Grassy Plot in Jefferson Square Park is Chosen as a Place to Die-Woman in the Case Relates Her Story.

Humiliated by a public horsewhipping administered by his wife and piqued because his guilty love was unrequited, Captain Jesse F. Thayer, formerly in command of the American Volunteer corps at Lincoln. committed suicide in Jefferson square yesterday morning by taking cyanide of potascium mixed with whisky. Three men saw him compound the draught and drink it and these say that death followed almost immediately. In his pocket was a letter bidding farewell "To mother and those who

The body was taken to the undertaking rooms of the coroner and a telegram was sent to the widow, Captain Elia Thayer, 1526 O street, Lincoln, who had succeeded him in command of the Volunteers at that point. Messages were sent to several other relatives.

Captain Thayer came to Omaha from Lincoln last Wednesday with a young woman named Dottle Hashenberger, a dress-maker. She found employment in Moore's restaurant on North Tenth street and did odd jobs about the Thurston hotel. They occupied separate apartments at the Klondike hotel.

General Auditor Denies Intention to Merge Accounting Offices.

COMING CONFERENCE OF ROUTINE NATURE

Harriman Interests Intend to Combine All that is Best in Different Systems in Order that Uniformity May Result.

"There will be no consolidation." That was the statement of Erastus Young, general auditor of the Union Pacific railroad, yesterday in answer to a rehearsal of the report that the accounting offices of the Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Oregon Railroad & Navigation company and Oregon Short Line were to be merged under one head. Mr. Young further said that he had no expectation of either promotion or removal for himself and that if such action was contemplated it was entirely beyond his knowledge. The auditor was then shown a telegram from San Francisco stating that three officials from the auditing deaprtment of the Southern Pacific had started for Omaha to attend a conference in Mr. Young's office on next Monday. Representatives of the accounting offices of the Oregon Short Line and the Oregon Railroad & Navigation company would also attend the meeting, according to the telegram.

"Yes, there will be a conference here Monday," said Mr. Young, "but not for consolidation. No, I have no information to give out concerning the nature of the conference or the business to be trans-

It is probable that Mr. Young will be attended at the conference by two of his chief subordinates, Freight Auditor H. J. Stirling and Passenger Auditor F . B. Southard. Neither of these genetlemen, however, will be present unless called in at the time by Mr. Young, as they have received from him no request to appear. Merge Only on Methods.

High officials in the auditing department say it is to be merely a meeting for the common exchange of ideas and methods of keeping accounts.

"In that way it will be a consolidation," said one official, "but in no other. We When a dog is not licensed and tagged shall merge on methods, and on nothing else. There is nothing surprising about it the greatest good to the auditing service. "It is like this. The auditors of each road have their own systems, built up by them on their own ideas. Each system will contain some excellent points and the other roads like to learn of these and adopt them. These Harriman roads are very close together now and there is every reason why the very best auditing method that is possible of evolution from a combination of all the systems in use should be adopted.'

Union Pacific officials generally scoff at the idea of the removal of Mr. Young. They say that a promotion might have been very logical and probable, but that with all possibility of it gone any change at all is ridiculous. Mr Young is too valuable a man for the road to let go.

The Skin an index to the blood Millions of little glands or tubes connect the blood with the skin, and through these small drain pipes perspiration passes out, carrying with it the impurities that are thrown off by the blood. Should the pores of the "kin be entirely closed for even a brief space of time, and the poisonous matter forced back into the circulation, instant death would result. In addition to the sweat glands, the skin is provided with certain others which pour out upon it an oily substance, keeping the skin pliable and soft and protecting it from heat and cold. The blood and skin are so closely related that whatever affects one seriously interferes with the func-tions of the other.
