Fight in Omaha.

Out in the Eighth ward in the city of Omaha the Jacksonian club undertook to hog the delegation by putting up a ticket without a representative of the Douglas County Democracy on it, and the last named organization jumped into the field with its well done burlesque of the conventional own straight ticket and smothered the Jacksonians with one of those "glorious defeats" so frequently spoken of by the peer less leader. Joseph Butler headed the winning Douglas County Democracy ticket with soap. Sixteen lumps of sugar play the ninety-eight votes, and his colleagues ran part of "Sweet Sixteen." Indeed, while it is commodious and clean. and new, it created the impression of an impromptu courthouse in a frontier community. With the exception of two large flags and a huge golden eagle on the lead-colored wall back of the court, the walls of the court hall were entirely free from decorations and the floors were innocent of car peting; not even were the large windows shaded. The seats except those inside the railing, were campchairs. The elevator and the electric fans plied noisily and there was a smell of fresh paint on every hand. Captain Lemly, judge advocate general, was the first official to arrive. He came in with his assistant, Mr E. P. At this point Judge Advocate General Lemly introduced the official reporter of the court's proceedings, Mr. Hulse, and his own assistant counsel, Mr. Hanna. Admiral Schley also introduced his counsel, Judge J. M. Wilson, Hon. Isidor Raynor and Captain James Parker.

Formal Proceedings Begun.

The formal proceedings of the court were begun with reading by Captain Lemiy of Admiral Schley's letter requesting the convening of the court and the Navy department's planes.

The court assumed a listening attitude. but Admiral Schley, known as "the applitention to the document. The admiral gave closer attention, however, when the judge advocate began the reading of the order appotuting Rear Admiral Howlson a member of the court in place of Rear Admiral Kimberly, and he continued to give careful heed when his letter to the department asking for a modification of paragraph five of the precept, regarding Admiral Schley's disobedience of brders was read, together with the department's refusal to comply with the request.

None of these documents received more than perfunctory attention from the auditors, but there was a general change of attitude when the next order of proceeding was reached. This was the challenge on all good and worth from 1-3 to | more the part of Rear Admiral Schley of Rear than we are selling them for at this sale. Schley Objects to Howison.

At 1:30 p. m. Admiral Schley arose and said that with extreme regret he was obliged to challenge Admiral Howison as
