettis had insinuated that Mr. Tyrrell had profited by the deal between the representatives of the Bankers Union and the Sons and Daughters of Protection. "Any man who says that I got any part of the swag tells a falsehood," declared Mr. Tyrrell. The judge adjured Mr. Tyrrell to be cool and composed. "I am cool and composed," yelled Mr. Tyrrell, "and I want to state that any man who makes such an insinuation is a liar." The case is being ferociously contested and the tempers of all concerned are being severely tried. After the outburst of Mr. Tyrrell, the court took up the investigation of the three contracts made in the deal and the taking of evidence on this subject continued the entire afternoon. "Charity and an Assailant." Justice Greene this afternoon listened to the evidence in the charge of assault against Harry Sutton, C. E. Prevey, the representative of a local charity organization, is the complaining witness. It is alleged that the society rendered the Sutton family assistance last winter and when Prevey called to collect the amount due on account of the loan, Sutton struck him over the head with a pitchfork and drove him from the place. The family of Sutton is now in destitute circumstances. Sutton is a prisoner in the jail, all where he will remain until the Minnesota authorities come to take him back to the penitentiary at St. Cloud, Minn. He was sentenced to a term of five years in that institution. His parole was granted, but he was not released and proceeded to Lincoln via the pumper and blind baggage route. Officer Mitchell picked him up for vagrancy and when he was taken to the police station it was discovered that he was an ex-convict. The Minnesota authorities have notified the local officers that they will procure the necessary papers and come after him. Rudolf Rassendyl was the high-sounding name which Root gave to the police. Waits Divorce from Hayward. Mrs. Elizabeth Hayward today filed a lengthy catalogue of alleged wrongs in the district court and asks for an absolute decree of divorce from her husband, John P. Hayward. She says that he is in the habit of going on prolonged trips and returning home late at night. She further maintains that he frequently beats her with his fists. She also insists that he has been guilty of many other cruelties and asks the court to end their married life. Waterloo People Drowned. Lee Fetter Sinks and Walter Evans Meets Death in Attempting a Rescue. Waterloo, Neb., June 27.—(Special Telegram.)—Lee Fetter, aged 17 years, and Walter Evans, aged 30 years, were drowned last evening in a lake formed by the Platte river overflowing its banks. Fetter and Evans were on a boat with A. H. Brown's place, three miles southwest of this place. Young Fetter could not swim and had been cautioned by his mother that day not to go in the lake, but he took advantage of her being away from home to lead to swim. His younger brother went with him and when Lee felt himself sinking he called to his brother for help. The cries of the younger brought Walter Evans, a neighbor, to his assistance, but after being in the water a short distance away from the shore he was unable to get out. At the time A. H. Brown reached the lake from the opposite side and waded in up to his chin, but could not reach the drowning men. He called to Grant Durt to throw him a fish pole, but the pole missed his mark and Mr. Brown had to wade quite a distance to get it. By the time he got back both were under water. He stuck the pole down where he thought they were and one of them caught hold of it, but in turning he lost his footing and went down a couple of times himself. A fish pole came to the surface a short distance away. By this time a number of neighbors showed up and forming a chain Mr. Brown took the pole again and sticking it down where he thought the men had gone down he touched the body of Mr. Evans, but the pole was caught in Evans' clothing, and although this took but a few minutes, life was extinct when he was brought to the surface. The boy's body was found later. Mr. Evans leaves a wife and one child. Cow Breaks Man's Leg. DeWitt Railroad Agent Throws and Sustains Fracture in Paralyzed Position of His Body. RENEWED ACTIVITY ON THE RANGES

Man's Best Friend Begins to Regain His Lost Prestige - Western Stockmen More Hopeful for Good Prices.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

Lincoln, June 27.—(Special.)—During the last two years Nebraska farmers and stockmen have sold to England over 2,000 horses for service in the war in South Africa. The price paid has varied from $30 to $90, but the general average has been $50 per head. Most of the horses came from the western part of the state and were sold at South Omaha or Kansas City, where the English purchasing agents maintained headquarters. There is still a good demand for the tough animals known as "war horses." The dealing just now is inactive, but it is said that the purchasing agents are being organized to do away with the ready market for all horses that can be supplied. When England began purchasing horses in America the agents demanded young, thoroughbred animals and the price paid sometimes went as high as $100, but they took only animals that were trained with great care, and were sound in every bone and fiber. The extravagance of these operations was soon demonstrated and the English agents in America were instructed to be less particular in selecting the animals. Horses are extremely sensitive to climatic changes and conditions designed to do away with even the best American horses could survive only about six weeks of active service in the South African war. The agents began experimenting with common stock and it was found that the ordinary range horse from Nebraska, Wyoming, Montana or Colorado on the territory could do just as effectively work and live as long in South Africa as the high-priced thoroughbred horse. Inventions Damage Business. "With the exception of the traffic with England there has been comparatively no activity in the horse business for several years past," said a thoughtful stockman. "Until a few years ago horse raising was a profitable business, but suddenly there was a change and prices fell so low that it became a losing occupation. This change came about the time there was so much talk about electric street cars, automobiles and other inventions designed to do away with horses. People began to think that the horse would soon pass out of existence and consequently they refused to pay the usual prices. The stockmen soon felt the decline and they were forced to allow their horses to run wild. Today there are thousands of fine horses on the western ranges that are no more the property of any man than the wild beast that inhabits the mountains. They are not branded and they do not belong in any particular community. "Recently, however, there have been signs of renewed activity and it would not surprise us if prices took an upward turn sometime in the near future." Oil and Gas Under Blue River. People living in and near Millard claim that they have discovered signs of oil or gas beneath the Blue River in their vicinity. Similar signs have been noticed at Nebraska City and at both places movements have been started to sink deep wells for the purpose of ascertaining whether their hopes are well grounded. At Nebraska City a subscription fund has been started to defray the expenses of sinking the well and J. Sterling Morton was the first to show his enthusiasm in a substantial way. At Millard a Mr. L. Burdick, manager of a provision house at that city, is said to have been the first to discover the presence of seams of oil on the ice on the Missouri river. An examination showed almost conclusively that they did not originate from beneath the belief that they originate from a natural source below the river bed. Little spots of oil, similar to those seen at Nebraska City, frequently appear on the Blue river at Millard. They burn perfectly when lighted and are considered by the people in the neighborhood as unmistakable evidence of the presence of oil or gas below the surface. Deed for State Fair Grounds. The Board of Public Lands and Buildings has been given a deed by the Lancaster County Agricultural association for ten acres of land situated within the enclosure of the State fair grounds. This is a part of the deed for the purpose of transferring the fair grounds to the state. When the state first proposed buying the State fair site the Lancaster County association demanded a good sum for its property and for a while it looked as though the deal would not be consummated because of its obstinacy. For many years past the county has held its annual exhibit in connection with the State fair, excepting, of course, the years the fair was held in Omaha. The arrangement will be continued this year and the county will be the beneficiary. Webster County Schools. State Superintendent Fowler has taken under advisement the case of the school district of Webster county, involving the legality of one of two sets of school officers recently elected, and he expects to give a decision the last of the week. Superintendent Case of Webster county has asked the state superintendent which set of officers she shall recognize officially, the one elected at the meeting held at 1 o'clock in the morning or those elected at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. Acting Governor is Busy. Senator Steele of Fairbury, acting governor of Nebraska, was kept busy at the state house today receiving callers, attending to official business of a minor nature. Many of the republican committeemen, who came to Lincoln to attend the meeting tonight, visited the capitol building during the day and congratulated the senator upon his promotion to the first position in the state. Beatrice Grain Company. Articles of incorporation of the Local Grain company of Beatrice were recorded in the secretary of state's office today. The company is capitalized for $20,000. The incorporators are: J. C. Robinson, president; H. B. Waldron, cashier; I. Noyes, president; J. C. Robinson, vice president; directors, H. B. Waldron, H. G. Coy, B. F. Bell, J. C. Traber, B. B. Hopper. County Fairs in Nebraska. The following dates for county fairs in Nebraska have been announced by Secretary Parsons: Jefferson county, September 17 to 20 at Fairbury; Frontier county, September 24 to 27, at Stockville; Kearney county, September 18 to 21, at Madison; Madison county, September 10 to 13, at Madison; Cedar county, September 17 to 20, at Hartington. What Will Taste Good?

The Palate vs. the Stomach.

The average woman who considers what she shall eat, asks herself, "What will taste good?" She rarely remembers that the object of eating is to provide nutrition to sustain the body and that the palate does not determine the nutritive value of food. The consequence is that she makes a lunch of ice cream and cake, helped out by a little candy and thinks she has been fed. Instead of that she has only been filled. She has called the digestive system into activity for practically no purpose, except to ask it to make bricks without straw—to nourish the body with material in which there is little, if any, nutrition. It must be said that the men are not far behind the women in this respect. They eat pie and doughnuts for lunch because
