

RETURN OF A PIONEER

H. Russell who Helped Build the Union Pacific in Omaha.

HIS FIRST VISIT HERE SINCE 1869

Mr. Russell is the Guest of Assistant Auditor Bettis and is Busy Re-viewing Old Acquaintances—Going West in Private Car.

H. Russell, chief engineer of the Boston & Maine, spent Monday in Omaha as the guest of H. L. Bettis, assistant general auditor of the Union Pacific.

Mr. Russell was engaged upon the Union Pacific construction from 1864 until after the golden spike was driven in 1869. He had something to do with every part of the first 420 miles from Omaha, in charge of the location on some portions and the grading and track laying on others. He was afterwards on the construction from Dale creek to Laramie and at Ogden.

Mr. Russell had not been west since he left Omaha in 1869 and the day was spent in looking over the great improvements made since that time and in visiting old acquaintances, William Paxton, James Boyd, Andrew Rosewater and others. He spent considerable time at Union Pacific headquarters leaving from Chief Engineer Berry of the recent great changes made on the road.

A private car was placed at his disposal by President Burt and he left on No. 101 yesterday. He will ride over the road by daylight to Ogden and no doubt will be greatly surprised at the growth and changes during the last thirty-two years.

LOOKING TO FUTURE EXTENSION. Chicago Great Western Stocking Up on Equipment.

The Chicago Great Western is preparing for its entry next spring into Omaha and Sioux City by placing a large order for locomotive equipment.

Its recent order for heavy prairie type freight locomotives has been doubled and instructions sent to the American Locomotive company to deliver forty-one locomotives in March, 1902, instead of twenty-one. The action was suddenly decided upon by President Stickney to meet the constantly increasing demand of freight traffic over the Chicago Great Western lines and to prepare for the still greater increase in prospect as soon as the new branches are completed.

The order represents one of the largest single contracts ever placed by an American road of the Great Western's mileage. The locomotives are of a type recently introduced and are especially adapted to the heaviest freight service. They weigh remarkably low rates at Illinois Central city ticket office, 1402 Farnam street, or address W. H. Brill, D. P. A., Omaha, Neb.

EVANS-PULLMAN MARRIAGE

Daughter of Omaha Army Officer Becomes Bride of 'Fighting Bob's' Son.

Major John Pullman, quartermaster of the Department of the Missouri, returned to Omaha yesterday from Fort Monroe, Va., where he attended the wedding of his daughter, Miss Gertrude Pullman, to Lieutenant Frank T. Evans, U. S. N. Lieutenant Evans is the son of Admiral Robley D. Evans, U. S. N., and the wedding attracted wide attention throughout the country.

The marriage of Lieutenant Frank Taylor Evans, United States navy, son of Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans, United States navy, and Miss Gertrude Pullman, daughter of Major John Pullman of the quartermaster's department of the United States army, occurred this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the residence of Lieutenant Colonel Robert M. O'Reilly, surgeon, United States army, owing to a recent bereavement in the family of the bride only relatives and a few intimate friends of the contracting parties witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Reynolds, chaplain, United States navy.

The house was elaborately decorated with many palms and boxes of oranges. The band from the United States flag ship Kearsarge played the wedding march from "Lohengrin" as the bridal party entered the room and "O Perfect Love" during the ceremony. The bride wore a dress of China crepe with garniture of Maltese lace and carried a bouquet of white roses.

The bridesmaids, Miss Virginia Evans, a sister of the bride, and Miss Frances Parde O'Reilly, were dressed alike in blue crepe and carried white carnations tied with streamers of blue muslin. The groom wore a tuxedo and a white carnation in his buttonhole.

Mr. Harold Sewall of Boston attended the bridegroom and best man and the ushers were Cadwallader Fitzpatrick and William O'Reilly of the United States navy. Shortly after the ceremony, Lieutenant and Mrs. Evans left for Washington and there will go on their wedding journey.
