MANDAMUS COUNTY CLERK

Judge Baker Issues Order for Hearing on Petition

TIME SET IS TUESDAY MORNING AT TEN

Republican County Committee Seeks to Have First District Commissioner Included in Election Notice.

An order was issued yesterday by Judge Baker in application of Attorney N. C. Pratt, in the name of Victor Rosewater, for a hearing on a petition for a peremptory writ of mandamus against County Clerk Haverly, to compel him to make his election proclamation call for an election of a county commissioner in the first commissioner district. The hearing is set for Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

The petition recites the action of the Board of County Commissioners in its recent gerrymandering resolution redistricting the county and its attempt to force the election of commissioners in the Second and Fourth districts, comprising the First district, consisting of the Fourth, Seventh and Eighth wards, entirely unrepresented on the board. The petition further sets up that County Clerk Haverly is preparing to end will follow the directions of the board's resolution and has commenced his election proclamation, unless a mandamus issues to compel him to call for an election in the First district.

"I am acting solely for the republican county committee," said Victor Rosewater. "When the matter of redistricting was first brought up our committee appointed a subcommittee, consisting of Mr. Morgan and myself, to investigate the situation and protect the interests of the Republicans. We have followed the matter step by step and are taking this action to secure an authoritative and final decision from the court on the points at issue. The democrats in their convention call have included the nomination of a commissioner from the district comprising the First, Second and Third wards. The republican call was specially framed to enable us to make our nomination for commissioner in the First district in case the court holds that an election is to be held there, as I believe it will.

"All we want is to have the matter decided early enough so that both conventions may make their nominations for the same district and the voters be given an opportunity to choose between the respective candidates, in which case we are sure the republican will be successful. The democrats ought to welcome the opportunity to settle the matter in this way."

GREAT LIVE STOCK SHOW

R. M. Allen Talks of Coming International Live Stock Exposition at Chicago.

R. M. Allen, general manager of the Standard Cattle company of Ames, was in the city yesterday. Mr. Allen has been appointed to the executive committee of the International Live Stock exposition and assigned to the range cattle department.

"The second international live stock exposition," said he, "will be given at the Union stock yards, Chicago, from November 20 to December 7 of this year, and it will undoubtedly be the greatest show of the kind ever given in this or any other country. The live stock exhibitions given in England have attracted the attention of the world for years, but our association is

RETURN OF PRESIDENT BURT

Head of Union Pacific System Comes Back from Conference with Mr. Harriman.

President Horace G. Burt of the Union Pacific returned yesterday from New York, where he had an extended conference with E. H. Harriman. Mr. Burt was too much occupied this morning with the business that had accumulated during his absence to talk to a reporter concerning the results of the conference. There is no doubt, however, that they are important and far-reaching.

A well posted railroad man said yesterday: "President Burt did something more than pay his personal respects to Mr. Harriman. Plans were decided upon which will give the Harriman roads the bulk of the Oriental traffic, as well as transcontinental passenger business. About October 1 you will see the time between Omaha and the coast on the Pacific's Overland Limited trains cut five hours or even more. It can be done easily and it will be done."

RUSSIANS OFFER UP PRAYER

Supplication is Made for President McKinley's Recovery—Abhorrence for the Assassins.

The Russian residents of the city congregated in large numbers yesterday morning at the Russian church, on Capitol avenue between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets, and offered up prayers for the immediate recovery of President McKinley. Rev. Grossman delivered an earnest address, deploring the assassin's attempt and it was the general feeling throughout the assembly that no punishment that could be inflicted would be severe enough. The death of the martyr by the hands of these assassins would be stamped out in this country at once.

LONDON EDITORS SYMPATHIZE

Say Death of No Man Outside of England Could Cause Such Feeling There.

(Copyright, 1901, by Press Publishing Co.) LONDON, Sept. 6.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—Commenting on the shooting of President McKinley, the Daily News says: "This ghastly outrage, by which a brave and upright governor of men perishes as Lincoln and Garfield perished in the execution of his duty, comes home to the hearts of Englishmen with a personality that can hardly be expressed. We are proud of America, and an act like this, which plunges the republic in bitter grief, reminds us, as nothing else can do, that we are members of the same household of one bone and flesh of one flesh. The death of no public man outside this country could affect us like the death of an American president.

ADVERSE TO A BODY GUARD

President Exceedingly Informal and Democratic in His Daily Habits.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—President McKinley was averse to a bodyguard or to restrictions on his movements and was exceedingly informal and democratic while in this city. On many pleasant mornings he indulged in a half hour stroll entirely alone, through the southern portion of the grounds surrounding the White House. Very often he left the gate at the western side of the grounds and was joined by Comptroller of the Currency Charles Daws, also an early riser, and together these two men would make the circuit of the ellipse, south of the White House grounds. Upon these occasions he was never accompanied by a bodyguard or a secret service man. It is said Mr. McKinley was often warned that the strolls alone were dangerous, the idea of which he ridiculed.

Frequently Mr. McKinley drove all no about the city and its suburbs. Often the president himself handled the reins, but at no time was there ever a secret service man in attendance, either near or at a distance. The closest attendant in the secret service force that he had was George Foster, who constituted his personal bodyguard.

A few days ago a Washington Post reporter, while at Buffalo, inquired of Captain Valley of the expedition force on the precautions he would take to insure the president's safety. The captain said he had the picked men of the country under him and that all the time the president was in the exposition ground he would be surrounded by alert detectives who would form a constant bodyguard, and ridiculed the possibility of danger.

POUNCES ON A DETRACTOR

People in No Humor to Listen to Talk of Sympathizers of Assassins.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Detective Price had all he could do on a Fourth avenue electric car to save a man who denounced President McKinley. The man, speaking in a loud voice, said hard things of the wounded president. Several men standing on the rear of the car asked the man to not only stop cursing but to stop denouncing the president.

"I have done as much good for this country as McKinley has," the man declared. "If I were shot there would not be any use and cry."

"Well you have done all the good you are going to do," one of the hearers said and struck the man full in the face. Before the man could strike back as he started to do, half a dozen men had pounced upon him. He was pulled down and was being kicked and beaten when Detective Price, who was on the front of the car, came to his assistance. The car stopped and Price, aided by the motorman, fought the man back. The man finally succeeded in making his escape.
