Edith Spencer, Omans Public Library 17,307 showed their hands. The real strength o many of the contestants was held in reserve and swung into line with telling effect. Some of the candidates were supported by an entire community and enlisted the services of hundreds of friends in their cause. Others carried on their campaign through solicitors and agents who were taking subscriptions for The Bee. The manipulation of votes savored of the cornering of Northern Pacine stock. Candidates who felt that they could now win offered their ballets on the open market. The contestants who were in the market for support kept in touch with prices and No. 6-Omaha to Hot Springs, S. D., and anyone who has had an appetite created landed votes by the thousand when conditions seemed favorable. There were all sorts of permutations and combinations. Some of the candidates entered into an agreement to withdraw from the race in favor of other contestants in case things went against them. Weak candidates tried to tie up with strong ones in the hope of freezing out competitors and strong candidates hooked up with lesser lights in the hope of being abl to swallow them. But in the grand rush at the finish all deep-laid plans were killed off. Favorites got lost in the shuffle and all the ties that bound various candidates were severed. It was like a sooners' race for land in Indian territory. Anxious candidates had no idea how things were going. The uncertainty of the fight added to its charms. It was everybody's game until the finish.

WHAT HELPS THE WINNERS

Friends and Reintives of Candidates Cut Into the Fight with Much Vigor.

Vera L. Kramer of Columbus, who polled the highest number of votes of any canditory by the force of the loyalty of her townspeople. Grand Island men, women and children pulled together for their one and only candidate, and they landed her an easy winner without having to go out of their own city for assistance.

Lydia Harrison of Nebraska City came in a winner by surprise. Ira Goldin, agent for The Bee at Nebraska City, on account of illness in his family, was unable to do any hustling for his candidate until last Friday. He started in then with only 1,200 votes and within three days succeeded in making Miss Harrison one of the Nebraska in Wisconsin. Emily Wigman, the Omaha girl who lands at the top of the column as a vote getter, made a systematic canvass for the victory she has won. She had the inteacher in the manual training department of the High school, her mother and her two on the trolley line is Waukesha beach, with cago and home again over the Illinois Censisters and there never was a day during the contest when she was not strictly in ing.

Amanda Lindblad was sided greatly by her brother, who hustled from day to day to keep his sister among the top-liners. Miss Lindblad is an Omaha girl in every sense of the word, having been born and reared in the city. Her former schoolmates

Jennie Ferren had an army of friends behind her in the fight and the regiment of girls in the big Kilpatrick store were not no traveler to Colorado should miss. Then ing. fishing, driving and enough going on Dodge City and North Platte each 190.

There was a spirited fight over in western Iowa and Dick Collins, Bee agent at ited up to one of the fair Nebraskans in The Misseuri Valley, were in the thickest of the fray. They both succeeded in making winners of their candidates, Jennie McElroy and Lizzie Kennedy.

Sam Davies, agent for The Bee at Wayne, made a splendid canvass for his candidate, but the pace set by other towns was a little too swift. Mr. Davies, however, made a proud showing for his candidate. Goldle Brookings, and secured one of the consolation prizes for her.

Mayme Graham of David City was one of the leaders all through the contest and has well carned the consolation prize which will go to her. Govie Disney, Bee agent at David City, conducted her campaign and > Clarence D. Gibson, aged 30 years, died at his home, Twelfth and I streets, South Omaha, Sunday morning. Mr. Gibson was operated upon Saturday night for appendicitis. The attending physicians think that the heat aggravated the trouble and really caused his death.

Thomas McCausland, 20 years old, was taken violently ill at his home near Fort Omaha Sunday evening, the symptoms being such that his family feared he had been potsoned. A doctor was sent for and a white, 2,218,667; colored, 13,186, including stomach pump was brought into play. The patient railied in the course of an hour or so. The physician is now convinced that McCausland was suffering from overheating. He is now out of danger.

> Mrs. Harvey E. Burnam, wife of the deputy county attorney, was prostrated by the heat yesterday afternoon at her residence, 2425 Dodge street.

R. W. Johnson, a Union Pacific switchman living at Twenty-sixth street and Second avenue, Council Bluffs, was overcome late yesterday afternoon in a lower Dodge street saloon as a result of drinking too much ice water and lemonade. He was attended at the city jail and sent to St. Joseph's hospital at his own request. His. condition is not considered serious. Kruse has been accustemed to working in a temperature of frem 25 to 30 degrees and the great change was too much for him.

Mrs. Harry E. Burnam, wife of the denuty county attorney, was prostrated by the heat yesterday afternoon at her residence, 2425 Dodge street. She suffered a similar prostration last summer, which makes her condition that much worse, but was reported as resting easily last night.
