

MOONLIGHT ON LAKE MANAWA

Society Goes in for Boating and Has Much Delightful Fun.

INFORMAL AFFAIRS STILL THE RULE

Younger Members Have the Helms and Make the Week One of Just Pure Pleasure and Very Few Fetters.

The affairs of the week have been decidedly in the hands of the younger set and have consisted of a few gatherings of an informal nature. The moonlight nights have been improved to the utmost and Lake Manawa has claimed the great proportion of society's time and favor. Every evening there has been sailing parties of three or four and nearly every available craft has been pressed into service. In spite of the threatening weather a good number of the young women went over to the race yesterday afternoon.

For the more staid members of society the recitals at Trinity cathedral furnished ample interest.

The Davin dancing party on Tuesday evening will practically close the summer for those of the younger set who go back to college, that is so far as has been announced, but the arrival tomorrow of another party of college men will doubtless occasion a number of bright affairs before the week closes.

The marriage of Miss Maudie Oakley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Hecator Oakley of Lincoln, and Mr. Frank Kins Clark of Chicago, which occurred at 8:20 o'clock on Thursday evening at Holy Trinity Episcopal church in Lincoln, was of wide interest in Omaha's fashionable circles, among which the bride was as well known as in her home city. The wedding was one of the smartest affairs that has occurred in Lincoln in many seasons and was attended by a large number of friends from this city. Miss Mae Mount was one of the bridesmaids and went to Lincoln early in the week to attend the pre-nuptial affairs.

On one side was constructed a clever imitation of an old vine-covered well, from which punch was served by Misses Margaret Philipp and Ade's McHugh. At another booth, which was decorated in original effect, Mr. Roy Morrison, in Turkish costume, told the fortunes of the guests. Indoors there were music and dancing for those who cared to participate, and refreshments were served out on the lawn. There were about fifty guests present. A number of their friends of Omaha and Benson attended and had a pleasant time that late hour. Ice cream and lunch were served.

The lawn west of the Methodist church presented a gay appearance Friday evening, the occasion being a "street fair," given by the young people for the church edifice. The fair was held from 7 o'clock over the lawn. At the side of the church a street fair with booths was built, where refreshments were served by young men dressed to represent different countries. The evening's entertainment consisted of a professional music and singing on the lawn, at the close of which was the auction of "old maids," who were bought by the young foreigners. After the sale a grand parade took place. There was also a "fish pond," where all kinds of fish were caught. Two hundred people visited the fair.

Bowling promises to reach a degree of organization this winter such as it has not hitherto attained in this city. The eight teams will be in better form than ever and among them a squad of the strongest bowlers in this part of the west is expected to develop. The team will meet on September 10 to arrange the playing schedules of the winter and other details with regard to the trophy, etc. Each team will play forty-two match games, the one with the highest percentage average to carry off the prize. The teams in the league will be the Omahans, Clarksons, Krugs, Peerless Cabines, Stirlings, Nationals, Gate Cities and St. Charles. The makeup of the teams is largely as it was a year ago. The Clarksons, however, have suffered two serious losses. King Denman has gone to the Black Hills and Frank Conrad will play this year with the Gate Cities. It is also proposed to form a commercial league, a number of wholesale houses having evinced a desire to put a team on the floor. Among the candidates for membership will be teams from the M. E. Smith company, the Paxton & Gallagher company and the Omaha Bedding company. The talk of a State Bowling league is more current this fall than ever and there is considerably more basis for such a project as half a dozen Nebraska towns have put in alleys during the summer. Lincoln has substituted a new set of alleys and the following towns have put in new sets: Plattsmouth, Grand Island, Beatrice, Nebraska City and Windsor.

There has been a much more frequent exchange of civilities lately between Omaha and outside towns establishing an entente which most eventually bear fruit. Plattsmouth played in Omaha last week and while that team is not sufficiently experienced to compete with the local veterans the event transpired most satisfactorily. Next Tuesday morning the Omahans leave for Nebraska City where they have contracted for a series of games with the best talent of the town. Rubberneck still continues in favor and the new game promises to take its place among the stand-bys. At Clark's alleys the high score in the game for the week was chalked up by W. T. Heft, who reached 322. D. J. O'Brien secured the prize at ten pins making the excellent record of 258. In nine pins the trophy for the week went to C. H. Mullin who made twenty in three successive games. Other high scores at ten pins were as follows: W. C. Brunke, 236; H. Besellin, 244,202,218; W. H. Emery, 206, 218; Charles French, 233, 202, 208; Charles Zarp, 215, 225; W. H. Wigman, 214, 209, 223, 200; H. L. Fowler, 215, 222; P. Conrad, 200; J. Burke, 206; H. W. Lehmann, 209, 203, 201, 200; W. T. Heft, 215; C. J. Francisco, 208, 201; Henry Baden, 210, 202; Grover Sherman, 202, 218, 209; Fred Sander, 201; R. A. Kells, 214, 200, 202, 228, 205; W. S. Shelton, 215; V. Hayes, 201; W. S. Cooper, 206; Frank Fogg, 226, 201, 229; M. R. Huntington, 200, 216, 214; Charles Seaman, 209; Billie Ambruster, 229; B. W. Christy, 203, 200; George Mack, 202; Tom Reynolds, 223; W. H. Stapenhorst, 200; H. C. Young, 245, 215; H. C. Reed, 201; D. J. O'Brien, 238; H. Fritscher, 200.
