CHARGED WITH HIGH TREASON

Former Governor of Johannesburg Arraigned in Bow Street Court.

BREAKS ARMISTICE WITH LORD ROBERTS

Asks for Time to Stop Street Fighting and in Meantime Smuggles Out Soldiers and Money to Pretoria.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Dr. Krause, the former governor of Johannesburg, who was arrested September 2 on the charge of high treason, was arraigned in the extradition court at Bow Street today and charged with high treason and incitement to murder. The former charge is connected with the surrender of Johannesburg when, according to the public prosecutor, Dr. Krause obtained from Lord Roberts twenty-four hours' armistice on the plea that street fighting would thereby be obviated, and utilized the period in getting all the Boer fighters out of town and sending £180,000 to Pretoria. After Dr. Krause had been paroled he went to Europe and applied to Dr. Leyds, the agent of the Transvaal, for money on account of these services.

The prosecution introduced evidence to show that Dr. Krause was in communication with Dr. Cornelius Boreckeman, the public prosecutor of Johannesburg, who was executed September 20 last for treason, and that he urged the necessity for the shooting or otherwise disposing of the Douglas's, an English lawyer attached to Lord Roberts' staff, who was very active against the Boers.

The prosecution introduced a letter in which Dr. Krause described Lord Milner as "a man of straw" and an enemy of the Boer national existence and a willing tool of "jingos," and advised the burghers to break their oaths and shoot traitors.

EVIDENCE OF FRAUD LACKING

Collector Takes Legal Advice and Declines Not to Seize Goods in Controversy.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—After an exhaustive investigation covering every phase of the case, United States Attorney Henry L. Burnett has written an opinion and filed conclusions showing that the reports of so-called "silk frauds" in the custom house in this city were greatly exaggerated. Several weeks ago it was feared that the amounts lost to the government might run into the millions. The collector of customs, however, acting upon legal advice, has declined to seize the merchandise covered by invoice No. 14367, which invoice was returned by the importer as fraudulent. After an investigation of the circumstance surrounding this case it is the opinion of the collector and the experts of his office that the charge of fraudulent intent cannot be sustained. Therefore the goods are not subject to seizure, and this being the only question presented in regard to the invoice, the entry will be liquidated in regular course. Invoice No. 14367, which was submitted with all the evidence to the United States attorney, who would be the prosecuting attorney in case the collector should secure a warrant by the collector as one of the strongest cases against the importers.

GUARANTEE COMPANY FAILS

Cleveland Firm Insolvent and Asks for the Appointment of Trustees.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 8.—Fred L. Taft, as attorney for the Guarantee Savings and Loan company of Cleveland, today appeared in the supreme court and admitted that that concern was insolvent and asked the appointment of trustees. The court appointed Messrs. Taft and J. B. Livingston. Mr. Livingston made the following statement, in part:

The Non-Irritating Cathartic

Easy to take, easy to operate—Hood's Pills

TREATY IS IN FREE SPIRIT

Neither Uncle Sam Nor John Bull Makes Any Real Sacrifice.

SIMPLY SHIFT BURDEN OF GUARANTEE

England Relieved of Troublesome Feature Without Any Serious Violation of Real Principle of Clayton-Bulwer Compact.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—There has been no surrender by England to the United States in the matter of the new fisherman canal treaty, according to the best authority here. It is said to be equally true that the United States has sacrificed no principle in these negotiations. It is said that what actually has happened is that each side has preserved the underlying principle of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and the new convention will provide for a waterway neutral at all times and open to commerce of the world. The Clayton-Bulwer treaty, however, drawn half a century ago, has proved to be defective in mechanism for giving effect to this purpose. The new treaty simply provides this mechanism. England is relieved from the guaranty, which in its case was only troublesome and which, being assumed by the United States in toto, is quite as effective.

As viewed from the American point of view, there was no surrender on England's part in seeking this relief, inasmuch as the above mentioned principle is reiterated and affirmed as binding upon the United States. As for the form of the treaty it may be stated that it embodies in substance the amendments to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty which were signed by the senate and beyond that the changes are believed to be textual rather than substantial.

LINE UP BEFORE LAND OFFICE

Contestants for Indian Lands Begin Making Trouble for the Perplexed Register.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The Interior department received dispatches today from Oklahoma officially reporting the results of throwing open to entry the lands included within the recently opened domain of the Wichita and the Kiowa, Comanche and Apache reservations, and drawn for but never applied for by the lucky contestants. There were many of these claims in which those whose names had been otherwise provided for. These lands were made subject to entry under the regular land laws last Saturday. Register Slicks and Receiver Reed at El Reno report that 196 entries were allowed Saturday and yesterday. There also were twenty applications that were in conflict, which cover twenty tracts, making a total of 226 entries. Contents of claims filed today at El Reno numbered twenty-seven.

There were 300 men in line before the land office opened these today. From Lawton, Okla., Register McKnight and Receiver Maguire reported that 319 persons presented applications for the lands at 9 o'clock Saturday morning. It took all of that day to arrange them and to determine the conflicts with the entries already made. Yesterday there were several entries made and three soldiers' declaratory statements filed.

Of the entries one was rejected and four suspended. Fully 1,000 claims are still open to entry at Lawton. A line of over 200 formed there early today and was increasing rapidly as the report was telegraphed.

ARITHMETICS ARE SEIZED

Pictures of United States Coins Give Textbook Classification as Counterfeiting.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The representative of a book publishing house called on Assistant Secretary Taylor at the Treasury department today to ask for relief from the seizure of several thousand arithmetics by the secret service. Those arithmetics were printed for use in the schools of the Philippines and contained pictures of American coins. As any printed facsimile of an American obligation is in violation of the counterfeiting laws the arithmetic was suppressed. The publishers contend that a wrong has been done, as the pictures were educational in the schools and necessary in the Philippines. The question will be taken up by Secretary Gage on his return to Washington about the 15th of the present month.

War and Navy Appointments.

Her first husband was Samuel Berrall of Philadelphia.

PROF. ROBINSON, Musical Director.

ODGEN, Utah, Oct. 8.—Prof. Robinson, well known to theatrical people, died of heart disease in this city today. He had led the orchestra for the Castle Square companies in New York and Chicago and later was connected with the Southwell company. Robinson came to Ogden about a year ago with an opera company, which was disbanded. Since then he had resided here.

MONEY SPENT IN POLITICS

Candidates for Nominations File Official Expense Accounts.

SOME ARE EASY, WHILE OTHERS ARE CLOSE

Judge Vinsonholder Stands First in the List of Liberal Spenders, While Jim Connolly and a Few Others Come Out Untouched.

Most all of the late candidates for nominations on the several county tickets have filed with the county clerk sworn statements of the expenses incurred by them in the preliminary struggle. The primary fight was more expensive for Judge Vinsonholder than for any other candidate, for the reason that he was required to pay the bills relating to his delegate tickets with the county committee, one from the Fourth and the other from the Seventh ward. The judge's expense account amounts to $99.80, of which $50 was spent for filing delegations, $28 for livery, $45 for the Valley Enterprise and the remainder for printing.

Unit Gets in Cheap.

George McBride's preliminary contest cost him $61, including $40 advanced for the filing of the South Omaha delegation, $5 each for three county newspapers and $10 for printing. Charles Miller must have prevailed upon some of the Ninth ward delegates to pay their own filing fees, for his expense account shows that he only advanced the sum of $11 for that purpose, besides spending $10 for two hanks on primary day and $1.50 for printing.

County Superintendent Bodwell's Nomination.

County Superintendent Bodwell's nomination cost him $35, P. A. Edquist paid out $15.60 in his canvass for the surveyor's nomination and Louis Berka took the police judge place on the republican ticket after contributing $5 to the campaign fund of the Vinsonholder ticket at the seventh ward primary.

John Power made his preliminary canvass.

John Power made his preliminary canvass at an expense of only $15, of which $10 went to the Quill and $5 to the Valley Enterprise. Editor Byers, by the way, seems to have overlooked very few of the candidates in the earliest stage of this year's political game. Harry Miller states that he spent only $3.50 before the democratic convention, and Harry Deuel says his expense amounted to only $11.50, for carriage hire on a trip through the county.

Connolly is Lucky.

Dick O'Keefe was somewhat more liberal than the other democratic candidates, having spent $29.40 for printing and $7.50 for preliminary expenses. Jim Connolly took pride in writing across the top of his statement, in bold letters, "Not one cent." Fred Elsas and John Grossman also reported their primary expense nil.

Edward R. Duffe has filed a statement.

Edward R. Duffe has filed a statement declaring that he spent only 20 cents in his campaign for the republican nomination for supreme court justice, and that went for postage court justice, and that went for Justice Keyser, who was after the same place on the republican ticket, spent $17.25, of which $10 was for his hotel bill at Lincoln.

Harry L. Davis, who made a fruitless canvass for the republican nomination for

Harry L. Davis, who made a fruitless canvass for the republican nomination for corner, spent $50, and Grant Williams, who wanted to run for registrar of deeds, parted with $32.75. Tom Hoctor expended $28 in boasting himself for a third term on the county board, and he doesn't think he got any more than his money's worth.

POPULISTS JOIN DEMOCRATS

County Central Committee Decides to Endorse Democratic Ticket.

The identity of the populist party in Douglas county, about which there has been considerable fuss during the last few weeks, has been sunk. The sinking was done last night when the county central committee of the populists met and endorsed the entire democratic county ticket, with the exception of two candidates for justices of the peace.

Mr. Marsh, who was nominated by the pop convention for county clerk, had to go down again on the deal of courthouse jobs for active pops, which was consummated last night. Ever since the adjournment of the convention, which gave to its central committee the power to take down and put up candidates, John O. Vetsler and other leaders have been declaring in most emphatic terms that the democratic would either have to make room for Mr. Marsh or a populist candidate for county judge on their ticket or there would be no fusion.

Despite the strong bluff thrown about by Vetsler and his associates the knowing ones have been aware of the fact that the pop never really intended to put up a straight ticket of their own. Even half-witted politicians have realized that a straight populist ticket, if nominated, would get a meager vote that would sound the death knell of populism in Douglas county, and make fusion deals impossible in the future. So no one suspected that the pop leaders would put up a straight ticket. The bluff was intended merely to force as good a bargain as possible with the democrats for pops contingent upon the success of all or a part of the democratic ticket.

Terms of the Deal.

The bargain made, it is understood, is for the retention of Elmer H. Howell in the county attorney's office, of Laurie Quinby in the office of the clerk of the courts, of Jim Jones as a deputy sheriff, of Barnet and Williams in the treasurer's office and of a number of other pops now on the county payroll; also for the appointment of about ten other pops to the exclusion of so many democrats in the event of the election of the fusion candidates for county judge, registrar of deeds, county clerk and surveyor.

The deal has been under way ever since the adjournment of the democratic and populist conventions, with Ed Howell conducting the negotiations in behalf of the democratic candidates. The bargain made by Howell will be anything but satisfactory to the Douglas county democracy, whose leaders are so bitterly opposed to fusion. "We don't care to electing democratic officials in the county who will give a big share of the best appointments to pops, who really do not control more than 200 votes in the entire county," is the way one of the Douglas county leaders expressed himself last night when he heard that the deal had gone through.

EIGHTH WARD REPUBLICANS

James H. Van Dusen and the Candidates Addressed Well Attended Meeting.

Republicans of the Eighth ward held a well attended and enthusiastic meeting at the corner of Sumner and Twenty-second streets last night. James H. Van Dusen delivered the principal speech of the evening.

INVENTOR SEEKS A WIFE

Brasilli B. Britts Wants to Marry Woman with $1,000.

GOO-GOO EYES AND LOVE DO NOT COUNT

Mr. Britts Doesn't Care a Rap for a Vine-Clad Cottage and Dream of Bliss, but He Needs the Money.

Brasilli B. Britts of South Omaha, an inventor wants to marry a woman with $1,000, who will be willing to let him use the money in the development of his invention.

"If the dukes and other titled gentlemen of Europe haven't married the American heiresses," writes Brasilli to the Bee "I would like to have a chance at one of them myself. I consider myself better than any of the pampered nobility of the Orient, and my idea of perpetual motion better than a coronet. Moreover, I have no back debts for my future wife to pay. To the newspaper that will help me get such a wife I will pay $1,000 in one year's time."

Mr. Britts is reticent as to the nature of his great idea, but from hints dropped in conversation it would seem that he had invented something that will be to the mechanical world what Brown's Squard elixir and Ponce de Leon's fountain of youth promised to be to corporeal man. It will be an emancipator from drudgery, enabling people to live like the gods of mythology, without work. All power will be furnished free. Even the intelligence of applying it will be mechanical. Britts will make the first machine, which in turn will make the first machine, which in turn will make the first machine, and so on. As the enthusiast observes:

Flies have smaller fleas to eat 'em, and these in turn have other fleas, and so on, and so on. Mr. Britts wants a vast deal of energy is wasted in this world, and to prove his theory cites the birds of the air. It is from the seagull and the hawk that he gets his inspiration; they furnish him the idea for the basic principle of his machine.

SUES OMAHA SAVINGS BANK

Creditor Wants to Realize on Property Deeded to Omaha Realty Company.

Simon Bloom, who has an unpaid claim of $210 against the Omaha Savings bank, has begun suit in the district court in an effort to have certain affairs of that defunct institution straightened out. The case is brought against the bank and the Omaha Realty company, which is said to be its off-spring.

Mr. Bloom sets forth that the bank after it became insolvent, transferred real estate of the actual value of $200,000 to the Omaha Realty company and that the deed of conveyance mentioned $1 as the consideration. He asks the court to compel the officers of the bank and of the realty company to disclose the actual consideration of the transfer and to appoint a receiver to take charge of the property involved and convert it into cash, to distribute pro rata among the creditors of the bank.
