HEAT SUGGESTS VACATIONS mer vacations offered by The Bee will become more spirited than ever before. come more spirited than ever before.

The prophets say that these torrid June days are only a foretaste of what we are to have later on, all of which calls to mind how cheerful it will be to get away to some shady wood close by a lakeside or up into the mountains where cool weather is the attraction and where people sleep under covers while others who remain at nome are forced to fan themselves all

Everyone of the vacations offered by The Bee is well worth taking, even though the one who takes it has to pay her own way. Then how much more attractive it is, when we contemplate the fact that The Bee bears all expenses.

Best the Map Affords.

There are comfort, experience and entertainment in the trips mapped out by The Bee. In making the selection, the management was prompted by just one consideration-and that was to select twelve of the most desirable trips that this country affords, regardless of expense. And so that is what The Bee offers to young women who earn their own living.

It is a part of the American nature to travel. That's why this is the greatest railroad country on earth. If we didn't have that longing for travel and sightseeing, there wouldn't be nearly so many railroads and Mr. Pullman would never have made such a fortune out of the sleeping car business. To travel is to acquire Everybody wants some of that This is why the young women within the district prescribed by The Bee contest are so enthusiastic. They are alert in appreciating such a generous offer.

Reference to the figures and names at the head of this column will show that the contest is moving along nicely-no rush, no crowd, no jam, no confusion, but just a good, healthy and interesting hustle for

The figures given herein show the status of the contest up to 6 o'clock last evening. Further announcements will be made in coming issues of The Bee. Watch the paper closely, and cut your coupons early and Child's Dress, No. 3844. To be Made with with short skirts are much in vogue for every Hawkeye who has figured prominently little girls and are very charming in their The smart frock illustrated is designed after the newest ideas and is peculiarly effective, as it includes a round yoke that suggests the guimpe, while the dress is actually all in one. The original is made of fine nainsook in combination with inserted tucking and needlework frills, and is worn with a sash of blue liberty ribbon, but any white lawn or batiste, colored washable material or simple wool or silk fabric is entirely suitable.

The long waist is made over a body lining that fits smoothly, without being tight. On it is faced the round yoke, and over the lower part are arranged the full portions of the waist proper, and to the lower edge is attached the straight, full skirt, which in this instance is made of flouncing. The sleeves are simply full, in guimpe style, and, as shown, the lining is cut away beneath the yoke, but this last s entirely optional. Over the seam which forms the skirt to the waist are arranged a succession of straps or bands beneath

Moss Jacobs Reaps Reward of Long Years of Frugality.

Twenty-Five Years Crying Papers of the Streets Give Jacobs an Acquaintance with Notables and Keen Eye for Business.

A wedding which attracted something more than ordinary interest was that of Mr. Mose Jacobs of Des Moines and Miss Elizabeth Byoir, which occurred at 6 o'clock last evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. M. Byoir of 1910 Capitol avenue. Forty relatives and friends witnessed the ceremony.

The parlors of the Byoir home were banked with palms and ferns. Ropes of smilax and carnations were draped from the chandelier in the drawing room to the top of a large mantel and formed a canopy. under which the young couple stood while Rabbi Simon read the marriage service. Quaint Career of Groom. Mose Jacobs of Des Moines, the best known newsboy in the west, and Miss Elizabeth Byoir of Omaha were married last evening at the home of the bride's mother, 1910 Capitol avenue.

Twenty-five years ago Mose began selling papers in Des Moines and his voice has been heard continuously in the streets of Iowa's capital city until last week, when he established a news store.

He has a wider acquaintance than any other man in Des Moines. For years he stood at the corner of Fifth and Walnut streets and cried his papers. His voice is so powerful that he could be heard for blocks in spite of the noises of the street. Mose was not an ordinary newsboy. He always carried the leading papers of every city in the United States and was nothing short of a moving news stand. He numbered his customers by the thousands and his earnings would put to shame the receipts of the ordinary news store.

Luck in Real Estate.

Years ago Mose began to invest his money in Des Moines real estate and he has acquired a fortune estimated at $75,000. His friends have repeatedly urged him to leave the street for a more diginfied business, but his peripatetic news stand was so successful that he was contented with his lot and did not hazard a change until last week. Mose has an acquaintance with every well known man in Iowa. He is authority on in politics within the last quarter of a century. He is 31 years of age.

Outwits a Kicker. A story is told in Des Moines of how good on a certain corner, but a merchant streets. who occupied a storeroom adjoining the corner refused to allow Mose to stand on the corner. In a few weeks the merchant was notified that he had a new landlord. Mose had purchased the building, and after that time he was not molested.

Miss Byoir was formerly a resident of Des Moines. The young people have been friends for years, and the marriage comes as a climax to a courtship of five years.

spect to the High school location and it does not look now as if there was any immediate prospect of work on the structure being commenced this season. After the plans of Architect Davis had been approved members of the board agreed that the site purchased from Thomas Hoctor was not large enough to erect the building and leave any room for walks, lawns, etc. It was then proposed that the board purchase the property adjoining the Hoctor site on the north. This question has been debated for several weeks, but nothing has been done. Now there seems to be an entirely different sentiment. Quite a number of property owners want the board to purchase the lots at Twentyfourth and K streets instead of the lots on the north of the present site, thus giving the proposed building at least a wing frontage on Twenty-fourth street. As the plans are now drawn the building will front on Twenty-third street and only the rear of the wings can be seen from Twentyfourth street. A property owner who appears to be entirely disinterested in the matter said yesterday that a petition was about to be circulated asking the board to change its arrangements so as to front building on K street, thus allowing one of the wings to face Twenty-fourth street. He said that unless this was done the people of the First ward would oppose the voting of bonds for the erection of a High school. The property on Twentyfourth street will cost a great deal more than that proposed to be purchased by the clai features, technical details, values and Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs left last evening for board at Twenty-third and J streets and marks, and all the other unwritten lore Des Moines, where they will make their it appears doubtful if the city at large of the subject. Whereas, The South Omaha Street Fair will be held in our city from July 2 to 13 inclusive, and
Whereas, Our city will be visited by a great number of people from Nebraska and meighboring states, and
Whereas, There exists upon the ordinance books of the city an ordinance prescribing a penalty for the throwing of papers or debris into the streets or alleys, and
Whereas, Our citizens should take pride in having the city of South Omaha present to our guests a clean, orderly and wholesome appearance, and that our streets, driveways and avenues be free from all obstructions, garbage or nuisances of every description, thereby beautifying our city during these festivities,
Now, therefore, i, Allen R. Kelly, mayor of the city of South Omaha, hereby ask and direct that each and every citizen of our city personally exercise every effort within his power to the end that the streets, driveways, etc., are kept free and clear of obstructions, garbage, dirt, etc. All weeds and unsightly vegetation along streets and avenues should be cut down and removed, Citizens should refrain from casting into the streets any garbage, papers or other debris so that those who visit our city during the festivities will be favorably impressed, with the heauty, cleanliness and healthful appearance of the city in general.

I further request that all places of business exhibit appropriate displays and decorations and that the hospitality of the South Omaha people be in no way lacking, but each one feel ft his independent privilege and duty to see to it that each and ail of our coming guests are well entertained and kindly treated, thus maintaining the good reputation we now have.

Better Fire Protection

Chief Etter of the fire department announced yesterday that on Saturday of this week hose company No. 3 would be placed in service. On account of the coming street fair it has been deemed advisable to retain this new company in the heart of the city for a couple of weeks. Arrangements have been made for quartering No. 3 company at No. 1 fire hall on Twentyfourth street so that in case of a fire two hose companies will be promptly on hand. The company on Indian hill will remain at its present station. With the addition of hose company No. 3 the department will consist of eleven well-drilled men and Chief Etter says that extra care will be taken to prevent fire starting in any of the booths or street decorations.

Every collector or admirer of things artistic and historical will agree that the book of the week is "The Furniture of Our Forefathers," by Esther Singleton, the second volume of which is just at hand. Hardly a subject could be found which has more different kinds of interest-historical, nesthetic, patriotic and what notthan the old furniture of our own country, which is now collected so eagerly. Strangely enough, however, till the present work, there has been an utter lack of any authoritative work on the subject. The English furniture has been well covered and many special monographs have appeared, but here for the first time is presented a clear and comprehensive account for the amateur of the different styles-the Puritan, home-made things, quaint Dutch belongings, the rich furnishings of the southern colonial mansions—the ways of telling the genuine things, the historical associations of speof rooms and separate articles are a fea-
