WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 .- News was received here tonight of the death by burning of a sister of Captain Lemly, judge advo- for." cate of the Schley court of inquiry, in North Carolina today. Immediately on receipt of the news, Admiral Schley and his counsel sent word to Captain Lemley, offering to move the court to adjourn tomorrow, but the captain had retired and could not be

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 .- As Interesting feature of the Schley court of inquiry was introduced today immediately after the noon recess: Rear Admiral Evans, who as captain commanded ae battleship Iowa during the battle of Santiago, was called to the witness stand. He stated that he had first joined the flying squadron off Cienfuegos on May 22 at 1 p. m., when he took the dispatches from Admiral Sampson to Commodore Schley. These dispatches he ent to Commodore Schley by his executive officer, Commander Rogers, he not seeing the commodore himself. As the dispatches were scaled he did not know their contents. Witness said the squadron had done nothing to find out certainly if Cervera was in Cienfuegos harbor. "What, if anything, within your knowledge was done toward destroying or preventing the further completion of the enemy's batteries in the vicinity of Cienfuegos?' 'On Sunday afternoon, I am quite sure It was, Commodore Schley formed his squadron in columns and stood in to a range of about a mile and a half from shore, made a turn and stood out again. That is the only thing I knew." Was any attack made upon the enemy at that time?" 'No, they all got up and stood on the breastworks and looked at us. We steamed out again. There was no firing."

Were you within range of the batteries with the heavier guns of your ship?" "I did not see any batteries. There was a work they were completing there.'

lown Was Within Range. "Were you within range of this with the four-inch guns of lowa?" "I should think so, yes."

"Did Iowa coal ship while in Cienfuegos and, if so, how much did it take?" "We took on 250 tons of coal on the 23d.

Admiral Evans said that he had coaled Iowa from Merrimae on May 23 while off Cienfuegos and that he had no difficulty in doing so. Speaking of the report of the condition of the weather made by Iowa on May 24 and 25, the witness said on the evening of the 24th it was squally; that on the morning of the 25 the sky was overcast and that the weather was again squally; in the afternoon it was worse, there being considerable rain with a long sea. He said that after leaving Cienfuegos the vessel had steamed to a point about thirty miles of Zululand. The burghers were finally reuth of Santiago, arrived there on the ning of the 26th and that at that time nadron was heading to the east. The eather at that time, he said, was not such as to prevent the coaling of ships at that date. Iowa at that time had about 825 tons of coal aboard, or sufficient for steaming 3,000 miles. On blockade the ship used thirty or forty tons of coal a

Doesn't Know Why They Backed Up. "Why was the retrograde movement made?" asked Judge Advocate Lemly. "I do not know," was the reply.

The witness said he could have coaled at sea on the 24th, as the sea was smooth. 'Was any effort made by the flying aquadron on May 24, 25 or 30 to communicate with the insurgents on shore near Santiago?" "None to my knowledge."

Testifying that he had first seen Colon on May 29, Admiral Evans said that vessel was not inside the harbor at all, but was about 200 yards inside the Morro. He then detailed the particulars of the bombardment of Colon on May 31, saying that on the forenoon of that day Commodore Schley had signaled to transfer the flag to Massachusetts, that he was going in to engage Colon and in describing that engagement ne said:

'About five minutes to I o'clock I saw the first shot from Massachusetts fall sbort a long distance and, supposing it was firing at 7,000 yards. I gave the range to my guns 8,000 yards. I saw these shots fall short and increased the range to 9,500 yards. After Massachusetts had passed the entrance to the harbor it turned with port helm and steamed back. New Orleans and Iowa following. On the run back across the harbor I again fired at 10,000 yards. These shots still fell short and, as Massachusetts and New Orleans slowed down and stopped after they got across, slowed down my engines, then increased the range to 11,000 yards. I saw that it fell short. Lieutenant Hill had the other gun in that turret and I gave him the range at 11,500 yards and he fired and that shot struck very near the stern of Colon. Both twelve-inch guns were disabled by the fire from that extreme elevation. After that we stood a mile and a half, possibly two miles, to our blockading station again That was all I saw done to injure Colon.

Describes the Blockade. The witness was then asked about the blockade off Santiago under Commodore Schley. He said the squadron stood seven or eight miles out during the daytime and a little farther out et night, with Vixen and Marblehead on the inside at night The judge advocate asked the witness concerning a statement by a lieutenant of the ment to the effect that at dark the American ships withdrew to the southward, disappearing. All of the commissioned officers and the members of the company in general last Private Deprend and really believed that no good purpose. Today only one of the commissioned officers adhered to the belief that an attempt had been made on the sentinel for ghoulish purposes. He said: "It was the real thing. It was prompted by the pure cussedness of some people who thought to bring repreach upon the nation by doing damage to the resting place of the dead president."

Believe Deprend At Least Houest.

All the men who were seen today expressed the belief that Private Deprend acted in good faith and that he related only what he believed to be the real circumstances. With the captain and others he went over the details of the whole affair at least a dozen times and, it is said, never varied in a matter of importance. Particular inquiry was made as to his sobriety at the time and it is said that it is established beyond all reasonable doubt that he in his normal condition. Captain Biddle's Theory. Captain Biddle thanked the reporters for what he called the fair manner in which the incident had been described in thmorning reports, saying they gave a full and complete statement of facts, as far as revealed last night. He was fully convinced last night of the truth of the story as related, but after investigation entertained doubts, not of the sincerity of Private Deprend, but of the correctness of the conclusions. Captain Biddle authorized this statement: "I think the sentinel deceived himself on the occurrence. I do not no evidence found of a struggle. The matter has been reported in full to General Otis at Chicago, commanding the department to which the guard is attached. Whether there will be a formal inquiry into the matter remains for General Otis to determine. Officers at the cemetery expressed the hope that inasmuch as no harm had been done no formal action would be taken. Cook Explains Criticisms.

Sergeant Cook, who was reported to have heard remarks Sunday afternoon among visitors, further explained as follows: "I was on duty at the guard tent near the vault Sunday afternoon. There were three funerals at the cemetery and many people passing all the time. Three men, representative looking men, such as come by the score every day, spoke to me. One man said he did not see the use of all this fuss; that no one would try to do any harm now. The third man said he was mistaken; that there were lots of people who would like to see the whole thing blown up. No. I had not then nor have I now any suspicion that violence. I think they were speaking of
